32 PER CENT MAXIMUM SURTAX IS PROPOSED

Smoot Tries for Compromise Between Mellon 25 and Democratic 40 Per Cent Rates but Action Is Delayed by Farm-Relief Demand.

MEASURE UP FOR FINAL PASSAGE

Repeal of Tax on Telephone and Telegraph Messages Voted as Urged by Mellon and Approved by the House.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 9.—Disposing rapidly of pending amendments, the Senate today brought the revenue bill up for final passage. Before the final vote, however, separate action was asked for on a number of important amendments which had been adopted in committee of the whole.

Repeal of the tax on telephone and telegraph messages was voted, 61 to 22, and then it was agreed to take up again the surtax schedule. Repeal of the mortgage tax had been recommended by Secretary Mellon and approved by the House.

DEMOCRATS WRITE IN AMENDMENTS

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The Democratic majority yesterday wrote in amendments to the Mellon tax bill, changing the original Mellon tax plan in such a way that its author would not be able to recognize it.

Amendments reported from the Finance Committee were concluded when Senator Walsh (Dem., Massachusetts) proposed a gift levy to serve as a mother tax for the inheritance tax, which he succeeded in getting into the bill Wednesday night as a substitute for the estate tax. Walsh proposed gift rates identical with his inheritance rates—1 per cent up to 35 per cent, with exemptions of $50,000 for members of the immediate family and $10,000 for others.

METHODISTS VOTE FOR ORDINATION OF WOMEN

Their Function as Ministers, However, to Be Limited to That of "Local Preachers."

By the Associated Press. SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 9.—The ordination of women as local preachers in the Methodist ministry was approved by the Methodist Episcopal general conference today, by a decisive majority.

Their admission to the itinerancy and to membership in the annual conference was almost unanimously defeated.

It was a partial victory for the feminist element, for women have never before been granted ordination, with its concurrent right to administer the sacraments, although since 1920 they have been entitled to temporary settlement as local pastors.

The pending unification of the Northern and Southern churches, notified by the general conference last Wednesday, would be imperiled if a change in the annual conference membership were adopted, it was argued.

Indorsement of President Coolidge's request that the effective date of legislation excluding the Japanese from this country be postponed until March 1, 1925, was expressed in a resolution passed by the delegates.

The local preachers in the Methodist church do not have the full responsibility of ministers and may not be regularly assigned to stations. However, they may preach in place of regular ministers.

HEAD OF DEFUNCT BANK GIVES UP TO LARCENY INDICTMENT

Institution Closed in December With $400,000 Shortage—Indicted on Eight Counts.

By the Associated Press. PUEBLO, Mo., May 9.—D. F. Walser, president of the defunct Bank of Pueblo, which closed last December with a shortage of approximately $400,000, surrendered at Dexter today on a Stoddard County grand jury indictment, charging embezzlement, grand larceny and acceptance of deposits while the institution was insolvent.

The indictment was returned April 12, but was suppressed pending arrest of Walser, who has been seriously ill at his home. Bond was fixed at $25,000, which the former banker furnished immediately.

The indictment contains eight counts. The amount specified in the grand larceny and embezzlement charge is $400,000.

J. Carroll Walser, 24, former cashier of the bank and a son of D. F. Walser, was arrested April 24 on a similar indictment. The cases are scheduled for the St. Louis Circuit Court term at Bloomfield.

SALOON LEAGUE SEEKING TO SAVE GUS NATIONS' JOB

Missouri Congressmen Are Urged to "Get in Touch With White House and Vigorously Protest Against Removal."

OFFICIALS SILENT ON RECOMMENDATIONS

Appeal of State Superintendent of Drys, Telegraphed to Nine Lawmakers, Apparently Meets No Response.

Post-Dispatch Bureau. 20-22 Wyatt Building. WASHINGTON, May 9.—The appeal of A. H. Post, Superintendent of the Antisaloons League of Missouri, to Senator Spencer and Missouri "dry" representatives, asking for their cooperation in a protest against removal of Gus O. Nations as Chief Federal Prohibition Enforcement Agent in Missouri, apparently has been fruitless, for as far as can be learned none of the Congressmen has intimated with prohibition Commissioner Haynes, or at the White House, in Nations' behalf.

The text of Dr. Post's telegram follows:

May we respectfully request your co-operation in protesting against the proposed removal of Gus Nations, Chief Federal Prohibition Field Force, Missouri.

Suggest you get in touch with White House, compelling Nations' fine record as public official and vigorously protest against his removal.

(Signed) A. H. POST, Superintendent Antisaloons League of Missouri.

This telegram was the first indication most of the Representatives had of any proposed removal of Nations, whose brother, Heber, has been indicted for conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act in the "protected" beer scandal in St. Louis.

Few Know Gus Nations. Only one or two of the Representatives knew Gus Nations, out all but one knew his brother. None of the St. Louis Representatives received Dr. Post's telegram, as they are classified as "wet."

They were all in the city when they were called to the capitol to vote on the "protected" beer scandal in St. Louis.

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloons League, said yesterday that the Missouri branch of the organization had sent out the telegram because there was a rumor that the Special Intelligence Unit of the Internal Revenue Bureau would soon recommend that Gus Nations be removed. Agents of this special unit made the investigation in St. Louis which led to the indictment of Charles S. Prather, former State Food and Drug Inspector; Raymond Grieselbeck, brewer, and finally Heber Nations, State Labor Commissioner.

When asked the source of this rumor, Wheeler would only say, "It is a report which has reached us."

Officials Noncommittal. Commissioner Haynes was asked today if the Intelligence Unit had recommended Gus Nations' removal. "You will have to ask them about that," was the reply. He emphasized the fact that the prohibition unit is strongly behind Gus Nations and hopes that he will be retained.

Elmer Irey, Chief of the Intelligence Unit, when asked if Nations' removal had been recommended, said: "There is nothing I can say on the Nations case at this time. I am hoping for a decision within the next two or three days."

The usual procedure in the Internal Revenue Bureau is that when one commissioner makes a recommendation affecting another department the head of the department affected is asked to concur in the recommendation. The final decision is then up to D. H. Blair, Commissioner of the Bureau.

Should this procedure be followed in the Nations case, Irey and Haynes would send memoranda to Blair.

When Haynes was asked who was back of the move for Nations' removal, he said, "there is no special group." When asked what that meant, he explained that there was no group in Missouri trying to get him to remove Nations.

Haynes was emphatic in stating that the indictment of Heber Nations had no connection with the move to remove Gus Nations.

SIX HANGED IN PAIRS FOR MURDER OF LOUISIANA MAN

One of Italians Put to Death at Amite, La., Carried to Gallows in Unconscious Condition.

ANOTHER ATTEMPTS TO CHEAT NOOSE

Two White Men, One Past 70, and a Negro Are Executed in Kentucky Penitentiary.

By the Associated Press. AMITE, La., May 9.—The hanging of six Italians for the murder, three years ago of Dallas Calmes, who frustrated an attempt of the sextet to rob a bank at Independence, La., was completed here this afternoon, when the trap was sprung on the last two at 1:16 p. m. The first pair were hanged at 12:01 p. m. and the second pair at 12:37 p. m.

Roy Leona, the actual slayer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Natale Deamora, of New Orleans, the first pair, were carried to the gallows in pairs on the double gallows.

Andrea Lamentia of Chicago scratched himself with a pocket-knife and Joseph Bocchio, also of Chicago, collapsed early today, so they were hanged next, Lamentia seated in a chair.

Joseph Giglio of Brooklyn and Joseph Rini of New Orleans, the last pair, were dropped through the trap at 1:16 p. m. and were hanged last. Both talked freely to the end.

Order for Execution Changed. Rini was American-born, and Giglio a naturalized citizen. Bocchio had a record for being a member of the Italian Mafia, and Giglio retained their native foreign citizenship.

The death march of the six men began at the Tangipahoa Parish jail at 11:55 o'clock. Deamora was led in pairs on the double gallows, accompanied by a priest. The order of execution was changed and Leona went to the scaffold with him. The Sheriff previously had planned to hang the men in alphabetical order in pairs on the double gallows.

The priest stood with his hand on Leona's shoulder while a second priest was beside Deamora. The executioner put the noose around Leona's neck and adjusted the black cap. The same procedure was gone through for Deamora. The double trap was sprung at 12:01 p. m.

The men apparently died instantly. Under the law, they were to hang for 20 minutes.

Lamentia Apparently Unconscious. Giglio and Rini were led out of their cells at 12:12, accompanied by two priests. Rini and Giglio, after a few minutes of waiting, began to pace back and forth. Both apparently were determined to die gamely.

After Lamentia had cut himself with a knife, Rini and Giglio were returned to their cells and Bocchio and Lamentia were brought out. The trap was set for the second pair at 12:25 p. m.

Bocchio had to be supported as he was placed on the trap. Lamentia apparently was unconscious as he was placed on the trap and a priest held him erect as he was a prayer. Bocchio had been visibly in a state of coma since he appeared early today. Lamentia apparently was unconscious as he was carried to the scaffold. The chair on which he was seated fell through the trap, which was sprung at 12:37 p. m.

Lamentia and Bocchio were pronounced dead at 12:44 and 12:45 p. m.

Rini Protests His Innocence. A new rope was installed to the tray of the trap, and at 1:07 p. m. Giglio and Rini were led from their cells.

Waiting their turn, Rini and Giglio paced up and down in their cell. Rini hearing the clatter of a telegraph instrument in the cupola above wanted to know what it was. "Newspaper," said Jailer Johnson.

"Have they sent out the news that we have been hanged?" asked Rini. "No," replied Johnson, "they haven't done it."

Rini protested his innocence. "They're hanging five innocent men," he said. "I am innocent. I am guilty of murder, Leona. The last wish I have is that capital punishment will be abolished in this country. I hope we are the last."

As he was led to the scaffold Deamora said: "I am going to Heaven." As the mask was being adjusted he cried: "They hang me! They hang me!" Leona kissed "New Orleans."

PRISONERS TO BE SEEN BUT NOT TO SEE WITNESSES

"Shadow Box" for Identification Devised by Chief of Detectives.

Suspects who "used to frighten timid witnesses into silence with a scowl or a muttered, 'I'll remember you,'" and thus evade identification, hereafter will be identified by unseen eyes in the detectives' assembly room at headquarters.

A "shadow box," devised by Chief of Detectives Hoagland, is under construction in this room and when finished it will permit witnesses against criminals to see without being seen by the suspects.

Prisoners will be placed in the box, a room 10 feet long and five feet wide, walled with scrim or cheesecloth. An arrangement of lights within the box will make all occupants visible to persons standing outside, but those looking in will be invisible to those inside. The box will work on the same principle which prevents persons in daylight from looking into the darker interior of a house.

Chief Hoagland believes the "shadow box" will greatly aid police in their work. Fear of reprisal by the suspect or his friends has caused many witnesses to weaken on their identifications, detectives say.

SPEAKER GILLET WILL SEEK MASSACHUSETTS SENATORSHIP

Formal Announcement of Candidacy Made After He Visits White House.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 9.—Speaker Frederick H. Gillett of the House has decided to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for Senator from Massachusetts.

The Speaker reached his decision after a number of conferences with Massachusetts political leaders here, including those in charge of the campaign of President Coolidge.

A formal statement announcing his candidacy was prepared at Gillett's office after he had visited the White House this morning. He will seek election to the place now held by Senator Walsh, Democrat.

Representative Dallinger of the Eighth Massachusetts District, also announced last night that he was a candidate for United States Senate. He reached the capitol after receiving a telegram from Gov. Cox stating that he would not enter the race, and in reply wired the Governor that "I would very much appreciate your support."

PLAN TO REMOVE POLES FROM CENTER OF DELMAR APPROVED

Board of Public Service Favors Use of the Whole Street by Vehicles.

The Board of Public Service today approved a plan to remove the curbing which isolates the Delmar street-car tracks from Kingshighway to Clara avenue, to remove the trolley poles from the center of the street, and to pave around the tracks so the whole street may be used by vehicles.

West End improvement associations and business associations have asked for this several times. United Railways officials protested, contending that to remove the curbing would make the street unsafe and would tend to slow traffic.

The proposed plan must be submitted to the Board of Aldermen for approval.

MISSING GIRL WAS CHOKED TO DEATH; BODY FOUND NEAR ROAD

Child, 14, Disappeared February 2—Corpse Discovered Near Glasgow, Mo.

FAYETTE, Mo., May 9.—With evidence indicating that she had been choked to death, the body of Daisy Ashby, 14 years old, who disappeared early today, was found on the road between Glasgow and her home at Monticello Feb. 2, was found early this morning beneath a brush pile near the Glasgow-Salisbury highway.

A petition, signed by 55 residents of McPherson, Maryland and Newstead, Ohio, protesting against the filling station, has been presented to Mayor Kiel. The signers include former Mayor Kreimann.

As the hearing before the Board of Public Service ended, Attorney Hancock invited all the members of the board, "excepting one," to attend the mass meeting next Tuesday night before the Board of Public Service.

SIX OF FAMILY DROWNED

SENATOR WHEELER ON STAND; DENIES HE APPEARED IN OIL PERMIT CASE AT WASHINGTON

Investigator Who Was Involved in Daugherty Inquiry, Resigns

McKelvey Resents Reference Made by Citizens Regarding Contract for Building.

Director of Public Safety McKelvey became involved in a heated exchange of words with a delegation of West End residents at a hearing today before the Board of Public Service of protests by residents against McKelvey's recent issuance of a building permit to the Labrite Refractories for an oil filling station at the southwest corner of Newstead and McPherson avenues.

W. Scott Hancock, an attorney, of 4322 McPherson, speaking for approximately 50 other residents who do not want the filling station near their homes, said McKelvey issued the permit without consulting the residents, and added that the McKelvey Construction Co., headed by James G. McKelvey, son of the Director, got the building contract.

Director McKelvey, present at the hearing as a member of the board, got red in the face and replied angrily: "My son is a free-born American citizen, born in St. Louis, and has a right to do what he pleases. I have no right to issue that permit and you haven't shown one point to the contrary. Why don't you go in court and seek an injunction?"

Hancock replied that McKelvey had no right to issue the permit. "I did, too," shouted McKelvey. "You did not," members of the protesting delegation insisted.

Hancock, before naming McKelvey's son as contractor in the case, said he did not wish to be personal, but it seemed "peculiar" that such was the fact. As he concluded, some of his supporters chanted, "No more McKelveys."

Hancock said the erection of the filling station would depreciate residential property values and would be dangerous to children going to and from the Methodist Episcopal High School and the Rosati-Kain High School, all of which are in that vicinity. The neighborhood, he added, is adequately provided with gasoline filling stations and has no need for another one.

He announced a public mass meeting, to protest this and similar cases, would be held Tuesday noon, in the rotunda of City Hall.

President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service said he was thoroughly in sympathy with the protesting residents, but felt the board was powerless to help them, owing to the State Supreme Court's recent decision that the St. Louis zoning law, which would have prohibited a filling station in such a residential district, is unconstitutional.

EVIDENCE ON WHICH HE WAS INDICTED IS SUBMITTED

Montana Senator, Insisting on Being Heard, Says His $10,000 Fee Was for Work in Montana Courts in Connection With Oil Concern.

QUESTIONED BY STERLING AND BORAH

Assistant Attorney-General Offers in Evidence Copies of Letters and Telegrams Between Accused and Gordon Campbell.

By CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The Borah committee's investigation of the indictment of Senator Wheeler of Montana took a sudden dramatic turn this afternoon when Wheeler, after the presentation of letters and telegrams bearing on his case from the files of the Department of Justice, asked to be heard in his own defense.

Senator Sterling of South Dakota, who has taken the lead in bringing out facts that might reflect on Wheeler, asked that the hearing go over "till tomorrow." Wheeler insisted that he be allowed to testify at once.

Chairman Borah, after consultation with the other members of the committee, granted the request, and Wheeler took the witness chair across the table from "Prosecution" Sterling.

After Wheeler had been sworn, Borah opened the examination. The witness said that he was 39 years old, was born in Massachusetts, and went to Montana in 1905, where he had since resided. He was elected to the Senate in the fall of 1922.

Tells of Employment. Borah then told him to make whatever statement he cared to make.

Leaning across the table, frequently emphasizing his points by tapping with his fingers, Wheeler went into the details of his employment by Gordon Campbell, a Montana oil man, for whom he is alleged illegally to have procured claims before the Interior Department after his election as a United States Senator.

Closely questioned by Sterling, Wheeler branded as "ridiculous" the testimony of a previous witness that at a meeting in a hotel room at Great Falls, Wheeler and Campbell talked about oil-permit cases that were pending before the land office of the Interior Department. He declared that not a word was said about permits. His employment by Campbell, he asserted, was solely for the handling of litigation in the Montana State courts, and related in no wise to matters at Washington. He told of an agreement whereby Campbell was to pay him $10,000, of which the firm received $4000.

Questions by Sterling were obviously inspired by the desire to show that Wheeler rendered but scant service in the State courts in return for this fee.

"Listen, Senator," said Wheeler, prefacing a vigorous statement of his services in a receivership case, which he said involved the preparation of voluminous briefs and was followed by a "raft" of other litigation. "I wasn't paid one cent for anything in connection with permits or with reference to anything that occurred in the city of Washington."

"What did your contract of employment call for?" asked Borah. "The contract," replied the witness, "referred to litigation in Montana and to nothing else. I didn't even know that Campbell had an oil permit."

QUEEN MARIE AND HER KING VISIT LEAGUE IN GENEVA

Rumanian Rulers Would Show Democratic Attitude of Their Country by Public Speeches.

CROWDS IN STREETS HAIL QUEEN'S BEAUTY

Ferdinand, in Address, Says His Country Favors European Unity to Promote World Peace.

By the Associated Press. GENEVA, May 9.—Coming especially to pay an official visit to the League of Nations, King Ferdinand and Queen Marie of Rumania, were received with military honors at the railway station today. After a reception at the palace of the league, and then to the International Labor Bureau.

Simultaneously with the arrival of the royal party, the Geneva newspapers were printing dispatches received by way of Germany reporting that soviet troops were preparing an attack against Rumania on account of the dispute over Bessarabia. It was reported that War Minister Trosky had reached Kamenetz-Podolsk to inspect the soviet army, and that skirmishes had occurred in the region of the Dniester, between Russian and Rumanian sentries.

The visit of the King and Queen is interpreted by the Geneva press as an answer to those who accuse Rumania of being imperialistic, nationalistic and militaristic. The papers regard the visit as inspired by a desire to show that Rumania seeks only to collaborate with the league for European consolidation and the maintenance of peace, and to demonstrate her determination to work for the development of the ideals of the league.

The visit of the couple to the League of Nations palace was a striking ceremonial. The queen's charm was added by the grace and beauty of Queen Marie, King Ferdinand took the leading part, delivering a discourse in which he predicted a great future of international service for the league.

The personnel of the League headquarters was grouped in one of the main halls and the royal pair, accompanied by Secretary Drummond, walked in and took their seats on a raised platform. They had motored slowly through the crowded streets, arriving at the headquarters by way of the main hall, where they were met by the personnel of the league, who were soon renamed Qu President Wilson.

Queen Marie smiled as she entered the League building. She wore a tan colored robe, her hair burn hair showing under a broad green plumed hat. Her ornaments were strings of pearls and great pearl pendants. King Ferdinand, who wore the uniform of a general, said in his address that they had come to Geneva to bring new proof of Rumanian good will.

"Having reached their national unity after centuries of suffering and persecution, seeking to consolidate themselves, pursuing no aggressive aims, and desiring the integral maintenance and loyal respect for the existing treaties, the Rumanian people are especially attached to the work of peace, solidarity and concord, which is the object of the league," he said.

"Beginning, but the league has already justified itself, and its authority is increasingly confirmed day by day."

Rumania, declared the King, always will be ready to support the league in its efforts to bring about throughout the world a triumph of the ideals of humanity and justice.

At the visit to the International Labor Bureau, there were addresses by Albert Thomas and King Ferdinand. The royal pair took luncheon with Sir Eric Beaumont, Foreign Minister Duca of Rumania, who accompanied King Ferdinand and Queen Marie to Geneva today, denied reports that skirmishes had occurred on the Russian-Rumanian border, and declared cordial relations existed along the frontier, where a mixed commission was working harmoniously.

Asked if the league could be best developed by admitting Russia and Germany, M. Duca said he preferred to avoid any discussions at this time. He promised Rumania would ever be liberal towards minorities and praised the league's system of control.

Club Women Assail Beauty Revers Atlantic City N. J., May 9.—Bathing girl parades and beauty revers are regarded as immoral by the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs, which, in annual convention yesterday, passed a resolution referring to Atlantic City's fall pageant without naming it. The resolution will be sent to the General Federation of Women's Clubs, meeting in Los Angeles in June, for indorsement. The resolution asked the women of the United States to wage a concerted campaign against such "promiscuous displays of beauty."

Wheeler Denies He Appeared In Oil Permit Case

lished and Chairman Borah granted it.

Borah directed Wheeler to tell of the "scope, terms and circumstances" of his employment as a lawyer by Campbell.

Tom Stout, Wheeler said, a former Congressman from Montana, had asked him to represent Campbell in State courts and general litigation. The employment began in January, 1922, after Wheeler's election to the Senate, but before his installation into office.

Washington and was trying to close up my law business, and was not anxious to take any new litigation on," Wheeler said. "I finally told him that I had met his client in person, my partner, would handle all the business, except that if it were imperative, in the trial of a case, I would come back for him."

Campbell had been "having trouble with his lawyers," Senator Wheeler said, and he refused to take work without a cash payment of $200 and an agreement to receive $10,000 as a retainer for a year.

"Campbell controlled property in the Kevin field, which was regarded as valuable," Wheeler said. "I feel quite confident that Campbell's syndicate could have sold out for $1,000,000 at the time the big oil companies were coming in. But he was in litigation with his partner, and threatened with a receivership."

Why Meeting Was Secret. Describing his legal work for Campbell, the Senator said he wanted the committee to understand the nature of the case, as was testified in the hearing, because process servers had to be avoided.

"There wasn't any wrong inference drawn from that," said Senator Wheeler (Rep.), of South Dakota.

"Oh, there was an inference sought in that testimony," Wheeler replied. Sterling asked about the nature of the case, as was testified in the hearing, because process servers had to be avoided.

PARTY OF OKLAHOMANS SAILS TO ESTABLISH COLONY IN BOLIVIA

Special to the Post-Dispatch. OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., May 9.—A party of Oklahoma City, Ok., led by L. F. Latta, who was president of the Oklahoma Constitutional convention and later a member of the Oklahoma House of Representatives, sailed for New Orleans today, constituting the first group of "colonists" that he is to establish in Eastern Bolivia on a land grant obtained from the Bolivian Government.

The colonists were assembled at the coast from Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas. They go by way of Havana, leaving that point May 11, on the steamship Priory for Antofagasta, Chile. Previously Murray had shipped out of New Orleans 225,000 pounds of supplies. Murray plans to return to the States in January to make arrangements for transportation of the second group next spring. Virtually the entire town of Tahimong, Ok., the home of Murray, turned out to bid him and his family good-bye.

Conversations With Booth. "Your conversations with Booth, of financing or selling the property in Bolivia or selling the properties," asked Senator Swanson (Dem.) of Virginia.

"Yes," Wheeler said. "I then left for Europe, spent the summer of 1922 there, and got the idea on my return that Booth had gotten interested with Campbell."

On his trip to see Booth at the Interior Department, Wheeler said he met Commissioner Spry of the General Land Office.

"The only time anything was ever said about permits by me was on that one occasion with Booth," he went on. "I wasn't paid one cent on any transaction before the Government with reference to permits or anything else."

His contract of employment with Campbell, he said, was for $10,000 to cover the litigation in the State courts of Montana.

The letters Mr. Pratt read here this morning, confirms that statement," Wheeler said.

"The letters will speak for themselves," commented Sterling.

"Now, when you sent for permits and titles, in one of these telegrams," Swanson put in, "what was that for?"

"For Booth, in connection with the financing," Wheeler said. "And if the lists were sent on, they came while I was away and I never saw them."

A telegram dated Washington, March 13, 1923, from Wheeler to L. V. Beaulieu, in care of Campbell, said:

"I told Stout I was coming to complete list Gordon Campbell syndicate and individual holdings, each separate legal description and character of title dividing acreage into two classes, that in which title is absolute and unquestionable and that in which title may be in doubt. Am writing letter in full tomorrow."

"B. K. WHEELER."

The next day this telegram was sent from Wheeler to Campbell:

"Leaving Saturday for Europe. Have taken your matter up with parties writing Baldwin. Suggest see him."

"B. K. WHEELER."

Text of Letters. Gordon Campbell's letter to Edwin S. Booth was dated May 4, 1923, at Great Falls. It concerned the "Phil McGowan permit" for land on which oil had been discovered. It mentioned previous conversations with Booth and asked permission to drill and offset well "protecting the permit."

Large Wave Moving Toward Earth Affects Climate. By the Associated Press. GLASGOW, May 9.—The Royal Anthropological Institute, the prehistoric societies, in an address last night, said there is a large wave in motion, within the body of the earth. It moves around the globe once every 800 years, causing slight motion in the position of the axis and the poles and giving rise to changes in climate.

The wave causes the terrestrial crust to pulsate, which accounts for raised and sunken land and faces. The velocity, direction and amplitude of the wave have been ascertained. Thus the age of the earth is determined by the age of prehistoric periods can be determined.

LARGE WAVE MOVING INSIDE EARTH AFFECTS CLIMATE

British Scientist Asserts It Around Planet Once Each 8800 Years.

GLASGOW, May 9.—The late MacLellan Mann, who is a member of the Royal Anthropological Institute, the prehistoric society of East Anglia, and other scientific societies, in an address last night, said there is a large wave in motion, within the body of the earth. Head Scout Report.

"Dan" Beard, national scout commissioner and honorary vice president, the idol of many American boys as the author of books on outdoor life, reported for the national court of honor. He told of awarding 10 gold medals to scouts for heroism in saving human life, and issuing 17 letters of commendation for heroism.

With more than 200,000 Boy Scouts in camp last year, only one fatal accident was reported, he said.

The morning session closed with a discussion of questions which the national council, as proposed by members, and at noon each of the regional committees from the 12 regions met in separate dining rooms for a discussion of local problems.

The afternoon session was devoted to the work of the National Field Committee, which has charge of the development of new councils and the development of closer relations between existing ones.

Boy Injured When Batter Swings in Ball Game.

There was a ball game during the noon hour yesterday in the yard of the Shepard School, Wisconsin avenue and Potomac street, and Clyde Chiles, 15, of 2664 An avenue, was hit.

As he swung at the ball, George Graupner Jr., 9, of 3342 South Eighteenth street, started in front of the batter and was struck on the head by the ball, suffering brain concussion, an injury to the skull. He is in a critical condition at the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium.

Oppose Display of Hermes Statue in U. S.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The Association of Museum Directors is emphatically opposed to the proposal to bring the Hermes of Praxiteles statue to the United States for exhibition because of the risk of damage that would attend the trip.

A resolution adopted yesterday, said it opposed the proposal "knowing that the risk of damage to the statue would be not only great but certain, and that the people of the United States should not become a party to any transaction which might result in irreparable injury to this priceless heritage."

SUICIDE VERDICT IN THE CASE OF MARIE BAKEWELL

Was Suffering From Temporary Mental Aberration, Coroner Finds After Hearing Testimony.

A Coroner's verdict of suicide, while suffering a mental aberration, was returned today in the death of Miss Marie Bakewell, 38 years old, member of a prominent St. Louis family, who was found dead, with a bullet wound in the right temple, in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bakewell, 4225 Westminster place, yesterday noon.

Dr. Amund Ravold testified he was called to the home shortly after noon. He described the position of the wound in the right temple, which caused instant death. He said he had been treating Miss Bakewell for sleeplessness and nervousness, and gave it as his opinion that the self-destruction was committed in a moment of mental aberration.

Negro Maid Testifies.

A negro maid testified to finding the body after receiving a telephone call from Mrs. Eugenia Bakewell Roberts, a sister, who, with Miss Bakewell, conducted a gift shop on Olive street, near the intersection of the street with the Federal building. It had been Miss Bakewell's custom to relieve her sister at the noon hour, and her failure to appear caused the sister to call the maid.

Mrs. Roberts testified her sister had recently appeared highly nervous, though she had never hinted at taking her life. There was no note or other evidence of her intention.

The funeral will be held tomorrow morning from the new Cathedral at 9 a. m. Interment will be private.

Miss Bakewell was descended on her mother's side from Alexander McNair, first Governor of Missouri, and the family is related to a number of the old French families. As a debutante Miss Bakewell was a member of the elite of the Velled Prophet's Ball.

Took Up Decorating Work.

In 1913 Miss Bakewell went to work as a saleswoman at the Scripps-McRae League of Newspapers, where she was a department. She said she preferred practical work in decorating and designing to the routine of society engagements. As she became more interested in the work, she began to design and carry out decorative plans, but later complained that St. Louisans appeared to prefer such designs at the hands of a man, and after about a year, she resigned her employment. She and her sister started the gift shop only recently.

Besides her parents, Miss Bakewell was survived by two sisters, Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Nancy Bakewell Burrell of Trenton, N. J.; and three brothers—Paul Bakewell Jr., an attorney, of 4518 Lindell boulevard; Edward L. Bakewell, a real estate dealer, of 4459 Lindell boulevard; and McNair Bakewell, a real estate dealer, who resides at 4225 Westminster place. The father, Paul Bakewell, Sr., is an attorney.

"HICKMAN" IS RETURNED TO PEN AND BUSCH LAWN MOWER

Mule Who Decided to Roam About Country Is Finally Found at Clayton.

MULE—Low small, light gray color. Age, 12 years. Found at Clayton, Mo., May 8.

Hickman, the mule in question, is back in his pen at the rear of the Busch home, his brief adventure ended. Back again to eat hay and pull the lawn mower.

Some time Monday night or Tuesday morning Hickman got out and roamed across the street into Forest Park Caretakers' home, where he was captured by the caretakers.

Unfortunately, Hickman was unable to give an account of his wanderings and no one will know how he happened to roam as far as Clayton before being captured. But captured he was, Tuesday, and led, docilely back to bondage.

FARM BUREAU CLUBS TO MEET

Members of the 60 boys and girls' clubs of the St. Charles County Farm Bureau will be entertained in St. Charles, May 26, 27 and 28. According to official statistics, the total number of clubs now have a total membership of more than 400. The program for the meeting will cover the various features of boys' and girls' farm club work and will include several speakers who are experts in their particular lines.

$10,000 for Injury by Elevator.

A verdict awarding a judgment of $10,000 damages in favor of Carl Granberg, formerly a carpenter employed by the International Shoe Co., was returned by a jury in Judge Faris' division of the Federal Court today, for a fracture of a vertebra suffered by Granberg while in the company's employ.

Granberg was at work at the bottom of an elevator shaft, on Dec. 6, 1922, when a descending elevator counter-weight struck him.

U. S. GRAND JURY TAKES UP THEFT OF DANIEL WHISKY

Special Prosecutor for Case in Which Liquor Was Removed From 893 Barrels in Warehouse.

Investigation of the "milkmaid" of whisky from 893 barrels at the Jack Daniel bonded warehouse, 3960 Duncan avenue, which was discovered last September, was begun by the Federal grand jury today, with a special prosecutor in charge of the presentation of evidence.

The prosecutor is John Marshall, who was sent here from the Department of Justice at Washington because of the pressure of work of Special Assistant Attorney General Dwyer due to the inquiry into the "protected" beer scandal. Federal Judge Faris directed the grand jury, March 24, to go into both the beer scandal and the Jack Daniel matter.

Lem Motlow Questioned.

Among those questioned by Government officers in their investigation following discovery of the substitution of water for the approximately 37,500 gallons of whisky were Lem Motlow, wealthy Tennessee distiller, who is under indictment for the murder of a Pullman conductor here after a whisky spree, and George Remus, so-called "millionaire bootlegger of the Middle West," who is serving a two-year sentence in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., for conspiracy to violate the Volstead act in an Ohio case. The liquor taken from the Jack Daniel warehouse had a drug-store value of $1,800,000.

Motlow formerly owned the Jack Daniel distillery, and also the whisky stored in the Duncan avenue warehouse. He declared at a hearing last September, held under laws relative to revenue taxes on the stolen whisky, that he had sold his holdings June 26, 1923, for $122,000 to a group of men, whom he named.

Motlow said further that he had insisted on being protected in the liability for payment of revenue taxes and that the purchasers furnished a $50,000 surety bond. It was the investigators' theory that the men who obtained this bond must have put up collateral to obtain it from the bonding company, but officers of the company asserted, it was reported, that they had "no security but the word of a wealthy gentleman."

The thieves who removed the whisky from the warehouse—and the investigators were of the opinion the "thieves" might have been agents of a surreptitious purchaser—left one full barrel of whisky near the entrance as a decoy. The last legitimate withdrawal of liquor from the place, under a permit, had been last June.

After the robbery bootleggers who had never touched real "Jack Daniel" whisky were winking slyly and telling customers that the stuff they were peddling was part of this lot of real liquor. Others, presumably, diluted the stolen whisky to make it go around among more customers.

The Government has asked authority to sell all property of the Jack Daniel Distilling Co. under forfeiture for failure to pay taxes on the liquor removed in the theft.

Deaths in Britain Show Big Increase.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 9.—Deaths from influenza in England and Wales for the first quarter of this year numbered 12,604, according to official statistics. The total deaths from all causes for the quarter were 160,279, being 35,559 in excess of the total for the corresponding period last year.

EDEN SEMINARY MUSIC

PROGRAM BROADCAST BY KSD

Concert of Young People, Assisted by Soprano and Violoncello.

Wm. Deep Appreciation.

A concert program of exceptional merit, given at the Odeon last night by the chorus, glee club and quartet of Eden Theological Seminary, was broadcast by Station KSD, the Post-Dispatch. The concert was directed by Frederick Pfeiffer, and the seminarians were assisted by Miss Alma E. Menz, soprano, and Theophil Menzel, violoncello. Piano accompanists were Karl Garner, Miss Margaret Dee and Mrs. A. Ruecker.

The opening number of the concert was the battle hymn from "Rienzi." The youthful seminarians sang this spirited selection with lyric vigor.

The Eden quartet rendered three acceptable pieces. "Free as the Wind," "She Was but Seven," and "A Little Close Harmony," singing as an encore "Just Smiles."

Cellist Menzel gave first Corelli's Sonata. His convincing numbers were Shubert's Valse Triste and David Popper's Gavotte. All his numbers won deep appreciation.

Miss Menz, the young soprano, began with Verdi's "Pace, Pace, Mio Dio," following with Grieg's "A Dream," Hindoch's "The Spring," Hageman's "At the Well" and Rudolph Ganz's "Love and Song." This last, the work of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra director, was perhaps the most effective of all Miss Menz's numbers.

As an extra attraction the soprano sang "Love's on the High Road." The program was closed with Barri's "The Shadows of the Evening Hour," sung by the Eden chorus.

Loses Money Bags From Auto.

Two sacks, one of nickels and the other of dimes, were lost from the automobile of Roy C. Pick, teller of the St. Louis County Bank of Clayton, while he was driving on Locust and Lindell boulevards, between Ninth street and Euclid avenue, yesterday afternoon. The money bags, which were in a tool compartment at the rear of the car, broke through the board bottom of the compartment. With a policeman, Pick retraced his route and recovered the loss, but failed to find any of the money or the sacks. They had been obtained from the Subtreasury. The nickel sack contained $250 and the dime sack about $15.

TRIPLE A WOULD PAY EXTRA $10 PER GOLFER

Bill for Charge for Permits Is Amended and Referred Back.

Triple A Golf Club, in Forest Park, will pay the city $10 a year for each of its members, and continue to maintain its own course as in the past, it is provided in an amendment to the golf bill approved by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment today.

The bill, fixing a charge of $10 a year for playing golf in Forest Park, or 50 cents a game for the 18-hole public course and 25 cents a game for the nine-hole public course, to those not holding permits, was ready for a vote in the Board of Aldermen when officials of Triple A Club came forward with the suggested change. As a result, the bill was referred back to the Public Welfare Committee for further consideration.

If the proposed Triple A clause is adopted it will mean that the dues of $15 a year now paid by its 1108 members will be increased to $25, the difference of approximately $11,000 to go to the city.

Triple A Discussed.

At the hearing yesterday, at which the Public Welfare Committee approved the original bill, Associate City Counselor Cunningham argued that other large cities were levying a charge for playing on municipal links, and that the proposed ordinance would create an estimated revenue of $40,000.

The status of the Triple A Club came up for considerable discussion and it appeared the unanimous opinion of the committee that Triple A Club had no right to exclusive privileges in Forest Park, Sidney Maestre, president of the club, argued that the club never forbids any citizen the use of its course, but members of the committee took issue, remarking that non-members were told that the course was for members only and were charged a fee when they used the course.

Maestre related that the Triple A Club was formed in 1906, and spent $100,000 reclaiming a wilderness for club purposes, and that it spends $25,000 a year for maintenance. Its members had paid an initiation fee of $15 and pay $18 a year dues. If an additional assessment of $10 is levied, Maestre contended this revenue should be expended on the Triple A course.

"Poor Men Don't Play Golf."

Alderman Otto of the First Ward argued against the bill on ground that it might establish a precedent that might result in charges for all kinds of park recreation. He declared the poor man would have to give up golf, but Alderman Uhlemeyer replied that "poor men don't play golf."

Similar measures have been proposed in previous years, all of which have failed. One such ordinance was passed in 1922, but was vetoed by Mayor Kiel. It is generally believed, however, that he approves the ordinance now under consideration.

WRITES POLICE OF PREFERENCE FOR HOLDOVER AND LANDS IN IT

Chief of Detectives Hongland yesterday received a letter from Harry Miller, window smasher and thief, informing the Chief that Miller was sorry to be an inmate of the City Sanitarium and would prefer the holdover at headquarters. About the same time the Chief received a report that a window at Greenfield's store, Eighth and Olive streets, had been broken early yesterday and a man's suit taken.

Inquiry at the sanitarium disclosed that Miller, twice confined there after window smashing, had written his letter to the Chief after setting out. Yesterday afternoon, while gazing into a window at Broadway and Locust street, Miller was arrested. In his pockets were a $17.75 price tag for the suit stolen from Greenfield's and a pawn ticket showing he had obtained $25 for it. Miller said he had used a screwdriver to unfasten the store window and had sawed a part of the glass out.

Miller is now in the holdover.

BANK CLOSED, CASHIER HELD, FOLLOWING TRAGIC HOLDUP.

Officer, Admitting Speculations, Denies Knowledge of Robbery; Three Indicted for Killing.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 9.—The First National Bank of Belmont, Robbed of $7437 on April 4 by six men who killed Ernest Wiltman, a bystander, was closed in custody of national bank examiners yesterday. Charles M. Vanderroef, its cashier, is under arrest, charged with misappropriation of funds, and three men have been indicted for first degree murder as participants in the holdup.

John J. Slattery, proprietor of the Old Homestead Hotel of Astoria, and Ambrose Rose and Stanley Kivana, are the men indicted. It is understood there will be further arrests. Vanderroef disavowed all knowledge of the holdup in a statement to Assistant United States District Attorney Alfred E. Frieman.

Vanderroef is said to have admitted participation covering a five-year period of $30,000 "for a little more."

George M. Levy, counsel for Vanderroef, said his client had made a complete voluntary statement and would aid the bank examiners in every way possible.

FIRE ON BOSTON-BOUND STEAMER UNDER CONTROL.

Another Ship Standing by, and a Third Is Going to Assistance of Vessel.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, May 9.—Word from the steamer Ontario, which caught fire off Block Island early today, was that she would arrive shortly after noon, standard time. The latest message said the steamer Cretan was standing by.

A message from the Coast Guard cutter Acushnet said that the fire was under control. The Acushnet, the message added, was not needed and the steamer Nantuxet had gone to the assistance of the Ontario.

WOMAN MISTAKES POISON FOR HEADACHE REMEDY AND DIES

Mrs. Mae Belke, 25, Expires in Ambulance on the Way to City Hospital.

Mrs. Mae Belke, 25 years old, of 648 Red Bud avenue, died in an ambulance on the way to City Hospital at 10:30 a. m. today after taking poison by mistake for aspirin at her home 10 minutes before.

Her husband, William Belke, a drug clerk, said his wife had obtained the poison from a medicine drawer, thinking it was the headache remedy. She took it and lay down for a few minutes, then complained of pain.

Dublin Government Does Not Plan to Alter Present Law.

DUBLIN, May 9.—Notwithstanding intimations to the contrary, it is authoritatively stated that the Dublin Government has no intention of altering the law as to provision for complete divorce. A number of persons, desiring to remarry after having obtained judicial separations from the Irish courts, achieved that end by promoting private legislation in the British Parliament through the House of Lords, and others now are appealing to the Free State Parliament to pass private legislation in the same way. A number of bills have been lodged for this purpose, but they are held up pending inquiry into the whole matter by a joint committee of the Dail and Senate.

It is argued, on the one hand, that the Free State should not grant complete divorce at all, and on the other that Protestants should not be expected to lose an advantage which before the creation of the Saorstad they possessed as British subjects domiciled in Ireland.

The strike of composition roofers was settled today. On March 25, 202 roofers and foremen and 33 drivers struck for wage increases. The roofers wanting an increase from $1.25 to $1.30 1/2, an hour, foremen from $1.30 to $1.50 and drivers from 50 to 60 cents.
The agreement arrived at today provides $1.35 for foremen, 55 cents for drivers and the old rate of $1.25 for roofers. It is further provided that no reductions are to be attempted during 1934.

Labor Law for Poland.
Correspondence of the Associated Press.
WARSAW, Poland, April 13.—
The Diet has passed a bill giving state protection to working women and minors. The bill is based entirely on the Washington labor convention, with a few additions due to local conditions, such as prohibition of the employment of boys or girls under 15, which is contrary to the Polish constitution.

LABOR REFUSES APPEAL FROM BIRTH CONTROL ADVOCATES

MacDonald's Health Minister Rejects Petition Signed by H. G. Wells and Others.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, May 8.—Limitation of the population is of vital importance, according to the petition which H. G. Wells, the author; Miss Dorothy Jewson, Labor member of Parliament; and others of Mrs. Bertrand Russell's Birth Control Committee, presented to Minister of Health Wheatley this afternoon. The deputation asked that the doctors at the Government maternity and welfare centers should be permitted to give birth control information to those desiring it.

In refusing the request, Wheatley said that in cases where birth control was advisable on medical grounds the patient should be referred to private doctors or to hospitals.

On hearing this, Wells spoke up strongly regarding what he termed class distinction, saying that labor women could get all the information they wanted and that the Labor Government, as a democratic body, should not continue the former "aristocratic" policy of the Health Ministry and regard working women as simply material for breeding.

BRIDE OF MASCOUTAH MAN ON WAY BACK TO GERMANY

Widow, Who Came From Berlin to Wed Last December, Declares She Made a Mistake.

A romance that resulted in the marriage of Mrs. Mina Wurl of Berlin, Germany, and Martin Ritzel of Mascoutah, near Belleville, less than six months ago is shattered and Mrs. Ritzel is on her way back to Germany.

It was Ritzel's second marriage. Some years ago Ritzel and his first wife made a trip to Berlin. They were introduced to Mrs. Wurl, a widow, and a close friendship resulted. Several years after the Ritzels returned to America and were back in their home at Mascoutah. Mrs. Ritzel was taken ill and died. Ritzel became lonely and longed for companionship. He remembered Mrs. Wurl and started to correspond with her. He proposed and was accepted.

Mrs. Wurl came to America and arrived at Mascoutah on Dec. 22, last year. The wedding took place the same day. After a few months of married life the couple discovered that the match was a failure. They agreed to separate and after proper arrangements were made Mrs. Ritzel departed for New York yesterday to embark for Germany.

A NEW ALTITUDE RECORD

Frenchman Claims to Have Reached 15,000 Feet.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, May 8.—In a flight yesterday, the French aviator, Lieut. Bousnot, claims to have reached an altitude of 4600 meters (15,088 feet), with a load of 2000 kilograms (4409 pounds), thus breaking the world record established Oct. 25, 1923, by Lieut. Harold G. Harris, the American flyer, of 2943 meters (8720 feet).

Lieut. Bousnot used a 600-horsepower French monomotor plane.

Coalidge Majority Is 526-639.

By the Associated Press.
INDIANAPOLIS, May 8.—President Coolidge attained a majority of 262,633 votes over Senator Hiram Johnson of California, in Indiana's primary election last Tuesday, according to complete but unofficial figures today. The vote was Coolidge, 524,777; Johnson, 52,148.

Brunette
Dreams of mysterious amours—Twilight whispers by a fountain—
—loft words beside a watchfire—
—the flash of swords by torchlight—
—cloaked flights through autumnal woods—
—murmurs in a panted chamber.
And the beauty of her hair exalted by the magic of "a touch of henna in the shampoo."

Blonde
Dreams of old romance—
A golden voicing of a song of love—
—impassioned meetings in a sun-plashed grove—
—eyes dazzled by brocade and jewels in a glow of candle—burning glances in a throne-room—a kiss at a gilded door.
And in the gold of her hair the rich redness given by "a touch of henna in the shampoo."

"My Secret of Loveliness—A touch of henna in the shampoo to set off every woman's charm with the richness of lustrous hair."

An interview with a great Fifth Avenue beauty specialist
by HELENA J. KNIGHT

ALL New York society—dowager, matron and debutante—finds its way to her studio—for she is an artist in making women beautiful.

"What can I tell you?" she asked, as she leaned back among the purple cushions of an ivory chaise longue.

I bent forward earnestly.
"Tell me your one rule of beauty that will give every woman charm."

She smiled through half-closed eyes.
"Make the hair lustrous," she said, deliberately. "The radiance of the hair blends and softens and sets off every element in a woman's face. That is the birth of charm."

"But," I protested, "few women can have such wonderful hair as that!"

"You are mistaken. All women can have it, and the charm it gives. In every woman's hair is a wealth of lustre she has never dreamed of."

"And the secret of bringing it out—" I pursued, eagerly.

"Simply—a touch of henna in the shampoo."

I started to speak, but she raised a jewelled hand.

"I know what you think of henna. That is because, like most women, you do not know henna. Crudely used, henna is not without its drawbacks. Artfully used, with the aid of science, henna is magic—so swiftly does it reveal the brilliance in a woman's hair."

"But," I interrupted, "is there no change?"

"None, save the change to greater beauty. I have treated thousands of blondes and thousands of brunettes. Every one of them has retained her own natural type. But the shampoo with a touch of henna has given their hair a new and luxurious radiance—and their beauty a new appeal."

"Then you believe a touch of henna in the shampoo is good for the hair of all women?"

"Most emphatically—I do. It is their one certain means of making the most of their hair and of their charm. But it must be scientifically prepared—for only then can it mean beauty."

HENNAFOAM SHAMPOO is the costly treatment of the beauty specialist and of the hairdresser, brought within the reach of every woman.

The touch of henna in the clear, delicately fragrant liquid of Hennafoam Shampoo is treated in the laboratory by a secret process that leaves only its properties to bring out the lustre of every woman's hair, whether it is blonde, brown or brunette.

Hennafoam Shampoo blends the touch of henna with pure vegetable oils. This blend stimulates and invigorates the hair and scalp, and makes the hair soft and full. And the touch of henna reveals the gleaming brilliance of each separate hair.

If you would discover all the lustrous loveliness of your hair, begin using Hennafoam Shampoo today.

MERCIREX HEALS

New Scientific Treatment for All Disorders of the Skin Works Wonders for Exhausted User

MERCIREX GUARANTEED TO HEAL

"... Mercirex is the most successful preparation I have ever used. It brings all forms of skin blemishes from underneath the outer skin to the surface, and then they disappear, as in my case of pimples and blackheads. I am always ready to recommend your wonderful preparation."

Do you wonder why thousands of people who once suffered from eczema, pimples, blackheads, boils, sores, etc., are more than willing to recommend Mercirex today? Because Mercirex gets results—heals—relieves the most obstinate cases—or you get your money back!

You can have your complexion—a healthy skin, if you will go to the nearest drug store—buy a jar of Mercirex and use it according to directions.

Not a patent medicine. Mercirex is not made by a patent-medicine house. It is a professional product, tested, approved and now prescribed by many physicians. It is the carefully developed product of one of this country's oldest scientific institutions.

Not messy or greasy. Don't confuse Mercirex with dark, greasy, surface ointments. Mercirex will not soil your linen, and will not advertise your trouble to others. It is practically colorless with only a faint, delicate fragrance. Mercirex penetrates through the outside skin to the true skin, and there acts on the nucleus of your trouble.

Buy Mercirex at any drug store for 75 cents on a money-back guarantee. Write for free book on the care of the skin and scalp to The L. D. Caulk Company, Milford, Del. We also recommend Mercirex Soap.

MACDONALD IS EXPECTED TO WIN VOTE ON M'KENNA DUTIES

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, May 9.—No party expects the defeat of the Labor Government on Tuesday next when former Premier Baldwin's motion for retention of the McKenna duties, which Premier MacDonald has considered as a motion of censure, will come up for consideration.

The Conservatives point out that the announcement in the House of Commons by J. R. Clynes, Deputy Government leader, that the vote on the McKenna duties will be considered one of censure, acts as a whip over the Laborites from the industrial districts, where many of the workmen favor retention of the duties, and at the same time it is thought that the scattered Liberal, who believe that repeal of the duties would be inexpedient, will not receive any substantial support from the main body of their party.

The ministerialists have expressed themselves as confident that the debate on the question will strengthen their position by the defeat of a formal opposition challenge to have the Government.

Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, yesterday received an industrial group of members of Parliament, mostly Conservatives, who presented their case against repeal of the duties. The Chancellor reserved his reply for Tuesday, but there was every indication that he stood as inflexible. The declaration left his office as being convinced that he would not budge from his determination to abolish the duties on Aug. 1.

HOUSE OF DETENTION INQUIRY

Committee of Judges to Report

Next Week on Conditions

A committee of three Circuit Judges was appointed by Presiding Judge Franklin Miller last night to investigate conditions in the House of Detention, Fourteenth street and Clark avenue.

The committee was appointed at the request of Judge Oeding of the House of Detention by Willis Brown, former juvenile court judge of St. Louis City. Brown pointed out that older children in the institution were quartered with those younger, and that an overcrowded condition existed.

Judges Oeding, Taylor and Hartmann form the investigating committee and will report next Thursday. There are 52 boys and four girls in the House of Detention.

POINCARÉ TO CONFER WITH MACDONALD

French Premier to Visit Chequers Court May 20 for Dawes Report Discussion.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, May 9.—Premier Poincaré has accepted Prime Minister MacDonald's invitation to go to Chequers Court on May 20 and spend the night for an informal visit with the head of the British Government.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, May 9.—Premier MacDonald is ready and anxious to meet Premier Poincaré as soon as the French election is out of the way to discuss plans for making the Dawes' reparations proposal effective. He believes that a conversation with the French Minister, such as he had last week-end with M. Theunis of Belgium is necessary before a full allied conference can be held.

It is believed here that Brussels probably will be selected for this allied conference. In official circles it is not thought likely that the conversations will be held before early in June, after which several weeks will elapse before all the allied Premiers can meet.

Take Calotabs for the liver

Beware of imitations. Demand the genuine in 10c and 35c pack ages bearing above trade mark.

ADVERTISEMENT

Gained 10 Pounds In 22 Days

That's going some—but skinny men, women and children just can't help putting on good, healthy flesh when they take McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets.

As chock-full of vitamins as the meaty, fishy-tasting cod liver oil itself, but these sugar-coated, tasteless tablets are so easy to take as candy, and won't upset the stomach.

One woman gained ten pounds in twenty-two days. Sixty tablets sixty cents. Ask Wolff Wilson, Judge & Dolph Drug Stores, Enderle Drug Co., Johnson Bros. Drug Co. or any druggist for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets. Directions and formula on each box.

Get McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablets.

Recognized as the finest made Desks in the world. Ask Jefferson Bank—It Uses Them. See Display at TEMPLE Desk Co. 1121 Locust (Opposite 5127)

BODY OF WOMAN, 61, FOUND IN PARK LAGOON

Daughter Believes Mrs. Elizabeth Tracy Fell From Bridge After Becoming Ill.

The body of Mrs. Elizabeth Tracy, 61 years old, of 2314A Warren avenue, was found in a lagoon near Washington drive in Forest Park at 4:15 p. m. yesterday by park attendants.

Her daughter, Mrs. Beale Pussem, with whom she resided, identified the body. She said she believed Mrs. Tracy had fallen into the lagoon from a bridge after suddenly becoming ill. Her age may have made her victim of a fainting spell, the daughter thinks.

An inquest will be held tomorrow.

SENTENCE OF WILLIAM BENTZEN DEFERRED UNTIL TOMORROW

Produce Dealer Convicted of Possession of Liquor, His Two Sons Acquitted.

Sentence in the case of William Bentzen, produce dealer, at 827 North Fourth street, who was convicted of possession of liquor by a jury in the United States District Court yesterday, was deferred until tomorrow by Judge Davis. A fine up to a maximum of $500 is the usual penalty in first offenses.

Bentzen, with his sons, William Jr. and Clarence, were jointly accused with having colored alcohol and beer on their premises when police entered to search for burglar May 14, 1923. The sons were acquitted.

The defense had been that they knew nothing of the presence of the liquor and that the search was illegal as the officers looked in gunny sacks and found the evidence without a search warrant. Judge Davis overruled two motions to dismiss on the latter grounds.

Dry Goods Store Robbed.

"Truck burglars" robbed the dry goods store of Frank F. Davis, 2508 Sublette avenue, last night of stock valued at $750.

JAPANESE SEEK $30,000,000 LOAN TO BUILD HYDRO PLANTS

Nation's Industrial Future Depends on Employment of Great Natural Power.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News. Copyright, 1935.
(Copyright, 1935.)
TOKYO, May 8.—A new epoch in the industrial development of Japan was presaged through the announcement that the Daiido Electric Co., one of the largest Oriental power concerns, is arranging to float a loan of $30,000,000. President M. Fukusawa of the Daiido company is sailing for New York to conclude arrangements for the loan.

The proceeds of the loan will be used in the development of hydroelectric enterprises. Japan has an abundant supply of unharmed water power, and her industrial future is largely dependent upon its employment.

Japanese bankers and industrialists are anxiously awaiting the outcome of the negotiations. It is a record undertaking on the part of private Japanese organizations, and its success is expected to result in large demands for foreign capital here. Difficulties as a result of the September disaster and the present status of the yen are realized, however, it is believed that satisfactory terms for the loan will be available.
The recent Washington report that the Government plans to float another foreign loan next year has been discredited, upholding the statement of the Finance Minister in a recent interview that the Japanese Government planned to construct a solid national economic foundation first.

"Big Tim's" Pal Walks on Out.

By the Associated Press
CHICAGO, May 9.—John Barry, pal of "Big Tim" Murphy, labor leader serving a term in Leavenworth Federal prison for the Des-Moines Station mail robbery, and who was convicted with Murphy, walked out of the Federal Building yesterday just after hearing an order denying his right to appeal and affirming a sentence of four years' imprisonment for the mail robbery. Barry not only eluded the Federal officers, but walked past six policemen waiting to arrest him on a State charge. He must surrender or forfeit a $50,- 000 bond posted pending the appeal.

Earthquake Shock Near Naples.

ROME, May 9.—A seismic shock of appreciable force was registered at Avellino, northeast of Naples, at 4:50 o'clock this morning, says a message from that city.

SALOON MEN OUT OF JAIL AHEAD OF TIME

Sentences of Joseph Cody and Irwin Lee Cut When They Promise to Be Good.

Joseph Cody and Irwin Lee, who conducted a saloon in the Central National Bank Building till their prohibition violations finally got them in jail, are out of jail ahead of time and have promised to stay out of the saloon business for all time.

Their place was raided by Federal agents more than a dozen times within a year. On March 1 they were before Federal Judge Davis on charges of illegal sale of liquor and maintaining a nuisance. They entered a plea of "no contest," virtually the same as a plea of guilty and their counsel declared they had abandoned their business.

Judge Davis remarked that theirs was "a most aggravated case of violation of the Volstead law." He fined each $400 and sentenced each to six months in jail. Cody at Warrenton, Mo., and Lee at Ironton, Mo.

Yesterday it was learned that Cody and Lee had returned to St. Louis and it was understood they had been paroled. Judge Davis today said they were not paroled, but that the original terms of sentence had been set aside and he had sentenced each to 62 days in jail, representing the time they had served already. They had paid their fines.

The Judge said it was represented to him that Lee's wife, who has four children, is in delicate health, and she asked him to free her husband. He felt it would be unfair not to release Cody also and felt that they had been punished sufficiently. Both men, he said, promised him they would keep out of the saloon business hereafter.

16,000-TON LINER COLLIDES WITH FREIGHTER IN FOG

The Orca, bound with passengers from Europe to New York by way of Quebec, where she landed passengers yesterday, collided last night in a dense fog about 50 miles east of here with the steamer Porsanger.

The Orca was hit amidships and a hole torn in her side about 15 feet above the water line. The Porsanger, a Norwegian freighter, was on her way from Hamburg via Shields, England, for Montreal. The Orca, of 16,000 tons, was said to be taking water, but was able to control the intake with her pumps. The Porsanger is a 4,257-ton vessel.

The Orca, which left St. Louis April 2, had 150 passengers on her way to New York.

SPEED IN BUILDING AUDITORIUM URGED

Conventions Bureau Handicapped by Lack of Facilities for Large Gatherings.

A resolution urging that there be no further delay toward erecting the $5,000,000 municipal auditorium and community center building, provided for under the bond issue, was adopted by the board of directors of the St. Louis Convention and Publicity Bureau at its fourteenth annual meeting yesterday at Hotel Statler.

The bureau points out that it is handicapped because of lack of proper facilities for taking care of large conventions, there being at least 50 such conventions which cannot be invited here until the auditorium is completed. It recommends immediate condemnation proceedings, and approval by the Board of Aldermen and the Citizens Supervisory Board Issue Committee of expenditures to start immediate work.

Resolution to City Officials.
The resolution will be sent to the Board of Aldermen, Board of Public Service and the Citizens Supervisory Committee. Other organizations, such as the Chamber of Commerce, Real Estate Exchange and Associated Retailers, will be asked to send similar resolutions.

A campaign to advertise St. Louis as a summer resort for visitors, during June and July, will be started. Secretary Hatfield of the bureau reported. The Municipal Theater and other outdoor attractions will co-operate.

The annual report on the bureau's activities showed that 141 conventions and events held in St. Louis from April 1, 1933, to March 31, last, with a total attendance of 97,395. Each person stayed here an average of 2.2 days and, figuring daily expenditures of $16 each, it is estimated $3,174,540 was spent by convention delegates and visitors.

ADOLPH DUBOIS ACQUITTED
ON CHARGE OF FORGERY

Investment Broker Found Not Guilty After Testimony of Handwriting Expert.

Adolph Dubois, 31 years old, an investment broker, with office in the Tower Building, was acquitted Wednesday of forgery charges in Circuit Judge Hamilton's court. He was arrested March 19 on complaint of August Froebel, 1117 Pine street, who asserted he had been left a bankbook and two checks, one for $150, in Dubois' office a few days before. Later the $150 check, bearing Froebel's purported endorsement, was cashed at the Boatmen's Bank. At the time of the arrest the paying teller was said to have identified Dubois as the man who cashed the check.

Dubois, however, denied the charge. His acquittal followed testimony by a handwriting expert that the endorsement upon the check was not in Dubois' writing.

HYDE FOR VICE-PRESIDENCY ADVOCATED AT WASHINGTON

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, May 8.—Members of the Missouri Republican delegation in Congress were entertained at dinner here last night by Conrad H. Mann of Kansas City, a delegate to the national convention, who is seeking to develop sentiment for the nomination of Gov. Hyde of Missouri for the vice presidency. All those present told him that they were wholly in sympathy with the endorsement given Hyde by the State convention at Springfield.

Mann and J. C. Hughes, former State Republican chairman, discussed the Missouri political situation yesterday with President Coolidge. The subject of the vice presidency, they said, did not come up, but they gained the impression from White House officials that the contest for second place on the ticket is still "wide open" and that Hyde's chances are excellent.

A campaign will be made to acquaint the delegates at Cleveland with Hyde's special fitness for the place, said Mann. "As a platform orator of great ability, as a Governor who has made a splendid record, and as an outstanding citizen of a doubtful State of the Central West, Gov. Hyde is pre-eminently qualified to be the President's running mate. He is not a candidate for the position, but the unanimous endorsement given him at Springfield puts him in the forefront of those who will be considered by the Cleveland convention."

Copies of a booklet on Hyde's record and giving excerpts from his public speeches will be distributed among the delegates in advance of the convention.

The fabrics alone in these lovely Dresses are worth more than the price asked—are of far better quality than you have yet seen so low—and the style variety is a revelation—with pleats, laces, ribbons, sashes, collar and cuff effects and other trimmings in delightful profusion.

J. P. MORGAN SILENT
ON LOAN TO GERMANY

Says Other Bankers Besides His Associates Must be Consulted.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 9.—If J. P.
Morgan has entered into definite negotiations concerning a loan of $100,000,000 by American bankers to Germany to help rehabilitate that country he is not ready to talk about it or to give the outline of the deal to the public.

The banker arrived yesterday on the Homeric after an absence of several months in Europe. Speaking of the proposed German loan, Morgan said: "Much as I would like to go into this matter, it is obvious that my usefulness hinges on silence at this time."

He was told that Owen D. Young, one of the reparation commissioners, had said the loan might easily be floated here.

"That was very nice of Mr.
Young," he said, "but so many issues are involved, so many governmental phases would have to be discussed with bankers before such a loan was taken up, that I cannot discuss it now."

Morgan corroborated reports from Paris that the $100,000,000 loan advanced that country recently to halt the plunge of the franc on the exchange was loaned on condition that the French would undertake to float no more Government bond issues than were already outstanding.

Mrs. Mary Junior, 62 years old,
a divorcee, and William Pannier, 64 years old, a widower, both of Belleville, eloped to St. Charles, Mo., Tuesday and were married. It became known to Belleville friends yesterday. An impromptu wedding reception was given by friends last night.

Each of the couple has grown children. Mrs. Junior had been living with a married daughter and Pannier had been living with several grown sons. The newlyweds are living at 314 South Seventh street. Pannier is a retired coal

Unusual Tales Of Adventure, Tragedy, Mystery, Humor From Real Life

By Robert Welles Ritchie.
THE MAN FROM SAGHALIEN.

I SHALL never forget the picture he made as he stood there among his people on the station platform at Yokohama—a veritable patriarch out of the Book of Moses. His great height was emphasized by contrast with the diminutive Japanese soldiers scuttling back and forth along the railroad carriages. A white beard swept his chest, the tip of it touching the rough belt encircling his peasant's smock at the waist. His great head was bare; though a white of age lay on his hair, his eyes held strong fires of virility. Indeed, looking into them you would say here was a young man masquerading.

And—last bizarre touch—under one arm this Aaron in a Russian smock and boots carried a huge copper samovar. The glint from its polished sides was red as jewel light. The whole—tea boiler and man—made a strange Franz Hals picture there in exotic Japan.

These 300 had just come down by cruiser and train from ice-bound Saghalien. They were wards of the victorious Japanese fleet which recently had snatched the penal island away from the Russians; wards because they had been political prisoners of the Czar in Saghalien camps and when the island fell before the Sun Flay they had not even the status of non-combatants. Now the little brown casuists in Tokio had decided this batch of miserable ones must be taken to Shanghai and turned over to the French Consul there, who represented Russia's interests.

I followed the white-headed giant to the native hotel where the authorities lodged him pending his sailing to Shanghai. When I sent up my card he received me with quiet dignity. In that midge room he towered higher than before. The man walked a tip-toe in his stockinged feet as if afraid a whole-soled tread might wreck the place.

To my embarrassment I discovered our conversation must needs be in French, a tongue wherein my deficiencies were palpable. Yet somehow we got along. I told him I was a correspondent for a London paper and wanted his story. As Professor Sazanoff began to speak I could detect—over my concentration in translation—an over-tone of eagerness on his part almost childish. Like a child, say, who has been taken to a party, long promised.

Once he broke out in an aside which explained this eagerness. "You are the first gentleman I have talked to in 22 years," said he.

I got his story; a terrible one. He was Professor Sazanoff, one-time doctor of laws at Moscow University. When Alexander III was Emperor of all the Russias some of his students of radical bent became involved in a nihilist plot which led to an abortive attempt on the czar's life. The agents provocateurs who had kept in touch with the conspirators linked Prof. Sazanoff up with his students' indiscretions. He was tried, convicted and sentenced to Siberia for life.

"Once at Verkhovansk, which is above the Arctic Circle—the coldest place in Siberia—my spirit revolted after five years. I joined a plot to break guard. A guard was killed. I was tried again. I was found a murderer, though I did not do the deed, and was sentenced to the murderers' colony on Saghalien."

There went this scholar, this educated gentleman. Once at Dulichief penal settlement on the dreary island of pines, Prof. Sazanoff was chained to a fellow prisoner, a peasant murderer, who could not read or write. Chained thus—in the daytime the slack links between them were coupled to a wheelbarrow—a gentleman scholar from Moscow spent seven years with an ox.

"One day I killed the man with the chains about my wrists. I could not stand him. I hoped they would shoot me for it. But the commandant had just enough knowledge to make him foolish. Fortunately for me, he thought me insane. Thereafter he allowed me to remain unchained."

"So I became the teacher of my people there—perhaps you saw at the station something to show how they love me. I wrote my philosophy of life—oh, many pages!—and I taught it to the poor helpless prisoners. They believed. After all, my life has not been wasted."

Then the man from Saghalien took off the cover of his copper samovar and showed me what he carried there in: Roll upon roll of coarse paper covered with copper-plate script. His philosophy of life in chains!

61 MINE SCHOOL GRADUATES

Dr. Frederic Hall Commencement Speaker at Rolla, Mo.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ROLLA, Mo., May 2.—At the fifty-first annual commencement of the Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy, here today, engineering degrees were conferred upon 61 graduates. The Rev. John W. MacIvor of St. Louis preached the baccalaureate sermon Sunday in the auditorium of Parker Hall. His subject was "Making a Life." The M. S. M. Players gave the commencement play, "Wedding Bells," Tuesday evening, May 6. A track and field meet Wednesday between Drury College and the Miners was won by the former and that evening the senior class had its annual banquet.

At the commencement exercises this morning, in the auditorium of Parker Hall, Dr. Frederic Alden Hall, chancellor emeritus of Washington University, delivered the address, his subject being "Shifting Responsibility." Lieutenant-Colonel W. H. Clendenin, U. S. A., conferred commissions in the United States Reserve Corps upon 15 men who had completed the ad-work in military.

Is Your Refrigerator Cold?

A difference of five degrees in a refrigerator is just the difference between having foods crisp and cold and having them damp and cool. It may also be the difference between good health and sickness.

WHITE FROST REFRIGERATORS

Authorities maintain that bacteria thrive in food not kept below 50 degrees in temperature. Put a thermometer in your refrigerator and see what the temperature is!

The White Frost is completely enamelled inside, is clean and sanitary. Its double metal jackets with dead air space carefully sealed between and its ground cork insulation insure the keeping of foods at proper temperatures.

Let us show you this economical, efficient refrigerator. We have an interesting booklet for you, "What You Should Know About a Refrigerator."

TESTIFIES WALLACE SOLD TO "SNOWBIRDS"

Witness Says Retail Coal Commissioner Engaged in Practices He Opposed.

Testimony that E. J. Wallace, commissioner of the Mid-West Retail Coal Association, while conducting a campaign to curb "snowbirds" of coal by other dealers, engaged in the same practice himself, has been presented at the Federal Trade Commission hearing at the Federal Building.

made by John Henderson, vice president and general manager of the West Virginia Coal Co., who was a witness for the Government. The hearing is on complaint charging Wallace with restraint of trade in attempting to eliminate "snowbirds," as intermittent or transient coal dealers are called by the trade.

The hearing opened Monday and will continue into next week. George E. Wallace, counsel for the commission, said he expects to finish the Government's case today. The defense will require several days.

Charge Against Wallace.
Henderson's cross charge against Wallace came while he was questioned as to the exact meaning of the term "snowbird." "I never have been able to decide just what a 'snowbird' is," said Henderson. "Sometimes I believe they are persons to whom Wallace could not sell coal but others could. Some of his customers I would consider the rankest of snowbirds."

Henderson said other coal dealers "pretty generally sell to 'snowbirds.'" Asked if his company made a practice of doing so, he evaded a direct answer by explaining that the credit department passed upon the acceptability of orders and that merits of each were judged separately.

"The rankest 'snowbird' may decide to acquire equipment and become an established dealer," he said. "It depends upon what he says. We do not, however, sell to ordinary peddlers from cars who are without a place of business."

Gave Rebates to Farmers.
Henderson was questioned regarding dealing with Williams Hirth of Columbia, Mo., head of the Missouri Farmers' Association, which has co-operative societies throughout the State and for whose members many supplies are purchased by the central organization. "It is not a fact that Hirth came to you with a proposition that he would get you the business of his organization if you paid him a commission on each ton of coal thus sold," Henderson was asked.

He admitted sales to the association through Hirth and that he had paid a commission to Hirth, but that the commissions were to be paid to the members as a rebate and I believe such payment was made."

More Wallace Letters.
H. B. Wessel, vice president and sales manager of the Kolb Coal Co., presented as exhibits letters written to him by Wallace in 1921 when the Kolb Coal Co. sold to Chicago concern which Wallace declared to be a "snowbird." Wessel said he investigated complaints by Wallace at that time, but decided to continue sales to the Chicago firm. Later, Wessel said, he received additional information regarding the customer which finally led him to discontinue such sales. The Government presented testimony of a number of other coal men who told that Wallace had protested to them about individual sales to alleged "snowbirds." The dealers testified, on cross examination, they were opposed to "snowbirding" as a general practice.

Invites Gov. Smith to Dry Debate.
WASHINGTON, May 8.—An invitation has been sent to Gov. Smith of New York to debate the prohibition question at Springfield, Mass., on either May 16 or 22, by Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the board of temperance.

of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Commenting on the telegram, Dr. Wilson declared that he also would welcome an opportunity to appear at Tammany Hall to discuss the dry issue.

SLAYER OF DOCTOR FREED AT THIRD TRIAL

Farmer Previously Had Been Given Life Term for Killing
Dr. H. L. Brannon.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW MADRID, Mo., May 9.—
The trial of Sherrill J. Brannon, 52, a farmer, on a charge of first-degree murder for the killing of Dr.
H. L. Brannon at Hayti, Pemscot County, Sept. 14, 1921, ended yesterday in a verdict of acquittal.
At the first trial the jury disagreed. At the second, he was sentenced to life imprisonment and went to the penitentiary. His attorneys, however, obtained a reversal of judgment and J. Brannon was liberated under bond last summer. The third trial began here last Monday.
J. Brannon shot Brannon three times as the latter was seated and being shaved in a Hayti barber shop. J. Brannon, arrested, declared Dr. Brannon had broken up his home. Before his death the following day in a Memphis, Tenn., hospital. Dr. Brannon said he was innocent of the charge and asserted J. Brannon had attempted to blackmail him.
Mrs. Brannon said a note was pushed under the door of their home, the night before her husband was shot to death, threatening him with death unless he yielded $500 the next day. J. Brannon denied blackmailing Brannon, and said he had merely asked the doctor to stay away from the J. Brannon home unless summoned. He said his 16-year-old daughter had observed improper conduct of Brannon and Mrs. J. Brannon and the latter, when questioned, had not denied the daughter's report.

HOLDUP MAN GETS TWO YEARS

Thomas Reardon, 53 years old, of 1518 Belle Glade avenue, was sentenced yesterday to two years in the penitentiary for attempted robbery by a jury in Judge Itner's Court.
On Jan. 31 Reardon and Mike Neary, 36, of 2122 Fair avenue, both police characters, were captured in the act of holding up Allen Lanum, a negro, of 2327 Wash-street, by William H. Pryor, a negro night watchman. Neary pleaded guilty May 2 and was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary.

WIDOW DROPS SUIT TO REMOVE GOLD AS EXECUTOR

Part of Money From Sale of Bonds Returned.

The Associated Press.
RIVER, N. J., May 9.—
Mrs. Gould Wainwright, of New York City, has withdrawn her suit for the removal of her brother, George Gould, as one of the executors of the estate of their father, John Jay Gould.

It is indicated, however, that the exception of property in North Carolina, no settlement has been made among the heirs concerning the distribution of the estate. In her suit asking for the removal of Kingdon Gould as an executor, Mrs. Wainwright charged her brother with misappropriation of certain deeds and bonds. Later, however, Mrs. Wainwright admitted that part of the money derived from sale of the bonds had been returned to the estate and that her brother had deduced the remainder for his share. The suit did not involve Schuyler Rice, the other executor.

STANDARD LIFE BUYS CONTROL OF RIVAL

Stockholders of Insurance Company Purchase Big Interest in International.

Purchase of controlling interest in the International Life Insurance Co. by a group of stockholders of the Standard Life Insurance Co., 716 Locust street, was announced today. The companies are to operate separately, much as in the past, it was said.

J. R. Paisley, president of the Standard company, was elected president of the international company, at a special meeting of the board after control passed to new owners, following consummation of the deal yesterday. The numbers of shares involved was not announced, but was said to greatly exceed 1,000.

Paisley succeeds as president of the international company, Massey Wilson, who will become chairman of the Board of Directors. W. K.
Whitfield, vice president and general manager of the Standard, was elected vice president of the International, to succeed Jacob L.
Babier, Republican National Committeeman, who is retiring.

David W. Hill, an attorney, also was named as vice president. No additional changes in the personnel of either company is contemplated.

Of the shares sold, 10,000 were owned by Wilson and Babier. In equal parts. The price is reported to have been $112.50 a share.

Both Wilson and Babier have retained some stock of the International.

Wilson will now devote his attention to reciprocal relations between the International and other old line companies. Babier announced that he would devote his entire time to his real estate, timber and oil interests.

Paisley organized the Standard company in 1914, its headquarters

then being at Decatur, Ill. The Louis in March, 1922. Stockholders home offices were moved to St.
of Standard company who participated in the stock purchase were John M. Atkinson, J. B. Nottel-mann, Fred L. Tipton, George M.
Le Cron, John C. Martin and Dr.
George F. Rendlemen.

Wilson had been president of the international for 15 years, during which Babier was associated with him. The international absorbed 20 smaller insurance companies during that period.

JUDGE ORDERS TWO MEN ACQUITTED IN ROBBERY CASE

Instructed Verdict Returned When Witness Is Uncertain on Identifity of Defendants.

An instructed verdict of not guilty and a nolle pro were entered against two defendants in a robbery case yesterday, in which two men and a woman are under indictment for alleged bribery of the State's chief witness.

The defendants, Dave Klegman, 19, of 4340 De Tonty street, and Stanley Gotch, 21, 1717 North Ninth street, charged with robbing Tony Pappas in front of his home, 2302 Franklin avenue, Jan.
30 last, were freed at the instance of Circuit Judge Falkenhainer and Assistant Circuit Attorney Box-cock when Pappas was not certain in his identification of Klegman the first of the two youths to go on trial. Pappas testified that he had been robbed of $3 and the key to his candy store, 819 North Grand boulevard.

Klegman, Gotch and Joe Boya, 23, of 1501 Mullaphy street, were arrested the day after the robbery.
Boya was released, but was rear-rested Feb. 6, with his sister, Mrs.
August B. Blonde, and Clarence Hicks, a bondman, on a charge of attempting to bribe Pappas not to testify against Gotch and Klegman. Pappas told police Hicks and Boya gave him $100, which he returned, not to testify.

U. S. FLIERS READY FOR 530-MILE HOP

Weather Favorable at Atka for Aleutian Archipelago Flight to Attu Island.

ON BOARD COAST GUARD CUTTER HAIDA, ATKA, Alaska, May 9 (by wireless to the Associated Press).—A hop-off today of the three United States Army globe-circling airplanes from Atka Island for Attu Island in the Aleutian archipelago appears probable.

Fine, clear weather prevailed over this territory yesterday after heavy snow squalls, promising excellent flying conditions today. The planes are in readiness for the 530-mile jump and the fliers have declared themselves in excellent shape. They have been spending their spare time hunting, calling, fishing and hiking.

By the Associated Press. SEATTLE, Wash., May 9.—A search by airplane for Maj. Frederick L. Martin, missing world flight commander of the United States army, will begin at Chignik, Alaska, in about two weeks, according to plans revealed here.

Plans are declared complete for the survey of the Alaska peninsula and waters adjacent to it for a clue to the whereabouts of the Major.

As soon as the cutter Bear of the United States coast guard, which is on her way from San Francisco winter quarters to Puget Sound on the beginning of her annual cruise to the Arctic, can be made ready to leave Seattle, she will proceed to Chignik, whence Maj. Martin and Staff Sergeant Alva L. Harvey departed a week ago yesterday. The Bear is to carry a plane in which the search will be made.

That Maj. Martin and Sgt. Harvey will be found to have perished in the Bering Sea is the fear expressed among men in Puget Sound familiar with the severity of nature in the North.

The plane carried by the Bear is to be flown by Lieut. Earle S. Tonkin, accompanied by Sergt. Ivan O. Cooper. Lieut. Tonkin and Sergt. Cooper will leave San Francisco by air today and go aboard the Bear here. The Bear is expected to reach Seattle Monday.

Portuguese Said to Have Quit Flight: New Plane Offered.

SIMLA, British India, May 9.—It is reported that the Portuguese aviators, Lieuts. Paes and Beiro, have abandoned their flight from Lisbon to Macao, China, in consequence of the accident in Jodhpur, in which their machine was put out of commission.

A Lisbon dispatch yesterday said Portuguese aviation interests had offered to send a new machine to India to enable the aviators to continue their flight, of which they have covered more than 6500 miles.

Homes at Liberty Station Raided. A 50-gallon still and 100 gallons of liquor were found at the home of Lee Davis and 30 cases of "home brew" were found at the home of Jesse Pierce at Liberty station by Sheriff Schnipper and six deputies from Belleville yesterday.

WORLD COURT P WHICH DISCA CALLED

His Proposal Provides New Method of Selecting Judges and Requires Senate's Consent Before U. S. Submits Any Controversy.

By CHARLES MICHELSON.

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Senator Lodge has presented to the Senate his substitute for the World Court of International Justice, to which President Harding, and after him President Coolidge, advised accession by the United States.

It may be taken as Lodge's way out of the dilemma in which the Foreign Relations Committee was placed by the recent hearings at which advocates of America joining the court overwhelmed the committee with arguments.

Lodge's purpose also may have been to answer in advance the Democratic taunt, to be expected during the presidential campaign, that the Republican party had taken no steps toward preservation of world peace, although two Republican Presidents had asked the Senate to do this by permitting the United States to become associated with the existing court in which 47 nations are participating.

The principal idea of Lodge's plan, presented yesterday, is to have the present court junked and a new one made up practically along the same lines by an international conference of nations convened for that purpose and that would have nothing to do with the League of Nations.

Although the proposal is to have the President call for a third Hague conference to create the new court, it is not an administration measure. The State Department has not been consulted, and although it is said Lodge told the President about it, the latter is said to have made no comment.

However, as President Coolidge let it be known when he recommended American entrance into the existing court that he was hopeful of working out something that could get through the Senate, it may be that he is not entirely hostile to the Lodge plan.

Plan Regarded as Political. The Senate generally does not look for a serious effort to put the Lodge plan into effect, regarding it as having been made principally for political effect.

It takes no cognizance of the oft-mentioned objection that 47 nations would not be likely to agree to abolish it and join in organizing another along the same lines, particularly after an anti-league President of the United States had pointed out that this country could not go into the League of Nations or participating further in the league's activities than to vote with the council and assembly in filling vacancies on the world bench as they developed.

The Lodge plan specifically excludes from the court's jurisdiction such questions as American immigration, debts owed by other countries to the United States and all questions affecting the Monroe Doctrine; but as the present court can take cognizance of only such questions as the parties to litigation are willing to submit, this difference is not so vital as might appear.

Differs From Present Body.

The principal departure from the existing court is in the manner of choosing the judges. Now they are elected by the council and assembly of the League of Nations from nominees proposed by the Hague Arbitration court.

Lodge would have the nominations made in the same way, but would place the election in the hands of a general committee designated by the signatory powers (the assembly) and a special committee designated by the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan and five other countries to be selected by the general committee (which would correspond to the council under the present system).

The plural vote of Great Britain would be done away with for only "fully governing states" and no dominions or colonies are entitled to representation in the elections.

Increase in Judges.

Instead of 11 Judges and four Deputy Judges as in the present court, with power to increase the bench upon proposal of the council of the league to 15 Judges and six Deputies, Lodge would have 12 Judges and four Deputy Judges, with the power to go up to 15.

The same maximum if two-thirds of the special committee so decide. Instead of requiring a unanimous vote of the other Judges to disqualify one, Lodge provides that two-thirds of the special committee may impeach and after that two-thirds of

WORLD COURT PLAN OF LODGE, WHICH DISCARDS LEAGUE TRIBUNAL, CALLED "POLITICAL" BY SENATORS

His Proposal Provides New Method of Selecting Judges and Requires Senate's Consent Before U. S. Submits Any Controversy.

By CHARLES MICHELSON.
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Senator Lodge has presented to the Senate his substitute for the World Court of International Justice, to which President Coolidge, advised administration by the United States.

It may be taken as Lodge's way out of the dilemma in which the Foreign Relations Committee was placed by the recent hearings at which advocates of America joining the court overwhelmed the committee with arguments.

Lodge's purpose also may have been to answer in advance the Democratic taunt, to be expected during the presidential campaign, that the Republican party had taken no steps toward preservation of world peace, although two Republican Presidents had asked the Senate to do this by permitting the United States to become associated with the existing court in which 47 nations are participating.

The principal idea of Lodge's plan, presented yesterday, is to have the present court junked and a new one made up, practically along the same lines by an international conference of nations convened for that purpose and that would have nothing to do with the League of Nations.

Although the proposal is to have the President call for a third Hague conference to create the new court, it is not an administration measure. The State Department has not been consulted, and although it is said Lodge told the President about it, the latter is said to have made no comment.

However, as President Coolidge let it be known when he recommended American entrance into the existing court that he was hopeful of working out something that could be put into effect, regarding it as having been made principally for political effect.

It takes no cognizance of the oft-mentioned objection that 47 nations with a court in actual operation would not be likely to agree to abolish it and join in organizing another along the same lines, particularly after two anti-league Presidents of the United States had pointed out that this country could adhere to the present court with- out going into the League of Nations or participating further in the league's activities than to vote with the council and assembly in filling vacancies on the world bench as they developed.

The Lodge plan specifically excludes from the court's jurisdiction such questions as American immigration, debts owed by other countries to the United States and all questions affecting the Monroe Doctrine; but as the present court can take cognizance of only such questions as the United States is willing to submit, this difference is not so vital as might appear.

Differs From Present Body.

The principal departure from the existing court is in the manner of choosing the judges. Now they are elected by the council and assembly of the League of Nations from nominees proposed by the Hague arbitration court.

Lodge would have the nominations made in the same way, but would place the election in the hands of a general committee designated by the signatory powers (the assembly) and a special committee designated by other countries, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan and five other countries to be selected by the general committee (which would correspond to the council under the present system).

The plural vote of Great Britain would be done away with for only "fully governing states" and no dominions or colonies are entitled to representation in the elections.

Increase in Judges.

Instead of 11 Judges and four Deputy Judges as in the present court, with power to increase the bench upon proposal of the council of the League to 15 Judges and six Deputy Judges, Lodge would have 12 Judges and four Deputy Judges, with the power to go up to the maximum if two-thirds of the special committee so decides.

Instead of requiring a unanimous vote of the other Judges to disqualify one, Lodge provides that two-thirds of the special committee may impeach and after that two-thirds

Judge of the same nationality at the same time.

Of course there is no mention of the functions of the existing court having to do with pure league activities, such as giving advisory opinions to the league.

Another provision of the Lodge plan that does not appear in the treaty president to every case to be more than one Judge or Deputy Judge.

The final clause of the lodge plan provides that every case submitted by the United States must be agreed to by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate, not only as to the character of the case, but as to the details of a special arrangement between this country and the other party or parties to the dispute.

In other words, there will have to be what practically amounts to a treaty president to every case to which this country becomes a party, and as it sometimes takes years to get action on a treaty it is not surprising that the Lodge plan is considered as something to be set up for the country to look at until after the Republican convention, rather than a sincere, practical plan to arrange a tribunal to decide questions between nations that otherwise might lead to war.

Summary of Plan.

A summary of the Lodge proposal, made in the form of a Senate resolution, follows:

Resolved, That the President propose the calling of a third Hague conference for the establishment of a world court of international justice.

Resolved, by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States, in Congress assembled, that the President be and he is hereby respectfully requested to propose on behalf of the Government of the United States to the nations of the world the calling of a third Hague conference and to recommend to such a conference the following substitute for the establishment of a World Court of International Justice:

Then comes the statute for the world court.

Article 1. "To be in addition to the Court of Arbitration, Chapter I: Organization of the court.

Article 2. "The World Court shall be composed of a body of independent judges, elected regardless of their nationality, from amongst persons of high moral character, who possess the qualifications required in their respective countries for appointment to the highest judicial offices."

Article 3. "Two Judges shall be elected by an electoral commission consisting of a general committee composed of representatives of the signatory Powers designated for the purpose, and a special committee composed of representatives designated by the United States, British Empire, France, Italy and Japan, together with the representatives of five other signatory Powers to be designated by the general committee by majority vote. Each signatory Power shall have one vote and only one representative on each of the committees."

The electoral commission shall have a permanent secretary who shall be the secretary-general of the Hague Permanent Court of Arbitration.

Article 4. "The court shall consist of 16 members—12 Judges and four Deputy Judges. The number of Judges and Deputy Judges may hereafter be increased by a two-thirds vote of all the members of the special committee to a total of 15 Judges and six Deputy Judges."

Limitation on Nominations.

Article 5. "No group may nominate more than four persons, not more of two whom shall be of their own nationality. In no case must the number of candidates nominated be more than double the number of seats to be filled."

Article 6. "The court, its organs, legal facilities, etc., shall be consulted on nominees."

Article 7. "The secretary-general shall prepare alphabetical lists of persons thus nominated for the consideration of the committee and the special committee of the electoral commission shall proceed independently of one another to elect, from the lists, the Judges and Deputy Judges."

Article 8. "The general committee and the special committee of the electoral commission shall proceed independently of one another to elect, from the lists, the Judges and Deputy Judges."

Article 9. "Those candidates who obtain an absolute majority of votes in the General Committee and in the Special Committee of the Electoral Commission shall be considered as elected. In the event of more than one candidate of the same nationality being elected by the votes by both committees, the eldest of these shall be considered elected. There never shall be more than one Judge or Deputy Judge of the same nationality at the same time."

State Department Not Consulted on Plan, Which Contemplates That President Shall Call a New Hague Conference.

Article 11 provides for additional elections if one or more seats remain unfilled.

Article 12. "If after the third meeting a vacancy still remains, a joint conference consisting of six members, three appointed by the General Committee, may be formed at any time at the request of either committee for the purpose of choosing one name for each seat still vacant to submit to the committee for their respective acceptances. If the joint conference is satisfied that it will not be successful in procuring an election, those members of the committee who have already been appointed shall within a period to be fixed by the Special Committee, proceed to fill the vacant seats by selection from amongst those candidates who have obtained votes either in the General Committee or in the Special Committee. In the event of an equality of votes amongst the Judges, the eldest Judge shall have a casting vote."

Article XIII. "The Judges to be elected for nine-year terms to be elected as fixed by the Electoral Commission with arrangement for expiration by classes three, six and nine years hence—so that one-third may be chosen every year."

"The Deputy Judges to be elected for six years in two classes."

"The Judges and Deputy Judges may be re-elected. Though re-elected, they shall finish any cases which have been heard but not decided by them."

"No Political Functions."

Article XIV. provides for the filling of vacancies for unexpired terms.

Article XV. provides that sittings shall follow a schedule, based on priority of election and then age.

Article XVI.—No political or administrative functions may be performed by the Judges, but Deputy Judges may continue such functions.

Article XVII. says that no member of the court may act as agent, counsel or advocate in any case of an international nature or "may participate in a decision in any case in which he has previously interested as agent, counsel, etc. Any doubt on this point to be settled by the decision of the court."

Article XVIII. says that a Judge and Deputy Judge may be dismissed when "in the unanimous opinion of the other Judges he has ceased to fulfill the required conditions. A member may be impeached by a two-thirds vote of the special committee and after a hearing may be removed by a two-thirds vote of the general committee."

Article 19. "Diplomatic privileges and immunities shall be given members when engaged on the business of the court."

Article 20. says that members must take "solemn declaration" to perform their duties conscientiously and impartially.

Article 21. "The court shall elect its president and vice president for three years and appoint its registrar."

Article 22. "The seat of the court shall be held every year." to Hague and the president and registrar must reside there."

Article 23. "A session of the court shall be held every year." to begin June 15. The president may summon an extraordinary session and it may be convened on written request of any two of the signatory Powers."

Article 24. The court shall decide its competency to sit in certain cases.

Article 25. "The full court shall sit except when it is expressly provided otherwise." If 12 are not present, a deputy shall be called in, but nine shall constitute a quorum to sit, its necessary."

Article 26 says that to speed up the work the court may delegate the Judges who at the request of the contesting parties may hear and determine cases by summary procedure."

Article 27 provided that the court shall make rules for all procedure."

Article 28 says that a Judge of the nationality of contestants may sit."

Article 29 says that the Judges shall receive an annual indemnity of 15,000 Dutch florins, "the president to receive 45,000 Dutch florins, the vice president 150 Dutch florins a day for not to exceed 200 days; Judges to receive 150 Dutch florins a day for not to exceed 200 days."

FIGHT IN HOUSE ON PLAN TO DELAY EXCLUSION CLAUSE

Point of Order Made Against Conference Report on Immigration, but Gillett Overrules It.

PRESIDENT MAY VETO LEGISLATION

Democrats, Insurgents and Some Republicans in Senate Line Up Against His Proposal.

IDE TO IGNORE DANGER OF CONFLICT IN PACIFIC, SAYS LONDON TIMES

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 9.—The TIMES, commenting editorially on the American anti-Japanese immigration legislation, says much of the friendly atmosphere created by the Washington treaty has been dispelled thereby. Dwell- ing on the "fundamental cases" of the "antagonism" between the Americans and Japanese, the paper continues:

"It is idle to ignore the possibility of ultimate conflict in the Pacific, distant though it may be. Nobody will lightly put forward alarmist theories about the ultimate clash between the East and West."

"Upon the people of these islands, however, the effects of their cherished friendship for Japan and their indissoluble ties with the United States, rests perhaps the supreme responsibility for averting so irreparable a disaster. The seeds of conflict are on either side of the Pacific Ocean and it behooves this country to watch with incessant vigilance the course of the monstrous world problems confronting the world. The action of the United States marks a very significant stage in its development."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—A sharp fight developed in the House today against the conference report on the immigration bill which would postpone the effective date of Japan exclusion to March 1, 1925.

The report was called up by Chairman Johnson of the immigration committee. Immediately Representative Sabath (Dem.) of Illinois, one of the conferees who declined to sign the report, made a point of order against it. The House and Senate managers, he said, acted in this authority in writing the March 1 date into the bill.

Representative Baker (Dem.) of California, another House conferee who refused to accept the compromise date also attacked the report, assailing particularly the provision that would request the Japanese Government with a view to abrogating the "gentlemen's agreement."

Speaker Gillett overruled the points of order and no effort was made to appeal from the chair's decision.

Baker opened the debate by declaring the President has no constitutional authority to negotiate an immigration treaty with a foreign Power, because immigration is a question which Congress has exclusive jurisdiction.

Garrett Attacks Report.

Representative Garrett of Tennessee, the Democratic leader, joined in the attack on the report, asserting the conferees exceeded their authority in approving the provision looking to negotiation of an immigration treaty.

Representative Johnson assailed the "way to make sure" of securing absolute Japanese exclusion is the way requested by the President. Postponement of the exclusion clause, he said, would not mean an influx of Japanese, as they would be placed on a quota basis, under which the number of immigrants would be 80.

Asked if the President would to the measure if the exclusion date were not agreed to, Johnson answered he did not know, but did not desire to take a chance.

Among those who rallied to the support of Johnson was Representative Burton (Rep.) of Ohio, who declared, "I am justified in passing Asiatic exclusion legislation, but care should be taken to work out the problem diplomatically."

"Shall we slap a friendly nation in the face?" he asked. "Shall we ruthlessly disregard our immigration agreement with Japan?"

Burton insisted that the provision put into the bill by the con-

WHAT SHALL WE DO ABOUT THE BUSES? CITY SOON MUST DECIDE ON POLICY

Administration Has No Definite or Established Plan for Regulation of Motor Carriers.

Management of Conveyances Now Seeking Permits for System of New Routes in City.

A LONG with its big street railway problem, St. Louis has a good-sized bus problem and is now facing the necessity of a set policy for the operation of the buses.

The city has had an established street railway policy, based on franchise legislation. It is now considering changes in that policy, in view of the forthcoming reorganization of the United Railways lines. The Cleveland service-at-cost plan, with direction by the city and a fixed profit guaranteed, is the most definite new plan offered, and has been received favorably by the Reorganization Committee.

But the city has no established policy as to the buses. They have come, and have increased their number from month to month, until 72 double-deck buses are operating in four distinct lines, from Eads Bridge to University City, Forest Park, Carondelet Park and the Water Tower. And all the law that exists on the subject is an ordinance providing that the Board of Public Service may grant permits for bus operation, and may revoke the permits at any time. This is treating the buses, practically, as big taxicabs.

The United Railways receiver, management has urged that the city adopt a bus policy. Its idea for such a policy would be to make the buses the property of the city, and to let the city keep the buses in its own hands, rather than have the buses run a block or two away, but want them in the neighborhood; otherwise, everybody appears to endorse the applications as made.

Fisk to Make Recommendation.

Fisk will make his recommendation, and the board will probably act upon it, within two or three weeks. The Chamber of Commerce has endorsed the applications, and President Meade of the company says that real estate men in all the sections affected are backing them. In the Carondelet Park neighborhood the bus line is said to have had a marked effect on the sale of lots in subdivisions. This will mean increased taxable values, to the benefit of the city treasury.

The city's present bus ordinance, under which permits are issued, requires the bus company to pay to the city 3 per cent of its gross receipts. On the basis of a 10-cent fare, this is 2 mills for each fare paid. The United Railways Co. pays 1 mill on each 7-cent fare, or less than 15 per cent of its receipts. However, the United Railways Co. is subject to other special charges, one of the heaviest of which is the paving requirement.

The president of the bus line says, "The city, on the 3 per cent basis, is 15 cents of the $5. To those versed in the cost of motor transportation, the bus business might not appear a bonanza, but the bus company is not complaining. The public use of buses in other cities has tended to increase, and the Fifth Avenue line in New York is said to average more than 100 per cent of its capacity busload, as many as use the buses for short distances."

The bus company here is controlled by the same interests which control the Chicago lines and the New York Fifth Avenue line. The same interest controls the manufacture of the buses, the chief interest being the Yellow Cab Co. of Chicago, and the chief individual being John Hertz of Chicago.

Shortridge and Hiram Johnson, Republicans.

But Robinson said his was the expression of a personal and not a party sentiment, and said no word had been passed along to join hands against the administration. However, within half an hour a canvass disclosed that the minority had come to Robinson's view, and Reed of Pennsylvania, as the holder of the postponement provision, decided that instead of enough support to sustain the bill as reported by the conferees, there are enough votes to pass over a presidential veto a bill making exclusion effective by July 1.

Those who object—and they include Borah of Idaho—to deferring the operation of exclusion, have their arguments on the ground that by adopting Mr. Coolidge's so-called compromise the Senate would recognize the right of a foreign nation to interfere in a domestic question and to influence the Senate's action.

It is in keeping with the attitude of the Senate.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, minority leader, stoutly denied yesterday that the Democrats were playing politics with the issue in order to embarrass the White House. He opened the subject on the Senate floor with a heated denunciation of the postponement clause, and was seconded by Ashurst (Dem.) of Arizona.

How the Bus Problem Is Handled in Other Cities

New York — Fifth Avenue bus line, 10-cent fare, franchise for original line, extensions operated under permits; pays city 5 per cent of gross receipts. Also 220 smaller buses are operated on 26 routes in the five boroughs, at 5-cent fare, under city supervision, but without definite legal authority.

Chicago — Lines from the loop to North Side beaches, via Lincoln Park, to Jackson Park on the South Side, and to the West Side, run under licenses granted by park boards; about 300 buses in use; 10-cent fare; company paid $20,000 on passage of authorizing ordinance, and pays 3 per cent during first five years, and 4 per cent the third five years. After 15 years, park board has right to take over and operate the lines.

DAN BEARD BACK AFTER 49 YEARS

Pioneer Boy Scout Leader, Now 74, Recalls Early Days of St. Louis.

After a lapse of 49 years Daniel Carter Beard is again a visitor in St. Louis. In 1875 he spent eight months here mapping the city which even then, as he recalls, was a pretty town to visit. His present visit is in connection with the annual convention of the Boy Scouts of America, of which he is national commissioner.

Dan Beard—as he is affectionately known to the hundreds of thousands of American boys who follow him as a successor to that other great scout, Daniel Boone—is 74 years old. He admits his age, but still can perform the 21 tasks which entitle a Boy Scout to wear the Golden Eagle badge. Any Scout will tell you that's going some.

One of the organizers of the Boy Scout movement, and probably the most picturesque figure connected with it, Beard obtained for the support of President Roosevelt, Admiral Dewey and Major-General Bull. He has seen it grow from a campfire crowd of 30,000 in 1905 and to 500,000 in 1924. And in addition to those 500,000 boys, there are 150,000 men affiliated as scoutmasters, counselors, executives and honor men.

Recalls Former Visit.
Beard's keen eyes twinkled as he told a Post-Dispatch reporter today about that 1875 visit of his, during which he witnessed the professional debut as an actress of Mary Anderson, later to become famous. Beard was then associated with the Sanborn Map and Publishing Co., mapping the location and character of buildings for the information of insurance companies.

"One night a lot of fellows got together in my room at the Southern Hotel," he related, "and we discovered we were all from Kentucky. The question of right and wrong, and somebody suggested going to Ben DeBar's, Opera House where a little girl from Louisville was to make her first stage appearance, except for little affairs in her home town. Few of us knew anything about the play or the girl, but the fact she was from Kentucky settled it."

"Well, we found 'Romeo and Juliet' was billed, and there were a lot of empty seats. I had bought seats—they looked like shillalahs—for the bunch of us and when we got inside we scattered all over the house, hardly anybody else being there."

"The 'Juliet' was a skinny girl of 17 and she had trouble kicking her train away from her feet, but she was from Kentucky so whenever she said or did anything, we pounded our hands on the balcony and the floor. 'Romeo' was puzzled during the balcony scene, and I thought the poorly constructed balcony would collapse, but 'Juliet' stood up and said: 'I am a lady, and I die a lady's death, chewing soap to the Queen's taste.'"

"The following morning the newspapers reported 'wild enthusiasm' attended Mary Anderson's debut as 'Juliet' and the following evening all seats were sold. I really believe that was the beginning of her fame—she had the talent, but the audience had to show its appreciation, and we certainly did with those claps."

Hospitality Still Here.
The visitor was asked what attributes St. Louis in 1875 held true in 1924. He mentioned hospitality, and looking out of the twelfth-story window, atmosphere. If possible, he implied, the hospitality about as good as the atmosphere has changed. Concerning hospitality, he said that, while he used to peruse over his maps in his hotel room in 1875, the clerk used to come upstairs and remind him: "Nobody is allowed to die here from overwork."

Although he stayed only at the Southern, Beard recalled that the other good hotels, the Barmans, were other good hotels. Barmans was patronized for a desert which made the consumer smell of rum for a week after eating, or drinking it.

Beard had been here before 1875, but not following that year until now. In the interim of 49 years he became noted as an artist and an advocate of outdoors. He illustrated Mark Twain's "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" and wrote the "American Boy's Handy Book." He is now associate editor of "Boy's Life" and conductor of the Dan Beard Outdoor School at Flushing, L. I.

BOY SCOUT LEADER HERE FOR MEETING

DAN BEARD.

THREE WOMEN ON COMMITTEE OF SEVEN RULING TAMMANY

Body Will Remain in Power Until Members Have Selected Successor to Murphy.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 9.—A committee of seven, including three women, rules Tammany Hall today and will remain in power until they have selected a successor to the late Charles F. Murphy. Created at the meeting of the Executive Committee yesterday by a resolution which held that the members of the special committee should "perform the duties formerly discharged by the Hon. Charles F. Murphy," the members, who represent every section of Manhattan and Harlem, will hold meetings in Tammany Hall tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday, to sift the capabilities and merits of district leaders favorably mentioned for leadership.

A veteran Tammany leader, Frank J. Goodwin, for many years a close friend of Murphy and mentioned for the vacant post, is chairman of the special committee. The birth of the committee followed the definite refusal of surrogate James A. Foley, son-in-law of the late chief, to accept the post, although he had the endorsement of Gov. Smith and the support of many district leaders.

TWO FIRMS ANNOUNCE GIFTS TOTALING $22,500 TO "Y"

Inaugural Dinner of Fund Campaign to Be Held Monday at the City Club.

Gifts to the $2,000,000 Y. M. C. A. development fund of $12,500 from the Ely-Walker Dry Goods Co., in addition to gifts to be obtained by a canvass of personnel, and of $10,000 from the Lambert Pharmaceutical Co., were announced today.

The inaugural dinner of the campaign will be held at 6:30 p. m. Monday at the City Club. Harry N. Holmes of London, in this country under auspices of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, will be the principal speaker. A demonstration of soliciting will be given at a preliminary rally and coaching meeting at 3 p. m. Sunday at the City Club. There will be musical programs at both meetings.

Cards with the names of prospective donors have been classified in nine units, five downtown and one each in the North and South Sides, West End and Carondelet. Separate headquarters for negroes are at the Pine street "Y."

MRS. H. H. WAGONER OBSERVES HER NINETIETH BIRTHDAY

She Is Said to Be Oldest Living Graduate of Miami U. and Was Classmate of Benjamin Harrison.

Mrs. H. H. Wagoner, of 4187 Lindell boulevard, donor of the Wagoner Memorial Methodist Church, Newstead and Gibson avenues, celebrated her ninetyeth birthday yesterday and her friends will extend the celebration for more than a week.

She is said to be the oldest living graduate of Miami University at Oxford, Ohio, and was a classmate of Benjamin Harrison, David Swing and other men who attained success in that generation. Her activities have covered a wide range. She is a charter member of home and foreign missionary societies, the W. C. T. U., White Cross movement and was one of the first allied with the cause of woman suffrage. Memorials to her husband stand in India, China and Japan in the form of schools and chapels. She is the mother of George C. R. Wagoner, former Congressman.

HIGH SCHOOL SALARIES IN OTHER CITIES CITED

St. Louis Teachers Say Only 12 Per Cent of Their Ranks Get Maximum Salary.

A statement issued today by the High School Teachers' Association, which is urging the Board of Education to increase salaries of St. Louis high school teachers, declares that only 12 per cent of their ranks here draw the maximum salary, which is $3,200 a year. For comparison, it quotes the maximum salaries in effect in other cities, as follows:

Newark, N. J., $4,400; New York, $4,200; Chicago, $3,550; Boston, $3,852; Philadelphia, Cleveland and Patterson, N. J., each $3,800; Pittsburgh and Milwaukee, each $3,600; Jersey City, N. J., $3,400; New Orleans, La., $3,300; Worcester, Mass., and Trenton, N. J., each $3,250; Denver, Colo., $3,200; and Des Moines, Ia., $3,000.

Refers to Interview.
The statement refers to a recent interview given by President Roskopf of the Board of Education, who "implied, according to the report, that the teachers are justly paid and challenged us to tell what we get, so the public can judge whether our request for an increase is proper." The statement adds that considerable data of this nature was submitted through the press a year ago and that the teachers thought "that point had been well covered and left behind."

"The teachers' statement, still referring to the Roskopf interview, goes on: 'We are amazed that Mr. Roskopf would assume the attitude toward the question of adequate remuneration for the employees of the Board of Education which is indicated by the interview. He apparently feels that it is not proper for these employees to ask for an increase in salary. He certainly ought to realize that it is always appropriate for employees to seek better pay for services rendered so long as they are underpaid. We must realize, too, that it is the business of the Board of Education to administer the finances of the public school enterprise in such a way as to enable the board to maintain the enterprise at a high point of efficiency, and that such efficiency cannot be achieved if the employees are not fairly paid.'"

"Movement Not a New One.
"Mr. Roskopf gives the impression that the movement of the high school teachers to secure more adequate salaries is a new thing, but it has incited other teachers and employees to seek increases. He knows that the high-school teachers have urged the Board of Education for four years to plan its program so that the unsatisfactory salary situation could be corrected. He is aware, too, that for more than a year and a half we have pressed the matter vigorously. His reported assertion that he does not know whether the salaries paid the high-school teachers of St. Louis are as attractive as those paid in many other cities is conclusive proof of the correctness of our claims that the school authorities have not considered seriously our repeated appeals for favorable action on this question. If he has ever examined the statistical data submitted over a year ago by the High School Teachers' Association, he must know that the maximum salary paid here is far less than that paid in many other cities."

"Mr. Roskopf objects to the high-school teachers parading their salary demands through the press. He knows that our campaign was inaugurated in an unquestionably proper manner. We brought the question to the attention of the public only after months of earnest private talks and coaching meetings. He knows that we have even the slightest indication that our petition was receiving any serious consideration at the hands of the Superintendent of Instruction and Board of Education."

TO BE MARRIED IN JUNE

THE betrothal of Miss Dorothy Partridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Samuel Partridge of 5188 Cabanne avenue, and Lynn Hamilton Gamble was announced at a luncheon given today by Misses Ruth and Helma Kreisemann, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Kreisemann of McPherson avenue, in honor of the prospective bride. The table was adorned with yellow daisies combined with blue delphinium, and the candles and candles were yellow to match. The guests were Misses Preston Sullivan, Leonard MacCarthy, Paul Whelan, Roy Nobel, R. M. Clucas, John Patterson, J. J. Seary Jr. and Misses Dorothy Wray, Marguerite Moll, Eleanor Klein, Ruth Legat and Leonelle Gamble, sister of the prospective bridegroom. Because they expected an announcement, the guests were kept in suspense until the close of the luncheon, when they were taken to the dining room, where a miniature bridal table, adorned with bride and bridegroom, white maline and candles was laid, and the announcement was made by cards enclosed in small wedding cake boxes which also held enamel-topped perfume bottles which were given as favors.

Miss Partridge is a graduate of Smith College, and has been identified with the younger social set. Mr. Gamble is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gamble of 5736 McPherson avenue. He is an alumnus of Washington University and a member of Beta Theta Pi. The wedding will take place in October.

THE wedding of Miss Caroline Choate Sterling, daughter of Mrs. Hugh Sterling of 4914 Plymouth avenue, formerly of Webster Groves, and Joseph Renard, son of Mrs. Auguste Renard of 6121 Waterman avenue, will be solemnized at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning at St. Roch's Church, the Rev. Father Schwitalla officiating. Miss Edith Schraustader will be maid of honor, and Misses Marjorie Dempsey and Margaret Renard, a sister of the bridegroom, flower girls. Eugene C. Renard is to be his brother's best man, and Paul Schulte and Edward Groves ushers. The bride will wear white headed georgette and long, simple lines, with the fullness caught at either hip. She will dispense with a train, and the tulle veil will be arranged under a headress of the same material. Her flowers will be roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor will wear cream-colored chiffon over a pink slip, and a black hat. She will carry Opheelia roses. The flower girls will be dressed alike in white dotted Swiss with wreaths of flowers in their hair, and will carry baskets of rosebuds. One will have pink ribbons about her dress and the other blue. A small reception will follow at the home of the bride's mother. The couple will spend their honeymoon in Chicago.

THE wedding of Miss Pauline Inez Bell of 5263 St. Louis avenue to Edward Thornton Robinson Jr. of 5896 Clemons avenue, will take place at the prospective bride's parents' home tomorrow evening at 8:30 p. m. Miss Helen Roblaette Robinson, a sister of Mr. Robinson, will attend the bride and Mr. Wallace F. Robinson, an uncle, will be best man. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. L. B. Hale, pastor of the Delmar Baptist Church. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson will be at home after June 9 at the Tivoli Apartments, 6358 Delmar boulevard.

Seary Jr. and Misses Dorothy Wray, Marguerite Moll, Eleanor Klein, Ruth Legat and Leonelle Gamble, sister of the prospective bridegroom. Because they expected an announcement, the guests were kept in suspense until the close of the luncheon, when they were taken to the dining room, where a miniature bridal table, adorned with bride and bridegroom, white maline and candles was laid, and the announcement was made by cards enclosed in small wedding cake boxes which also held enamel-topped perfume bottles which were given as favors.

Miss Partridge is a graduate of Smith College, and has been identified with the younger social set. Mr. Gamble is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gamble of 5736 McPherson avenue. He is an alumnus of Washington University and a member of Beta Theta Pi. The wedding will take place in October.

THE wedding of Miss Caroline Choate Sterling, daughter of Mrs. Hugh Sterling of 4914 Plymouth avenue, formerly of Webster Groves, and Joseph Renard, son of Mrs. Auguste Renard of 6121 Waterman avenue, will be solemnized at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning at St. Roch's Church, the Rev. Father Schwitalla officiating. Miss Edith Schraustader will be maid of honor, and Misses Marjorie Dempsey and Margaret Renard, a sister of the bridegroom, flower girls. Eugene C. Renard is to be his brother's best man, and Paul Schulte and Edward Groves ushers. The bride will wear white headed georgette and long, simple lines, with the fullness caught at either hip. She will dispense with a train, and the tulle veil will be arranged under a headress of the same material. Her flowers will be roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor will wear cream-colored chiffon over a pink slip, and a black hat. She will carry Opheelia roses. The flower girls will be dressed alike in white dotted Swiss with wreaths of flowers in their hair, and will carry baskets of rosebuds. One will have pink ribbons about her dress and the other blue. A small reception will follow at the home of the bride's mother. The couple will spend their honeymoon in Chicago.

THE wedding of Miss Pauline Inez Bell of 5263 St. Louis avenue to Edward Thornton Robinson Jr. of 5896 Clemons avenue, will take place at the prospective bride's parents' home tomorrow evening at 8:30 p. m. Miss Helen Roblaette Robinson, a sister of Mr. Robinson, will attend the bride and Mr. Wallace F. Robinson, an uncle, will be best man. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. L. B. Hale, pastor of the Delmar Baptist Church. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson will be at home after June 9 at the Tivoli Apartments, 6358 Delmar boulevard.

Misses Grace and Melba Ryan, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Ryan of University City, who will March 1 for a Mediterranean cruise, spent Easter week in Rome and will visit Switzerland, France and England before returning home in June.

CHARGES SOVIET DELEGATES DELAY PARLEY WITH BRITISH

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 9.—Indorsing the view expressed by some well-informed observers that the Anglo-Russian conference may result in a fizzle, the Daily Telegraph's political expert today says the Russian delegates are doing all possible to draw out the negotiations. The writer claims to have learned that "the rulers in Moscow hither to have been of two minds about giving Premier MacDonald the satisfaction of a diplomatic success at the conference."

"They now seem less eager for agreement than when Lord Curzon was Foreign Minister," he adds. "Perhaps they do not believe that MacDonald's government will last long, and prefer to wait for his successor." It is also said they wish to prolong the conference until the Communist Congress in June has renewed their mandate, and the violent abuse of Britain in the Soviet press is said to be designed to prepare favorable opinion among the delegates to that Congress.

The writer represents Premier MacDonald as being seriously annoyed by the Soviet attitude and sets forth the possibility of the Premier making the demand that the delegation either get down to work or quit.

Soviet Leader Commits Suicide.
By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, May 9.—Julius Lutsikhov, a member of the Federal Executive Council of the Soviets, committed suicide by shooting. He left no explanation of his act, but the authorities say it was due to nervous depression. This is the first instance of a high member of the communist government taking his life. The body will lie in state, and there will be an elaborate public funeral.

H & K
The value is in flavor rather than price-per-pound!

In your circle of friends is one who has the reputation of serving the best coffee. Generally, it is the hostess who has learned to buy coffee because of its value in flavor rather than its price per pound.

A pound of ordinary coffee weighs as much as a pound of H & K. But the weight is thrown away with the grounds. Only the flavor counts.
H & K may cost a little more by the pound, but infinitely less by the volume of flavor. That is the secret back of the coveted reputation for serving the best.

JAPANESE IMPORTING WHEAT

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 9.—Advances in the price of native rice are forcing Japan to buy Canadian wheat in heavy quantities, according to T. Shimusaki, representative of a Tokyo milling firm, who is investigating the wheat situation.
Shimusaki said Canadian wheat could be imported by Japan at about 15 cents a bushel cheaper than Japanese wheat could be produced, and was much cheaper than rice. The Japanese people, he added, have come to prefer wheat to rice. Japan has imported 30,000 tons of Canadian wheat in the last three months, according to statistics of the port of Vancouver. China also has been a heavy purchaser, taking 120,000 tons.

ments made when Ambassador Hanabusa's note first set ablaze the issue. But underneath the surface are assorted motives, including a desire to force the President to back down completely from his first stand, and to precipitate if possible a conflict between the President and Secretary Hughes. At least much of the corridor to W. is concerned with what will happen if Mr. Coolidge accepts outright exclusion after Hughes has stoutly fought it.
Oddly, Representative Johnson of California, who was the author of the House immigration bill and is one of the chief exclusionists, is satisfied with the postponement idea, and points out that only 30 Japanese would come into the country between July 1, this year, and the date next year which the President wanted in order to afford time to "negotiate for the abrogation" of the gentleman's agreement.

Race Conflict Is On, Says Japanese Paper

TOKYO, May 9.—Although the conferees of the American Congress have agreed to propose the postponement of the effective date of provisions in the immigration bill excluding Japanese until March, 1935, the situation remains grave, in the opinion of the Yoruza "hoho," a Jingo newspaper.
"The purpose of the proposed postponement," the paper says, "is to avoid adverse effect on the presidential election. However, the race conflict is actually already in progress. Japan cannot conclude a treaty which humiliates her, therefore Japan and the United States may become nations without treaty relations. It is high time for Japan to unite with other Asiatic nations to face the situation, exclude Americans from the Orient, and make her understand that her discrimination is unjust."
"There is nothing left but to wait the awakening of the Japanese nation."

Article 30. "Signatory Powers shall share the expenses of the court as determined by a majority of the general committee."
Jurisdiction of Court.
Chapter 2, Article 31, provides that signatory states may be parties before the court.
Article 32 says that states not signatory may be admitted to cases, but must pay.
Article 23. "The jurisdiction of the court comprises all cases which the parties refer to it and all matters covered by treaties. Signatory Powers may declare whether to recognize ipso facto the jurisdiction of the court in disputes over interpretation of a treaty, any question of international law, the nature or extent of the reparation to be made for the breach of an international obligation."
Article 34. "When a treaty or convention in force provides for the reference of a matter to a tribunal to be instituted by the League of Nations the court may take jurisdiction of such matter as between the parties to such treaty or convention."
Article 35 covers the application of international conventions, custom law, etc.
Article XXXVI—"The official language of the court shall be the French and English, depending on the case in question and the court's decision and the court may authorize some other language at times."
Article XXXVII covers the opening of cases and the stating of the dispute.
Articles XXXVIII and XXXIX cover details of rights and parties being represented by agents.
Article XL provides that the procedure may be written or oral.
Article XLI says services shall be upon the governments concerned.
Article XLII says that the president and vice president shall preside and in their absence, the eldest judge. All rulings shall be by majority vote.
Article XLIII says that hearings shall be public, save by special request and court permission.
Article XLIV requires that minutes of proceedings be kept.
Articles XLV, XLVI, XLVII, XLVIII and XLIX give details of procedure.
Article L provides that if a party fails to appear or defend, the other party may call on the court to decide in favor of him.

NEW SERUM FOR USE IN PNEUMONIA CASESPhysicians Say Discovery Will Cut Mortality Rate From 25 to 50 Per Cent.

NEW YORK, May 9.—Discovery of a new serum treatment for pneumonia, which an "exceptionally conservative" group of scientists believe will cut mortality from this source 25 to 50 per cent, was announced yesterday by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

Simultaneously, the discoverer, Dr. Lloyd D. Felton, of the department of preventive medicine and hygiene, Harvard Medical School, read a paper to the New England Health Institute at Boston disclosing the results he has attained. Dr. Felton is still in his early thirties.

Treatment of pneumonia by serum is not new. Physicians have injected into the veins of patients a serum obtained from the blood of a horse, previously rendered immune to the germs of pneumonia. This method was attended by a degree of success, but violent chills, "serum sickness," rashes and other undesirable reactions were produced. For this reason its value to private practitioners was radically diminished, and its use largely confined to well-equipped hospitals.

Dr. Felton has succeeded, he says, in taking this serum and producing from it the protective "anti-bodies," which kill or render innocuous the germs of pneumonia. At the same time, he says, he has left the harmful ingredients of the serum in solution, thus obtaining a substance with all the good and none of the bad properties of the old serum. Any doctor could give it without danger.

His new serum has been used with "encouraging" results in 40 cases at the Boston City Hospital, and in a similar number in Manhattan and Brooklyn. It is injected into the veins and an immediate drop of temperature has been noted in practically all cases treated.

Added importance is given to Dr. Felton's work, according to members of the influenza commission, by the probability that in the isolation of the protective antibodies of pneumonia serum, he has uncovered a general law which will cover other diseases, and vastly enhance the serums which have been tried in their treatment.

Ramored Burns Plans to Design.
WASHINGTON, May 9.—Word that William J. Burns is preparing to resign as chief of the Justice Department's Bureau of Investigation was passed around today among his old associates in the corps of detectives who are at work here in connection with various Senate investigations. Burns himself flatly denied that his resignation had been submitted, but he prepared a statement for publication later in the day. Attorney-General Stone refused to discuss the story.

of Renomination.

By the Associated Press.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 9.—Merrill Moore, Republican Congressman from the Seventh Indiana District, which comprises Indianapolis and Marion County, apparently has been defeated for renomination by Ralph E. Updike. Returns from 136 of the 206 precincts in the district today gave Updike 27,642 votes and Moore 24,122.

Moore is the second Republican Congressman to fail of renomination. Louis Fairfield of Angola, defeated in the Twelfth District by David Hogg of Fort Wayne.

Journalism Defined and Discussed by President of American Society of EditorsFirst Requisite of Newspaper Is That It Be Salable, Casper S. Yost Says in an Address at Washington University.

Casper S. Yost, president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, and editor of the Globe, spoke to the journalism class at Washington University yesterday, on "The Profession of Journalism."

The class is taught by B. G. Riser, the study of journalism, having been introduced at the university last February.

The American Society of Newspaper Editors consists of one editor from each of about 100 leading newspapers, and its primary purpose is "maintaining the dignity and rights of the profession of journalism." It was organized two years ago.

Yost's book, "The Principles of Journalism," was published recently. In his address at the University, he said in part:

"The production of a newspaper is first of all a manufacturing enterprise. Raw materials in the form of news, of paper and ink, are assembled, put through a process of preparation by skilled workers, and by the aid of complicated mechanical devices, transformed into a newspaper, a finished product ready for market. News is bought and sold. It is purchased at a price, and it is wrapped in paper, so to speak, like any other merchandise, and sold at a price. It is business."

"First Requisite of Newspaper." "The first requisite of a newspaper is that it be salable. It may be superior from every ethical, intellectual and educational standpoint, but if it is not salable it is without value. For whatever the purpose of its production, however high the motives that prompt its creation, that purpose cannot be accomplished unless it has readers, and it will not have readers unless it continuously supplies news that interests them and that sufficiently induces them to buy."

"Selling a newspaper is a business operation. The finished newspaper is a commodity of commerce and is subject to much the same rules and principles of business as any other commodity. It is subject to the laws of supply and demand, that govern the sale and distribution of all other commodities. And in the making of a newspaper it is essential to keep in mind, at the back of the mind at least, the fact that a commodity is being produced, that something is being made for sale, and that it must have selling qualities or it is utterly worthless, even if it is a purely altruistic medium of self-expression, or designed wholly for benevolent public service."

"Whether the sale is profitable or not is another matter. It ought to be if it is to survive on its own merits, but the point I wish to impress is that the value of any paper, the influence of any paper, the service of any paper, is dependent upon qualities that make it sufficiently attractive to prompt its purchase for its intrinsic worth."

A Business and a Profession. "And these qualities must come from the practice of the profession of journalism. For journalism is a dual personality. It is a business and a profession, separate yet united, co-operating and coalescing into a concrete expression and achievement. The profession cannot exist without the business. The business of journalism must provide the essential mechanical equipment and the selling agencies before the profession can begin to operate, and after that beginning the business must maintain the profession, or both will perish. For neither can the business exist without the profession. As the bow and arrow, they are useless each without the other."

The task of the business of journalism is the publishing and marketing of the newspaper and the selling of blank space in the paper for advertising purposes. It is the task of the profession of journalism to report, collect and prepare the news for publication, to discriminate in the selection of the news to be printed, and to comment upon the news. This as an occupation is not purely commercial, mechanical or agricultural, although it may partake somewhat of all of these. It is a calling in which one must have acquired some special knowledge before one can become proficient—you would not need to be here if this were not so—and that knowledge is used to supply information, which is instruction, to guide and to advise others in the creation of public opinion, and to serve them in the art of living as well as sundry other arts.

"The profession of journalism has as its primary function and its primary duty, service, public and individual service. If it does not render service it is not journalism in the true sense, and the highest service is the best and truest journalism."

Task of Journalism. "But what is the value of the service that journalism renders and must render if it is to justify its profession and fulfill its mission? First and chiefly is the supply of information, the knowledge of current events, and of the processes of thought and action which create events. Information as to what is going on in the community, in the nation, in the world, is essential to the conduct of business of society, of government. It is essential to the individual as to the group, to the public generally. Modern civilization, with all its complex and interwoven activities, is dependent upon a continuous supply of information. Stop that supply and civilization would pause bewildered, its instrument of navigation lost, its cohesion sundered, its motive power shattered, and to the isolation and the darkness of mediocrity would follow. It is the task of journalism, the profession of journalism, to communicate and to bring nations into closer relations, by that knowledge of current events which alone can sustain the realization of common interests and common humanity."

"Public opinion is today the governing and directing power of nations and of communities. But information must precede opinion, and this is the task of journalism to supply. The news of the day, to be sure, contains much that is not informative in any constructive sense. It holds much that merely appeals to human instincts and emotions that add nothing worth while to public or private knowledge. There are some who solemnly tell us that all such news should be rejected, that journalism should confine itself to news of substance, news that is beneficially informative and instructive. But if this were done, the circulation of newspapers would be limited to the comparatively few who prefer and would be content with a service so restricted."

Must Respond to Demands. "It has been said that the first requisite of a newspaper is that it be salable. It is not salable to any sufficient degree unless it responds to some extent to the demands of human interest, and human interest, it must be recognized, is strongest in those occurrences which appeal to the emotions, to the universal and intuitive attraction of the abnormal, to the dramatic, and to the curiosity about others that is innate in all humanity. The news of every day is largely of this character, and if the newspaper is to reflect life it must reflect this character, and if it does not, it is not life. But the controlling fact is that it is news of this nature rather than news of instruction that the vast majority of people desire, and they will seldom buy what they do not want."

"Giving the people what they want" is a principle that needs to be limited in its application by consideration of decency and public welfare, but none the less it is unquestionably true that no commodity can be successfully marketed unless there is a desire for it. The newspaper is created for sale, and must be sold, if it is to render in any way the public service for which it is designed. Moreover, as a rule, the larger the sale the more extensive and the more effective the service it may render. That is not to say that a newspaper of large circulation will necessarily have more influence than one of less. The contrary may be true. The influence of a newspaper is largely dependent upon character. But it is to say that, whatever its character, any newspaper increases its influence with the increase of its readers, provided it does not lower its character in order to get them.

"But the publication of news of the character referred to, within the limitation indicated, is a necessary and legitimate means to an end, and that end is to bring before the people in larger number the substantially informative and valuable news which they ought to have, but in which they are not sufficiently interested to impel them to buy for this class of news alone."

Having such news constantly thrust before them, in company with news that appeals directly and persuasively to their wants, interest in the more important and educative news is unconsciously aroused and cultivated, just as we create an appreciation of high-class music by combining it with light compositions that appeal to popular taste. It is the task of the profession of journalism to obtain, to sift and to present the news of the day with such discrimination that entertainment and instruction shall be served in due proportion, in such form that desire will contribute to the acquisition of knowledge, and with such accuracy as to inspire confidence in its integrity."

"The profession of journalism does not create the news, and it is its presentation and the judgment responsible only for the accuracy of its presentation, and the discrimination it displays in its selection. But it creates, or should create, the opinions it expresses, and it is wholly responsible for them, and for their effects. Moreover, in their effects, the newspaper establishes its own personality, its own character, and the workings of its own conscience. It shows to its readers not only the extent of its intelligence, but the attributes of its integrity. If the news is the body of journalism, the editorial page is its soul."

"And the light of constant publicity rests upon that soul as it does upon the body. Ours is not a profession of privacy. Its work is exposed constantly to the public inspection, to public criticism or approval, to condemnation or praise. Daily it presents itself for its existence on the display of nakedness in the market place. It has its faults. So for that matter has the profession of law, of medicine, of theology, so even, I may venture to say, has the profession of teaching. There are shyers and quakers in journalism. But they cannot conceal themselves nor their shortcomings. Self-revelation is inescapable. Journalism as a profession is in the full glare of the sun. Good or bad, there it is. It is to us who are of it to consider its faults, and so far as we can to correct them. But the main thing for journalism is to realize its privileges, its opportunities and its responsibilities."

"You who are coming into the profession should do so in the conviction that it is a high and honorable calling, worthy of your best endeavors; one, however, that is essentially a profession of service, in which you can best serve yourself by serving the public."

You cannot and should not begin the business of journalism, for it is the full and equal partner in the profession. You have to create a publication that will serve and it is well for the service that this is true, for it is the ideal to the practical and compels the server to walk the same ground whereon service is to be rendered."

WHAT THE UNDISTRIBUTED PROFITS TAX WOULD MEAN TO CORPORATIONS

Provision Put in Revenue Bill in Senate Was Recommended by D. F. Houston to Bring Equality of Treatment.

BY CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, May 8.—What, exactly, is the undistributed profits tax which a coalition of Democrats and insurgents have succeeded in writing into the Senate draft of the pending revenue bill?

At present there is a flat tax of 12 1/2 per cent on the net incomes of corporations, supplemented by a tax of $1 a thousand on the value of the capital stock. The majority of the Senate Finance Committee, in reporting the bill to the Senate, proposed the abolition of the stock tax and the increase of the flat 12 1/2 per cent normal tax to a flat 14 per cent. The Senate accepted the recommendation of the committee with respect to the stock tax. Then it was faced with the problem of whether it should levy the proposed 14 per cent tax on all corporations or seek some other way of making corporation profits bear their share of the tax burden. The idea is not new. David F. Houston, when Secretary of the Treasury, recommended it in his annual report for 1920. Houston pointed out that, while individuals and partnerships pay normal taxes and surtaxes on all their net incomes, whether spent, saved or retained in their business, corporations pay only a flat normal tax on such income. It was plain, he said, that, when the excess profits tax should be repealed (and since he wrote it has been repealed), some equivalent or compensatory tax should be placed on the corporation in lieu of the surtax upon reinvested income paid by other taxpayers. Failure to impose such a heavy premium on the corporate form of business.

Boy, 3, Suffers Fractured Skull.
Edward Scheiner, 3 years old, son of Matthew Scheiner, 3324 1/2 North Eleventh street, was taken to the city hospital yesterday, suffering from a skull fracture. His mother said he had fallen against a shed while playing in the yard three weeks ago, but she had not believed his injury more than a scalp wound at the time.

which this plan could be applied, among them being the imposition of a progressive surtax that would correspond to the surtax on individual incomes. This proposal, he said, would be very advantageous to corporations with small incomes, and would involve no special complexity in operation.

Equality of Treatment.
As between corporation stockholders and other individuals, Houston said that "the undistributed profits tax appears to be the one practical means of obtaining approximate equality of treatment."

In arguing for the proposal, which the Senate adopted on Tuesday, providing for a graduated tax on undistributed profits, Senator Jones, of New Mexico, its author, and other Democrats followed the foregoing line of thought.

The question as stated by Senator Jones was whether or not a single member of 14 per cent should be levied on all corporations regardless of their size and their relative prosperity.

ADMIT PLOT TO WRECK TRAIN

Two Negroes Confess Spreading Rails on Oklahoma Bridge.

By the Associated Press.

MUSKOGEE, Ok., May 4.—Two negroes here have confessed, according to officers, to an attempt to wreck the fast Frisco passenger train, Governor at Creekola, last Friday. The prisoners are Hugo Lockett and Cecil Robinson. Two others, John Totross and John Brown, named in the confessions are being sought.

Rails were spread on a 200-foot bridge near the town of Creekola and an unscheduled freight, traveling 20 minutes ahead of the Governor was wrecked. Officers said the negroes "stayed in their confessions that they had planned to rob the passengers, had the train been wrecked. The bridge spans a gully 30 feet deep.

LANGLEY TAKES WITNESS STAND IN OWN DEFENSE

Kentucky Congressman, Accused of Conspiracy in Liquor Removal, Is First to Testify for Himself.

By the Associated Press.

COVINGTON, Ky., May 3.—Congressman John W. Langley (Rep.), Kentucky, on trial in Federal Court here with two codefendants for conspiracy against the Government through illegal removal of 1400 cases of whisky from the Belle of Anderson distillery, near Lawrenceburg, Ky., in 1921, this afternoon took the stand as the first witness in his own defense. Milton Lipschutz and Albert F. Slater, both of Philadelphia, and defendants with Langley, also will testify in their own behalf.

Mrs. Elias H. Mortimer, wife of the Government's star witness, was subpoenaed by the defense and will be used by Langley in an effort to offset testimony by her husband.

Langley answered questions on his early life put by Attorney Henry Davis of Washington and seemed wholly at ease.

Gov. Fields Defense Witness. Gov. W. J. Fields of Kentucky is expected to take the witness stand and testify as to the character of Langley. Fields has been in constant attendance on the court since the trial started Tuesday and is one of the many Kentuckians who have been subpoenaed by Langley, including Congressman Arthur B. Rouse and Ben Johnson, both Democrats, from Kentucky.

The Government closed its case shortly after court convened today, and counsel for Langley immediately began his defense.

Attorney W. K. Gray of Philadelphia, representing Lipschutz and Slater, filed a motion to take Slater's case from the jury on the ground that only one witness has testified against the defendant and the testimony offered was not such as to make a case for the Government.

Motions to Dismiss Overruled.

Davis filed a like motion on behalf of Langley, alleging that Langley was indicted only for conspiracy and the charge had not been sustained.

The jury was withdrawn while the motions were argued. Judge A. M. J. Cochran overruled both motions and also one filed in behalf of Lipschutz.

The Congressman has held his office continuously here since 1907, each time winning his party's nomination by a comfortable majority. He had expected to make the race for the United States Senate this year and will yet announce if acquitted, he told friends.

He is charged, with Lipschutz and Slater, of attempting to defraud the Government of liquor taxes by removal of whisky, ostensibly for medicinal use when it was sold by others for beverage purposes.

Mortimer Tells of More Deals With Whisky Men.

Elias H. Mortimer of New York and Washington, who testified against Langley Wednesday, was recalled to the stand by defense counsel yesterday for cross-examination and recited more details of alleged transactions between Langley and whisky men. E. S. Langley, the Congressman's brother, who is in Government service in New York, figured in Mortimer's testimony. The witness read a letter from the Congressman to his brother concerning Mortimer and a "matter" of business which he would discuss with him when he (Mortimer) arrived in New York. "It will be beneficial to you and will help me in my campaign for the United States Senate in 1924," the letter read.

Mortimer gave further evidence on loans he made to Langley and read a letter from Langley to himself complaining because of the sale of the two notes to other persons who insisted on immediate payment. The witness touched on conditions in Pennsylvania and other states and said that Langley had been involved in other transactions which netted considerable revenue to the Congressman.

Records of Bank Deposits. District Attorney Smith also succeeded in getting into the evidence records from banks showing deposits by Langley at about the time of loans mentioned by Mortimer.

Gus Schwarzkopf of Philadelphia substantiated testimony by Mortimer and others that Carey and Ruth, who have pleaded guilty to the conspiracy charges, and Thomas F. Finn, Columbus, O., had paid $30,000 for a permit to move 1400 cases of whisky from the Kentucky distillery to Philadelphia. He testified that the money was paid to Lipschutz in his presence. He did not connect Langley with the money end of the transaction only through Mortimer, who, he testified, was the man "who fixed things in Washington" and was associated with Langley.

The Government has sought to develop its case on testimony of witnesses who admit having been parties to the transactions in 1921. The evidence against Langley centers on money he is alleged to have received for using his influence in the issuance of illegal permits for removal of whisky from the Belle of Anderson distillery at Lawrenceburg, Ky., and on a conference he is alleged to have had in Louisville with Federal Prohibition Director Sam Collins of Kentucky, at which he is alleged to have used threats to get Collins to sign permits. On this conference and others with his associates hinges the conspiracy complaints.

Dallinger Out for Senate.
WASHINGTON, May 3.—Representative Dallinger of the Eighty-first Massachusetts District, announced last night that he was a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator. He reached the decision after receiving a telegram from Gov. Cox stating that he would not enter the race, and in reply wired the Governor that "I would very much appreciate your support."

ENDS LEGAL FIGHT TO ESCAPE PRISON

JULES (NICKY) ARNSTEIN.

'NICKY' ARNSTEIN READY FOR PRISON

Appears in Court to Begin Two-Year Term for Bond Thefts.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 9.—Jules
W. (Nicky) Arnstein has accepted defeat in his remarkable battle to escape a prison term for conspiracy to bring into Washington securities stolen from Wall street messengers.

With Isadore Cohn, Arnstein appeared in the District of Columbia Supreme Court yesterday and announced he was ready to begin his sentence of two years, which has been fought through every available court. He was taken to a cell in a Washington jail and there joined Norman S. Bowles, Washington lawyer, and David W. Sullivan, and Wiles W. Easterday, convicted with him.

Arnstein did not go to jail, however, without one last request. He wanted to be sent to Atlanta penitentiary instead of to Leavenworth, but the Court advised him that he would have to make the request of the Department of Justice.

Surrendered After Futile Search.
The legal battles of Arnstein began soon after he surrendered himself in New York, May 15, 1932
At that time, accused of being the "master mind" in a $5,000,000 bond theft conspiracy, he led police to search in every part of the world for him, but finally surrendered. He put a dramatic touch to his surrender, however, by riding alongside a parade of 10,000
New York policemen, and then proceeding to the District Attorney with the request to be taken into custody.

It required two trials to convict Arnstein and then the case was bitterly fought through to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Nattily Dressed and Smiling.
Several days ago the $10,000 bonds of Arnstein and Cohn were forfeited and bench warrants were issued for them. With Cohn, Arnstein walked into court, nattily dressed and smiling. He asked Justice Hiss to co-operate with him in having him sent to Atlanta at once. When the Justice announced that he had no discretion in the choice of the prison to which Arnstein must go, the latter made no further complaint, and announced his readiness to proceed to jail.

Arnstein's fight in courts here began three years ago and he has been at liberty the greater part of the intervening time.

When One Bear Killed Another At The Zoo.

The news was on every lip... there was far more comment and interest than as if the lives of two of our young men had been at stake.

Yet any young man has far more potential good or evil in him than all the bears that ever battled.

St. Louis is now being asked to consider its young men seriously.

Many of them, today, due to lack of Y. M. C. A. Buildings and Equipment, are depending for their guidance on the questionable "soft drink parlor," the vicious dance hall, or worse.

It's easy to drift! St. Louis itself has drifted. Sixth in population, it is now 42nd in young men's clubs.

Why blame the boys?

Give them athletics... gyms... swimming holes... good books and companions...
Night Schools... something decent to do.
They're not naturally bad. They are born clean and wholesome. Only our neglect and carelessness can send them to the Devil.
The "Y" needs $3,000,000 to build... to build character. Let's AT LEAST give our young men the same thought and equipment that we give the bears out in the park.

TANNENBAUM PRAISES OBREGON'S POLICY

Sociologist and Writer, in Talk at City Club, Describes Mexican Conditions.

Mexico's future industrial, economic and social development lies in continuous adherence to the policy of the present administration under President Obregon, under which is being developed the labor movement, said Frank Tannenbaum of New York, trades union advocate, sociologist, writer and lecturer, who spoke at noon today at the City Club.

Tannenbaum has just returned from Mexico, where he spent considerable time gathering material on the labor movement there for a series of magazine stories.

Author of Several Books. He was a union machinist by trade, has been graduated from Columbia University and has written several books, among them one on the labor movement in America, in which he holds that organized labor is the greatest factor for democracy in America, and another on conditions in the South, in which he discusses at some length the demoralizing influences of the Ku Klux Klan.

He will address the Town Club tonight on what he knows of American prisons, in which he will seek to show prison life contributes largely to making a professional of the criminal.

The struggle in Mexico, he said, at the City Club, is for racial, industrial and social equality, underlying which is the struggle of the Indian to regain lost power wrested from him 400 years ago by the white man who came from Spain with his feudal institutions and set them up in Mexico.

There have been 72 different governments in Mexico since 1821, only six of which came in legally, said Tannenbaum. These revolutions, he said, have been struggles of the Indians to regain power, and not until the Obregon Government was established did they get in a measure what they have long fought for—land, water and schools.

Obregon's Policies. Under previous governments the Indian was a peon and held no lands, which debarrd him from social equality, except in some cases of intermarriage with whites. President Obregon, said the speaker, is of the Yaqui Indian group, and promptly arranged for distribution of land, establishment of schools and a general improvement of sociological conditions. Added to this was encouragement of labor organizations, and today, said Tannenbaum, there are about 800,000 organized workers in Mexico.

The revolution against the Obregon administration which recently failed, said Tannenbaum, is the only revolution in Mexico that has failed, and this was owing to the fact that the organized working classes voluntarily went to the aid of the Government. The defeat of De la Huerta, he said, was in reality a defeat of the old military regime that sought to regain power and prevent the making of a new Mexico.

President Obregon, he said, is well entrenched by reason of the fact that his administration is founded on democratic principles, which, the speaker believes, will insure an enduring peace in the land for our Southern neighbor.

Tannenbaum, who has made a comprehensive study of the American prison system, says that the system is wrong in that it compels the prisoner to live in terms of his past experiences, which may have been criminal, and does not bring him out of himself and create interest in contemporary life. Present day prison life, he said, over-emphasizes past experiences in the man, who, when liberated, goes out into the world to feed those passions. The old system, which is being reformed, he said, was to fight the Warden; the new system teaches the prisoner that that is wrong, and places him on his honor among his fellow prisoners, whose approval he would seek to that of others, because he is one of them.

RAILROAD CONTRACTOR LOSES
LEG UNDER FREIGHT TRAIN

John Mulville of Alton Run Over While Directing Track Laying at Plainview.

John Mulville, a member of the contracting firm of Mulville Bros., of Alton, lost his left leg below the knee yesterday when he was struck by a fast freight on the Chicago & Alton Railroad, at Plainview, north of Alton. Mulville was in charge of laying a double track for the C. & A.

The new track had just been completed, but had not been placed in service. For some reason the northbound train was started over the new track and Mulville did not hear its approach until it was too late. His leg was badly mangled and amputation was made necessary at St. Joseph's Hospital in Alton, where the injured man was moved.

$8500 Taken in Chicago Bank Holdup.

CHICAGO, May 9.—During the business lull at noon yesterday four men, armed, entered the Berwyn State Bank at Berwyn, a suburb, thrust four employees into the directors' room and escaped with $8500 in currency.

ORIGIN OF HEIER'S RELIGIOUS CHARGE STILL A MYSTERY

School Board Member Apologizes to Principal but Offers No Explanation for Statements.

ADMITS HE MADE FALSE ACCUSATIONS

Had Said He Found Teachers Instructing Children in Catholic Songs and Prayers in O'Fallon School.

It is not safe to tell stories about a teacher that are not so. Many a schoolboy has learned this by painful experience, and Henry Heier has now discovered that the same rule applies even to members of the Board of Education.

Heier appeared before a group of his fellow-members of the board in Supt. Maddox's office yesterday afternoon, and apologized to Miss Anna J. Kelley, principal of the O'Fallon School, for having said falsely that she had caused religious exercises to be conducted in the school at 1409 North Fifteenth street. He apologized Monday to Richard Murphy, a member of the board, for having said that Murphy had sanctioned this supposed violation of the board's rules.

Bulletin Issued.
The official bulletin of the matter, given out at the superintendent's office, was:

At a meeting of the Committee on Instruction held in the office of the superintendent Thursday afternoon, May 8, Henry Heier, member of the Board of Education, acknowledged as false charges which he had made against Miss Anna J. Kelley relative to conducting religious exercises in the O'Fallon school. In the presence of Supt. John J. Maddox, H. F. Fahrenkrog, John C. Tobin, Mrs. Elias Michael, Richard Murphy, Ben Weiss and Arthur A. Blumeyer, Mr. Heier apologized to Miss Kelley for the false statements which he had made.

After the apology the Committee on Instruction voted unanimously, all other members of the board concurring, to exonerate completely and fully Miss Kelley and each of her teachers. Members said Heier's apology was "Miss Kelley. I desire to tell you that my statement was false and had no basis of fact. I am sorry this occurred, and that it caused unpleasantness for you."

Does Not Explain Story.
He did not explain to her, and he has refused to explain to reporters, the mystery of how he came to tell the story, which was in detail, that he called at the school one morning, and saw the children praying and making the sign of the cross; that he then asked Miss Kelley for an explanation, and that she said Murphy knew all about it and had sanctioned it; also that Miss Kelley went later to Murphy, and was advised by him to "blow over" until the matter should blow over.

Principal is Puzzled.
"I am as frankly puzzled as anyone as to the origin of the stories," said Miss Kelley, the principal. "These were to the effect that certain of our teachers were teaching Catholic songs and prayers. Considering that we have teachers and pupils of all denominations this would have been impossible, without being widely reported. We have a great number of Italian children of Catholic faith, but we also have many Jewish children, and they would have been quicker to resent such practices than even the Protestant children."

Mr. Heier made one visit to the school. He said he made a second visit and heard the singing in the afternoon. He again was mistaken, for we have singing exercises only in the morning. He made his charges to another board member, who in turn reported to Superintendent Maddox, who, of course, promptly summoned me. I feel these charges may be traceable to influence which are abroad in the land, and I certainly esteem and appreciate highly the action of the board in completely exonerating myself and the teachers under me.

Miss Kelley said she was satisfied with the apology. Murphy said the same previously. It is not now known that anyone intends to move the expulsion of Heier from the board, though such a course was being considered before he showed his willingness to apologize. The board holds its regular monthly meeting Tuesday night. Heier has still three years to serve as a member of the board. He is a member of the Finance Committee.

Former Official Tells Sen-

FAVORS ERASING OF
THE PARTY CIRCLE

Declines to Yield to Demands That He Call on Republicans Not to Scratch Ballots.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 9.—Officials of the Ku Klux Klan interested themselves to aid the election of Senator Mayfield (Dem.) of Texas, in 1922. It was testified today by Former Representative R.
L. Henry, at the Senate hearing on the contest for Mayfield's seat.

Henry, a primary candidate against Mayfield, said that on May 21, at Paris, Texas, he was called into conference by Dr. H. W.
Evans, now Imperial Wizard of the Klan, and other Klan leaders in Texas, to get the field clear for Mayfield. Evans, Henry said, wanted "one of the two Klan candidates eliminated."

Senator King (Dem.) of Utah, objected to Henry's story as irrelevant, but was overruled by Chairman Spencer.

By the Associated Press.
LINCOLN, Neb., May 9.—Advocacy of abolition of the party designation on state office ballots to "make it impossible to thus vote a straight ticket" and expression of belief that because he was nominated on the Republican ticket, he is not "obliged to help elect every one on the same ticket," as contained in a letter from United States Senator George W. Norris to his primary campaign manager,
C. A. Sorenson of Lincoln, made public yesterday, marks no radical departure from the previous stand of Senator Norris. Sorenson said last night.

Sorenson asserted that the letter was but "a repetition of the Senator's previous opinions," and said he believed Norris would make nonpolitical selection of State and county officers a point of his campaign.

Senator Norris' Letter.
The letter, dated April 20, 1924, written on stationery of the Senate Agricultural Committee, after personal salutations to Sorenson, said in part:

"I look forward to the coming campaign with a feeling that it is going to bring many unpleasant experiences. I dislike as much as any living man to have the enmity and ill-will of my fellow citizens.
I do not believe there is any man in public life who hates to go into a contest of bitterness and strife more than I do. I cannot do as many of my Republican friends will expect me to do. I already am in receipt of demands from well-meaning people, insisting that I campaign in the entire State, demanding at all times that my friends shall vote the Republican ticket straight from top to bottom.
Some of these people, of course, my enemies and will not themselves vote for me at the election. They want to get the benefit of what little influence I may have, however, to elect men primarily because they are Republicans. Of course, I cannot take such a course.

Should Vote Convictions.
"I am going to say frankly, and I honestly believe, that any man though he be the strictest kind of a Republican, who does not believe the things I stand for are right should follow his convictions and vote against me. I do this without any feeling of criminism or ill-will toward such persons, and think it is fair, if I want the rule applied to me, that I should at least make no objection
if it is applied to everybody else.
This kind of a campaign will, of course, be unsatisfactory to the man who places party before everything else.

"I wish the great bulk of the people could be brought to realize that most of these men who arranging that the ticket should be voted straight do not themselves vote it straight. They never practice what they preach. They never vote the ticket straight when they have not control in the nominations. If I had my way about it, I would abolish the party circle and make it impossible to thus vote a straight ticket.

"I would elect every officer, in the State on a non-partisan ticket and I would be perfectly willing to have that same rule applied to candidates for Congress, although I presume the party virus is so firmly established in the hearts of many of our people that it would be impossible at this time to carry the reforms that far. I would like to abolish party responsibility and in its stead establish personal responsibility. With best regards, I am, sincerely,
"G. W. NORRIS"

U. S. LOSING GRAIN MARKETS

Russians Gain Control of Baltic States and Finland.

Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.
BERLIN, April 26.—American grain has been virtually driven out of the Baltic states and Finland through Russian competition and is rapidly disappearing from the Scandinavian, German and Dutch markets before Russian grain, according to a report on Russian commerce issued in Berlin by Peter Petroff, an attaché of the Russian commercial delegation in Germany. Petroff was an early Minister of Foreign Affairs in Petrograd under the Bolshevik government and has lived for many years in England. Between Oct. 1, 1922, and Oct. 1, 1923, the report states the exports of Russia exceeded the imports by a value of 23,190,000 rubles. Grain was the chief item of export and rye was the leading product. The total grain exportation for that year was 99,123,476 pounds, the good being about 35 pounds. This was only 12.6 per cent of Russia's pre-war grain exportation. Germany and England took 53.7 per cent of Russia's exports for that year, and supplied 66.5 per cent of its imports.

MORE HOLIDAYS AND FEWER PISTOLS URGED

Missouri Welfare League Adopts Resolution Against Sale of Weapons.

The half-day weekly holiday, on grounds that overfatigue reduces resistance and so increases crime, and all possible lessening in the sale of pistols and revolvers, was advocated in resolutions adopted at the annual dinner of the Missouri Welfare League last night at Second Baptist Church.

Saturday afternoon, except in December, was suggested for the holiday in department stores, clothing and similar establishments and Thursday afternoon for grocery, meat and food stores. It was suggested that drug stores and street car and other public service organizations requiring a continuous personnel, arrange for each employee to have a half day each week off in addition to a day of rest.

Discusses Use of Jail.
The principal address by Dr. Hastings H. Hart, noted prison authority who is surveying St. Louis institutions, was an effort to awaken a conception of the jail or prison as a means to make useful citizens out of criminals, rather than as a means of punishment or revenge.

"The only right we have to send a man to the protection of society," he said, "is by law and in popular thought the idea of punishment of the prisoner is uppermost, and people often say and think that the man who has committed a nefarious crime ought to suffer. It is true that prisoners in general are ill deserving, but how shall human beings weigh and measure a man's guilt and mete out to him his exact deserts?"

"Oh, That Makes a Difference."
"Suppose two boys who have stolen an automobile are brought up for trial and the Judge sentences each of them to five years' imprisonment. It is then found that one was brought up in the slums, had very little education, no wholesome contacts to influence him and early fell in with a rough gang. 'Oh, that makes a difference,' doesn't it. 'The other comes from a family in comfortable circumstances, has been sent to church and school and has had many advantages. But further investigation discloses that this boy's father has been so busy making money he didn't have time to get acquainted with his son. The boy was overindulged and soon became a member of a reckless group. 'Oh, that makes a difference,' too."

"We never know all the circumstances. If the justification of prisons in the protection of society, the only way we can sustain that justification is so to treat men in prison that they will be better men when they come out than when they went in."

Dr. Hart said that men upon their first encounter with the law—in jail—are generally despondent and open to influence, but are met with a system of indiscriminate herding for most part in the idleness, so that the opportunity to deal constructively with them is lost. He commended Warden Hutton of the city jail for "having a way with him" and persuading men awaiting sentence to occupy themselves in keeping the jail clean, with rewards of a little better food and less rigid confinement.

Favors Segregation Women.
He "hoped and prayed" that the money appropriated for the city jail would not be expended in arranging quarters for women, and said that women could be safely handled in a dwelling house, or even a farmhouse, and would be better off away from men prisoners. Overcrowding of prisoners, he said, is productive of disease and "the worst vice human beings are capable of," and the jail, with a floor set apart for women, has cell capacity for 120 men and has had 300 men prisoners.

Dr. Hart said a farm was a necessary addition to the workhouse for prisoners unable to bear the hard work in the quarry. He referred to crowding at the House of Detention, which, his figures show, has normal space for 60 beds but has 63 beds and an average population of 70 children.

Dr. Hart is to remain in St. Louis until tomorrow to devise, at the request of Circuit Judge Ossing of the juvenile court, some plan to relieve the congestion. He is later to complete his workhouse survey. This afternoon he met members of the St. Louis County Court, the two Circuit Judges and other county officials and welfare workers at the home of Mrs. Hugh McK. Jones, to thresh out the situation in the juvenile department and the antiquated jail.

COURT WILL TRY TO PLACE DOHENY, JR., ON STAND

Orders Him to Show Cause Why He Should Not Testify Before Oil Grand Jury.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 8.—Edward L. Doheny Jr. was ordered today by Justice Hitz in the District of Columbia Supreme Court to appear May 16 to show cause why he should not be compelled to testify before the special oil grand jury.

When Doheny Jr. appeared before the jury last Tuesday he declined to testify on the ground that what he would say might tend to incriminate him. This fact was reported to the court by the grand jury, with a request that the order be issued.

FRENCH STRENGTHEN BOND WITH LATIN-AMERICANS

Devote Entire Week to Program of Reorganizing Renaissance of Latin Races.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News. Copyright, 1934.
PARIS, May 7.—France, pursuing its policy of developing ever-closer relations with Latin America, is holding a "Latin-American Week," with banquets, speeches and artistic festivals attended by the most important French statesmen, including President Millerand and Premier Poincaré, in honor of Latin-American republics. It will be recalled that an international organization of Latin newspapers was formed a few years ago under French auspices, and still is flourishing.

The objects of the present celebration, according to Henri de Jouvenel, Minister of Public Instruction, are, first, to make the Latin-American countries better known to France and the other Latin countries in Europe, and, second, to attest the unity which binds Latin America to Latin Europe.

"Tired of hearing the belittlement of the Latin," said M. de Jouvenel, "of whose decadence the newcomers of civilization are fond of speaking, we intend to impose the recognition of the Latin renaissance."

The Latin movement is a natural rejoinder to the well-known Germanic and Anglo-Saxon racial and cultural movements. Its underlying thought is that not only are the so-called Latin peoples the direct cultural descendants of classic antiquity, but that these, in and through the World War, have proved themselves at least the equals of the German-speaking and English-speaking peoples.

"Coffee is a Safe and Desirable Beverage"

Three years' Scientific Coffee Research, made by Professor SAMUEL C. PRESCOTT at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, establishes that Coffee is a good and wholesome beverage for the overwhelming majority of adults

"I WILL say that neither in the dispassionate study of the vast literature on the subject, much of which is medical literature, nor as a result of our long-continued studies, have we been forced, as scientific men, to any conviction that well-made Coffee is harmful to the great mass of consumers and, as such, dangerous to public health and welfare. On the contrary, the more deeply we have gone into this matter, the more we have read, the more we have looked up this literature in different languages, the more firmly fixed has become the belief (in fact, I might say it is a belief so strong that it is a conviction) that for the overwhelming majority of adults Coffee is a safe and desirable beverage."

This strong endorsement of Coffee is one of the conclusions reached by Professor Prescott after the most thorough investigation of Coffee ever made. His research was scientific and exhaustive, and his findings, therefore, establish the fact that Coffee is a safe and desirable beverage for the overwhelming majority of adults.

For Better Coffee Every Day, Follow These Rules

- 1—See that the Coffee is not ground too coarse.
- 2—Allow at least a tablespoonful of ground Coffee to a cup of water.
- 3—Be sure the water boils. Then pour it over the freshly ground Coffee.
- 4—Serve at once.
- 5—Never use ground Coffee a second time.
- 6—Scour the Coffee pot.

Ask your dealer or write direct to us for a copy of the NEW booklet, "For Better Coffee," which explains these rules in detail. Joint Coffee Trade Publicity Committee, 64 Water Street, New York.

The planters of San Paulo, Brazil, who produce more than half of all the Coffee used in the United States, are conducting this educational work in co-operation with the leading Coffee merchants of the United States.

$136,000 ASKED OUT OF BOND ISSUE FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT

Proposed Ordinance for Appropriation for Motorized Apparatus is Presented to Board.

A proposed ordinance appropriating $136,000 for purchase of motorized fire apparatus equipment, out of the $772,500 voted in the bond issue for that purpose, was presented to the Citizens' Supervisory Bond Issue Committee by Director of Public Safety McKelvey yesterday. It was referred to the subcommittee on public safety.

The measure calls for the purchase of six motor pumping engines, estimated cost $10,900 each; three aerial hook and ladder trucks, $15,000 each; two city service hook and ladder trucks, $900 each; two supply delivery trucks, $1000 each; one five-passenger touring car, $1600, for use of the master mechanic.

John W. Gibson, president of the Real Estate Exchange, who succeeded Owen J. McCawley as a member of the committee representing the Real Estate Exchange, and Dwight D. Currie, who, because of his election as president of the St. Louis Bar Association, succeeds W. L. Sturdevant, were both appointed members of the Public Safety Committee by Acting Chairman Scullin of the general committee.

Negro Woman Mysteriously Attacked

Mrs. Beatrice Thompson, 23 years old, of 4028 Lucky street, a negro, was found unconscious on a bed at her home yesterday afternoon, her skull having been crushed with a hammer that lay beside the bed. She was taken to City Hospital No. 2, where doctors said there was no hope for her recovery. Police have found no motive for the assault. Two young children were at the home playing when neighbors discovered the affair. The eldest, 3 years old, said "A man had hit mamma." Mrs. Thompson's husband, a janitor, was away from home at work at the time.

Charles Sharp Spends Night at Hotel—Wife Undecided About Reconciliation.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., May 2.—Charles Sharp, notion store owner, who was brought back here yesterday from Clinton, Ill., after being arrested on a charge of child abduction, went to his home after giving $500 bond. But he didn't stay there. He held a short conference with Mrs. Sharp, and then he spent the night at a hotel.

A warrant for Sharp's arrest was issued at the request of L. R. Elben, who complained that Sharp eloped on Monday with Elben's wife. Elben's three small children and Elben's Ford sedan—the sedan was but partly paid for, Elben said. Elben, accompanied by an officer from Taylorville, went to Decatur, Ill., Wednesday evening to search for his family. He didn't find them, but he found the sedan, which he drove back to Taylorville. Decatur officials are still looking for Elben's wife and children.

Son Predicts Reconciliation. Today Sharp's 15-year-old son said that his father and mother would reach a reconciliation. "They've got to," young Sharp stated. "They've got to patch it up so we can get the injunction that my mother got so my father couldn't touch his money, laid aside. There are bills that have to be paid."

Whether he found the location, he didn't say.

Rooming-House Keepers' Story. But, according to Mrs. Lillian Crum, a rooming-house keeper of Clinton, Sharp, Mrs. Elben, the three children and the Ford sedan appeared before her home Tuesday evening. They engaged a room for a week, she said. And when Sharp and Mrs. Elben drove off in the machine on one occasion, the eldest child, a boy of 4, informed Mrs. Crum that "That's not his car. It's my daddy's."

Sharp's belief that he needed a new location for his store was apparently well founded. The lease on his Taylorville site expires in October. He had been informed that his rent was to be raised. Sharp felt he would be unable to meet the demands of the owners of the property. Yesterday, his space was rented to a chain store.

"One afternoon, some years ago, I was admiring my neighbor's car. I thought it was new until he told me it was more than two years old; and that he kept it looking new by cleaning it occasionally with Common Sense. So when I bought my car, a little later, I also got a bottle of Common Sense, and used it on the car about once every five or six weeks. My car is now three years old, and the finish is perfect; with a lustre that is richer, and if anything, more beautiful than the day I first saw it in the salesroom."

If your car looks dull, and perhaps a bit commonplace, go over it with Common Sense. It is so easy to use. You will be amazed with the quick, brilliant, lasting results. And remember, it is not a "finish" nor the false lustre of a layer of wax, but your car's own original, permanent finish, sparkling again. Repainting saved and a better job done, at a cost of only $1.00.

REWARD JAPANESE HERO
Died Six From Collapsed Building in Earthquake
YOKOHAMA, April 11.—A Yokohama "riksha" puller has been awarded by the French and Japanese Governments for heroism in the earthquake disaster Sept. 1. Tomikichi Nishiwaki was in front of the Yokohama office of a French steamship company when the quake came. The building collapsed but heeding cries for aid he succeeded in pulling out of the debris the French manager for the company, his wife and four Japanese assistants. Nishiwaki then made his way to his own home nearby, to find that his wife had been crushed to death and the house burned.

'DEFENDER OF CAMERON DAM' LOSES LAST FIGHT

Backwoodsman Who Defied Corporation's Posses for Six Years, Dies at 63.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 9.—The picturesque and dramatic career of a famous figure of the old North woods logging country was brought to a close here yesterday when John Dietz, celebrated as the "defender of Cameron Dam," fought the last of his battles and lost. This time, however, his adversary was a lingering illness that for weeks had held him helpless in a local hospital, and not the Chippewa Log and Boom Co. that for six years tried with rifles and posses to drive him from his little clearing on the Thornapple River. At 63 and with the blight of 10 years of prison life upon him, he had no longer the hardihood of old that made him a respected foe in the backwoods.

Story of Cameron Dam.
It was in the days when Dietz was a young man and most of the Thornapple River region was wilderness that he staked a claim below the Cameron Dam and settled down in a cut-over area to make a farm home for his wife and children.
Above his claim was the logging territory of the Chippewa Co. which up to the time of his arrival had floated its logs down the Thornapple with nobody to object to the fact that such operations sometimes resulted in flooding the lowlands on either side of the stream. When in the spring of 1904 the opening of the dam wrought havoc on the settler's growing crops, he rebelled, posted "no trespass" signs on his farm and served notice on the lumber company that in the future he would fight any attempt to float logs down the stream. There were meetings and conferences, but no agreement on a settlement and Dietz, with what armed force he could muster from his family, became a law unto himself. The lumber company obtained an injunction against him, he violated the injunction and the six-year siege of Cameron Dam began.
In May, 1904, after forays of loggers had been unsuccessful, 20 armed men were sent to arrest him. Dietz, with his three sons, Clarence, Leslie and John, and two daughters, Myra and Ellen, met the posse with rifle fire. The posse returned the fire, but finally was forced to withdraw.
How the Dietzes Fought.
Two years later Sheriff Gylland, with six men, attempted again to carry the Dietz stronghold by storm and capture the defender. A battle ensued. John, the eldest, deputy sheriff, and Clarence, Dietz were wounded. And again Dietz emerged the victor. As the sorties were repeated from time to time without success, the spectacle of a lone backwoodsman with only the aid of a few children, standing off a powerful corporation appealed strongly to the public's sporting instinct and Dietz became a popular hero in the timber country.
The beginning of the end for Dietz came in September, 1910, more than six years after the outbreak of hostilities. He chanced to visit Winter, Wis., became embroiled in an altercation with Bert Horel over an election argument and Horel was shot. Dietz barricaded himself and again fought off the officers, and a month later, Sheriff Madden, believing that he could capture Dietz on the road near the farm, lay in wait for him.
Clarence, Leslie and Myra, driving to town, were halted by the police and another battle ensued, in which Myra and Clarence were captured. Myra was taken to a hospital to be treated for her injuries and Dietz threatened to come to town and take her from the officers.
On Oct. 3 a posse was thrown about the Dietz home, prepared to remain until Dietz had been "starved out." The next day they drew in closer, and the following day Gov. Davidson sent representatives to Dietz urging him to surrender and promising him a fair trial. Dietz refused and the Attorney-General's office ordered the county officers to "do their duty."

It was Oct. 8 when the posse closed in. Dietz replied with lead. Dietz's wife and his children were cowering in the corners when the battle was ended. Meanwhile a Deputy Sheriff, Oscar Harp, had been killed.
Dietz, wounded, listened to the advice of his wife late in the afternoon and little Ellen Dietz was sent out carrying a white cloth, a flag of truce. A priest was the first to enter the house, and it was then that Dietz went into a cell and ultimately to trial for murder. Various charges preferred against other members of the family were dismissed.
Dietz was convicted and sentenced to serve the remainder of his life in the State Penitentiary, but was liberated in May, 1921, on a pardon granted by Gov. John M. Blaine. For the last year or more he had been in failing health and recently was taken to a hospital. Late yesterday he made his last stand.

MAN STEPS ON EXPLOSIVE WHICH LATER WRECKS FENCE

George Kiebach, a laborer for the Stolze Lumber Co., of Edwardsville, is glad that he stepped lightly on a bottle in the lumber yard this morning. After tripping on the bottle Kiebach threw it against a fence. An explosion that wrecked the fence followed. It was recalled that yegmen were discovered preparing to blow the safe in the lumber company office last month. It is believed the bottle, containing nitro-glycerin, was dropped in the lumber yard by the safe-blowers when they fled. Kiebach, who was standing about 40 feet from the fence against which he hurled the bottle, was uninjured by the explosion.

BROWNS' PENNANT HOPES GROW WITH "ARRIVAL" OF ERNIE WINGARD

Sisler's Semipro Hurler Again Proves His Worth By Defeating the Indians

Success of Former Alabama University Student Gives Browns Badly Needed Aid in Pitching Department — Left Hander Quit School Because He Loved to Play.

By J. Roy Stockton,
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

BOSTON, May 9.—Story manufacturers are busy with tales about young Ernest Wingard, the slender left-hander from Alabama University, whose arrival as a pitcher of winning ball games makes the Browns a strong contender for the American League championship.

One yarn pictures the swarthy-skinned son of the South as riding from his home among Alabama stumps to Montgomery on a raw-boned white mule. Another is that he was a ploughboy on a barren farm in Alabama, and that he learned to be a wide awake jumping stumps as he guided mules through the fields. They call Wingard a "stump-jumper," a plow-jockey, a mule-skinner—anything that connotes the rural.

Ernest Wingard was born in Prattville, Ala., and for 10 years or more he has lived at Hopewell, Ala. His family owns a sawmill at Hopewell, and as far as finances are concerned, it took major league scouts three years to lure him from his home to the life of a ballplayer.

Didn't Need the Money.

The scouts would have failed again in 1923 if it had not been for a rule adopted by Southern universities prohibiting students from playing summer baseball. Wingard always did like to play ball. Not that he needed the money especially.

And when he was barred from the Alabama varsity nine for having played summer ball he headed the call of opportunity to play big league baseball and he signed on the dotted line for Pat Monahan, Browns scout who holds the prize world's record for never having seen a bad ballplayer. Pat didn't have to look over Wingard much. The skinny left-hander's record of 49 victories and a dozen defeats in semi-pro games at Bostrop and through Louisiana and Alabama was strong enough to make any scout go the limit in signing him for a tryout.

"Wingard Has Courage and Uses His Brains to Get Results," Sisler Says

"Wingard is the ideal type of young ball player," said Sisler yesterday. "He gives the impression of being shy, but he has as much nerve as Karp. He is not brazen, however, and perhaps his nerve should be called courage."

"Too many recruits sit on the bench during a game and loaf, or tell a few stories or try to think of something smart to say to the crowd," Wingard has his mind on the ball game all the time and wants to know what kind of a ball this batter hit and that batter missed. He apparently has catalogued his information and his familiarity with the players we have met thus far this year is a revelation. He doesn't have to be told how to pitch to many batters. In other words he is that wonderful find—a young pitcher who knows that most of the pitching is done with the brain and that the arm is just something to carry out the will of the brain."

Wingard Uses His Wits.

In yesterday's game Wingard found himself in trouble in the eighth inning, with men on first and second. Joe Sewell, a dangerous man in the pinch was at bat. But Wingard had known Joe Sewell, when Joe was a student at Alabama University and he decided to tell Wingard that he didn't like to hit balls pitched low and in close. And that's all Wingard gave him yesterday. And in that eighth inning Sewell swung at one low and in close and hit it to the box and Wingard threw him out to end the inning.

Wingard intends to return to school. He wants to study commerce and finance, so when the time comes he can step in and handle the sawmill at Hopewell for the Wingard family. But he's in no hurry. And a few thousand dollars of pennant money would help him have a good time while he finished paint in the corner of a sunset scene. Nobody saw him. He was just there. The first attention he attracted was by his queer delivery. He seemed to stick the ball in his back pocket and pitch it from his pocket with the same motion. The ball came from somewhere behind his back and was delivered with a queer motion that made it appear that he had not straightened out his arm.

Browns-Boston Game Postponed

BOSTON, May 9.—THE opening game of the series between the Browns and Boston, scheduled to be played here this afternoon, was postponed because of wet grounds and cold weather.

Sisler's Eye on Wingard.

Sisler, early in the training trip, picked Wingard as one of the four most promising pitching recruits. The others were George Lovens, Olen Voigt and George Grant. Because of his shyness and the fact that he was considered raw as recruits go, Wingard was named last. He was the last and the Browns consider him the prize "find" of the year. The players freely state that he may be the added strength that the team needs to win the pennant.

Sisler Gets First Homer.

George Sisler got his first homer of the year yesterday. He cracked a fast ball over the 42-foot right-field wall in Cleveland with Ellerbe on base.

McManus drove in another first inning run yesterday. It was the fourth straight time that Mack delivered in a first inning pinch. Two were down yesterday when Sisler singled, Williams walked and McManus singled.

They Scored a Hit At Western Trials By Clever Boxing

By Herman Wecke.

John Lavan, veteran shortstop, has been given his unconditional release by the Cardinals. It was announced last night by Manager Branch Rickey. The dropping of Lavan marks the passing of a player who, not many years ago, was regarded as one of the best defensive shortstops ever owned by a St. Louis club.

John Lavan, 33-year-old, was 23 years of age, is through as a major leaguer.

Never regarded as a heavy hitter, his best season in the majors in 1920, when he hitting .289. Lavan remained in the big tent because of his ability on the defense. When in his prime, Lavan could go to either side to snare grounders and had a wonderful arm. He had few equals at trapping a man off the second sack.

Lavan still possesses that wonderful arm. He can throw with our arm. He is still a cat at trapping a man off the pivot station. But Lavan's speed is gone. He can no longer cover ground. And that, in the main, is the reason for the action taken yesterday by the Short Holes' leader.

The shortstop has been on the down grade for the past three years. Last season he played but 40 games at his regular position and was no longer regarded as one of the mainstays in the club defense. Lavan hit but .198 in 1923, while his fielding percentage showed him with a mark of but .924 in 46 chances.

"Come to Majors in 1913.

It was Rickey who obtained Lavan for the Browns in 1913. The shortstop came from Michigan U. That same season he was sent to Connie Mack and got in on a share of the world's series money. He returned to the Browns in 1914 and in 1915 was traded with Barney Schott to Washington. After a season with the Nationals, Lavan broke his ankle in a game in Cuba while in the service of the United States and he was obtained by Rickey for the Cardinals. He came back to St. Louis in 1919. The next year, he did his best work as a major leaguer, finishing with a swat mark of .289 in 142 games. The next year he ended .259 in 150 and from then on there was a continual drop.

The shortstop is a "10-year man" and therefore was entitled to an unconditional release.

With Lavan gone, George Toporcer, Ray Blades and "Wattie" Holm will be the reserve infielders for the Cardinals. Toporcer is the only regular infielder of the club. Blades has been playing the outfield, and in making the announcement that he would be used as utility infielder, Rickey asserted, he had no idea of switching him from the outfield. "Blades will remain in the outfield and he will be better than ever," Rickey stated.

Holm, this spring, has been working out behind the bat, and Rickey regards him as a real prospect.

Hendricks Boosts Conner.

"Jimmy Conner is a better ballplayer than most people give him credit for being and I will miss my guess badly if he does not make good with the Cardinals." Thus spoke Jack Hendricks, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, yesterday while watching his athletes go through a batting and fielding practice at Spangenberg's Park. Hendricks should know whereof he speaks, as he had a chance to watch Conner regularly during the three years he was manager of the Indianapolis club.

"Conner, I think, is a better fielder than Glenn Wright, who is starting with Pittsburgh. He is not as erratic. He is a great man on double plays and is a wonderful base runner. Conner does not make mistakes like that. I do not know anything about ballplayers," continued the leader of the Reds.

Conner worked out at shortstop with the Cardinals yesterday. He went through the long infield drill and he hit them to his left, but always the new short fielder came up clean with an especially hard hit smash.

get sore and have to hit him real hard," said Sansone with a grin. Mike won two fights. He knocked out Walgren of the Kansas Aggies in the first bout and beat McVey on points in the final. He knocked McVey down twice in the third round. The fans called Sansone "Little Flinger." He's a boxing little 112-pounder.

Sansone has been rugged since 1922. He is a fair boxer and a terrific hitter. He has been working out at the Business Men's Athletic Association gymnasium with Johnny "Pee-wee" Kaiser and the national finals.

Mohata and Sansone represented the Business Men's Athletic Association and Johnson and Eddie Reith were the St. Louis Rowing Club colors. They were coached by Tommy Bramell.

St. Louis Boxers Win Applause But Lose Bouts at Kansas City

Bill Johnson and Gus Budde, the Team Manager, Also Lose Their Jobs—Sansone to Train for Finals at Boston.

By Dent McKimling.

In this day of cries of professionalism and selfishness in sports it may be refreshing to know that two St. Louis boys forfeited their jobs in order to represent this city at Kansas City in the Western A. A. U. boxing tournament a few days ago.

Bill Johnson, 135-pound amateur boxer, and Gus Budde, 20-year-old manager of the team of four boxers, returned home yesterday, delighted with the fact that Kansas City fans had applauded the efforts of the St. Louis boxers, but disturbed by the knowledge that they had lost their jobs.

Little Willie Reith, another member of the small party of invaders, paid his own way "just to be with the boys."

"We had a great time. The Kansas City Athletic Club made us their guests and Dr. Reilly showed us the town. Mike Sansone was the only one of the party who didn't enjoy himself and he was because I wouldn't let him eat French-fried potatoes," said Budde today. "Our training rules prohibited potatoes, but Mike ordered them at every meal and I had to sweep them off his plate and eat a double portion myself."

Sansone went to Boston. Sansone was the only one of the four boxers who was successful in the finals. He will be sent to Boston to appear in the National A. A. U. championship tournament next month. The winners at Boston will make up the American Olympic boxing team.

"Bill Johnson and Eddie Reith should have been awarded winners in their bouts, I believe," Budde said in discussing the showing of the St. Louis team.

"Mohata, the other member of our squad, was really outpointed, but Johnson scored a knockout and had the better of Rocky Coffman of Omaha. Coffman, though, is a hard hitter. His nose is smashed up and his ears are big as baseball. He is a tough fighter and has a fine chance to win at Boston."

"They all had tin ears," said Willie Reith. "Our boys fought clean, never hitting on the breakaway. The fans cheered for St. Louis in every bout."

"Break Clean or Else."

"I told that last fellow I fought, McVey, to break clean or else I'd come up with the ball. It was a treat to watch him field made hope in the practice. Conner does not possess the throwing arm of Howard Freigau, but he manages to get the ball across the diamond in good style.

Manager Rickey occupied a seat in one of the boxes during the practice. He watched the athletes in practice, Rickey asserted, that was now well pleased with the prospects of his team. But Rickey was particularly enthused over Howard Freigau. "That boy is going to be the best fielding third sacker in the league, or I miss my guess," was Rickey's statement after Howard came up clean with an especially hard hit smash.

He was a fair boxer and a terrific hitter. He has been working out at the Business Men's Athletic Association gymnasium with Johnny "Pee-wee" Kaiser and the national finals.

Tennis Team to Play in Olympic Games Selected

Williams, Richards, Hunter and Washburn to Represent United States.

NEW YORK, May 9.—The American Olympic men's tennis team which will compete in the international tournament at Paris in 1924 will be composed of:

R. Norris Williams of Philadelphia, captain.

Vincent Richards of New York.

Francis T. Hunter, Beckley, Va.

Watson M. Washburn of New York.

Final selection of the team was announced by the Davis Cup Tennis Association after Richard Williams, who has been employed by a New York agency to cover the Olympics, was given a week's leave of absence which will permit him to play in Paris in conformance with the Olympic player-writer rule.

Williams recently withdrew his resignation from the team when it was learned that his status would be cleared.

Hunter, No. 5 on the national ranking list, was named to fill the vacancy left by William T. Tilden, national champion, who has signed from both the Olympic and Davis Cup teams over the player-writer issue.

All four players will compete in the singles while the doubles combinations probably will be Hunter, Richards and Williams-Washburn.

At Columbus.

BOOKS REAP HARVEST ON WITHDRAWAL OF SARAZEN AND ST. JAMES

Mishaps to Preakness and Derby Favorites to Cost Backers Many Thousands

Widener's Big Colt Lamed Yesterday by Hard Workout in Mud and Cancellation of Stable Reservation at Pimlico Follows — Mad Play Now Attracting Attention.

NEW YORK, May 9.—St. James, winner of the Futurity last September and conqueror of Zev in the Paumonok Handicap on the opening day of the current season, will not go to the post in the Preakness Stakes of $50,000 next Monday, and is also probably out of the Kentucky Derby.

George D. Widener's good three-year-old pulled up slightly lame after working a mile and a furlong in 1:37 2-5 in the mud at Belmont Park yesterday morning, and Jack Jockey, his trainer, was forced to cancel the reservation for Baltimore the afternoon.

The news came as a great disappointment to the thousands of backers who stand to reap a harvest in the withdrawal.

Great concern was expressed among horsemen and racegoers at the cancellation of the Kentucky Derby, which is the most important race of the season.

Both horses have been heavily played in local turf exchange and the bookies would feel like celebrating, except for the fact that Black Gold has been so heavily played at prices as high as 40 to 1 that they stand to have their Sarazen and St. James profits wiped out.

"Black Gold is the best played horse in the Derby," Tom Kearney, St. Louis turfman, said. "His price has dropped to such an extent that it is impossible to lay off the load the books are carrying. A victory for the son of Black Toney might crimp some of the speculators."

Black Gold was 8 or 7 to 1 in the morning, but he was in the days when he rode Ten Broeck and other famous racers of a half century ago. He rarely misses a day at Churchill Downs and with his split second watch catches the trials of every worth while horse sent for speed on the course.

Walker is a close student of breeding and is especially well versed on all the American blood lines. He asserts that he never saw a colt that more resembled Aristides in his 3-year-old form than did Black Gold, the winner of the Blue Grass Stakes at Lexington Wednesday.

"He is about the same size and color as Aristides and has a stride similar to the great son of Leamington," Walker said today. "Aristides, strange to say, was from Lexington mare, as was also Bob Woolley the horse I rode in that Derby. Bob Woolley was also by Leamington, but he was not nearly so good a colt as Aristides."

Walker was not long riding a Derby winner for he came back in 1917, and rode Baden Baden to victory in the third Kentucky Derby.

"Baden Baden was not so much of a horse and sold in the field in the auction pool. He was a well bred colt, being by Australian, the sire of Spendthrift. He was out of a mare, though, which was a full sister to Lexington and that spelled speed and stamina," said Walker.

Indications at present point to a field of about 16 or 17 starters.

DAVIS COURT DEFEATS CANADIAN CHAMPION

By the Associated Press. WINNIPEG, Man., May 9.—With his Canadian title at stake, and a chance to meet Strangler Lewis for the world's championship, Jack Taylor, Canadian heavyweight wrestling champion, went down to defeat when he was beaten by Dick Daviscourt of Rochester, New York, after a fast match here last night.

Taylor won the first fall with a toe hold after 24 minutes 4 seconds, but Daviscourt staged a great comeback to win the final two falls with headlocks. Taylor could not fathom Daviscourt's tortuous headlock.

Daviscourt will meet Lewis in a title match here May 24.

VETERAN JOCKEY THINKS LITTLE HORSE MAY WIN KENTUCKY DERBY

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 9.—"Billy" Walker, who had the mount on Bob Woolley, in the first Kentucky Derby in 1875, was won by the "Little Red Horse," Aristides, believes a "little horse" may win the Derby.

Walker is still an enthusiastic horseman as he was in the days when he rode Ten Broeck and other famous racers of a half century ago. He rarely misses a day at Churchill Downs and with his split second watch catches the trials of every worth while horse sent for speed on the course.

Chilean Rojas to Fight Johnson in Elimination Bout

Winner of Tonight's Contest Probably Will Be Matched With Renault.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, May 9.—Quintin Rojas, one of those strong, silent men who eat raw onions and shave themselves with a stick, a breed made popular by Firpo the Furious—will tonight toss off his mask of mystery and be revealed in the candid light of public opinion as a bonanza or a lumb.

Quintin, heavyweight champion of Chile, meaning little, will daily with Floyd Johnson, came to a fight, meaning much, for 10 rounds or less at Madison Square Garden and on the outcome hangs transactions of great moment. If Quintin wins, and an inside tip says that he can and will, he will be sent after the big money, just as did Firpo before him.

General opinion says he won't. The boys have viewed his work with distaste. The gamblers think he is a chance and are offering odds of 8 to 5 on Johnson.

Horoscope favors South America. But from those close to the wheels that turn within comes the tip to look for a South American victory. They say the odds are all to the garlic, and it is reported that they are backing their judgment at the price offered.

This judgment, it is contended, is justified in view of these facts, to wit:

That Quintin, while awkward, is tough and can hit; that Johnson is merely tough. That Quintin has given evidence of being a good fighter, that Johnson knows less about this inevitable part of fighting than he does of Archimedes principle.

Newspaper judgment on the affair, however, is almost unanimously in favor of Johnson. The reporters believe Rojas is nothing more than a novice in spite of his rights and that Johnson's hardhood plus his experience gained with men like Willard, Renault, Brennan and others will bring him home in front.

Quintin Owns a Punch. Of the South American's 35 starts he ended 15 by knockouts. Once he himself forsook the perpendicular for 10 seconds in a bout with Gunboat Smith, a colored gent, not the old gunner. But later Quintin re-declared the issue by taking a decision from the colored man. That was the last he no pushover is indicated by the fact that he took Firpo for a tedious tear on another occasion.

To make tonight's business more attractive, Richard has announced that the winner will be sent out against Renault, Wills and others.

WRAY'S COLUMN

The Sure Thing Derby.

SARAZEN and St. James are out of the Derby; Wise Counselor's condition is in question; Mad Play is not yet on edge; Beau Butler and St. Louis have been beaten—one by one the horses that went to make the Jubilee Derby field stand out as potentially one of the greatest in history are dropping out of the picture.

All of which makes for a bookmaker's delight—a sure thing Derby. The bookies rake in the silent men who eat raw onions and shave themselves with a stick, a breed made popular by Firpo the Furious—will tonight toss off his mask of mystery and be revealed in the candid light of public opinion as a bonanza or a lumb.

DR. BUTLER TO URGE WET G. O. P. PLANK

Failure to Assail Prohibition
Will Threaten Loss of 11 States, He Says.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 2.—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University and a delegate to the Republican national convention in Cleveland next month, has come out squarely for the insertion of an antiprohibition plank into the 1924 Republican platform.

His declaration that his party must take that step as "the only way to get back to sound constitutional government," is the latest phase of the nation-wide controversy he stirred up 10 days ago, when, in a speech before the New York members of the Missouri Society, he launched a vigorous attack on the Volstead act, the Eighteenth Amendment and liquor law enforcement generally.

The Columbia president, in a statement yesterday, added that the Republican party stood in danger of losing 11 states in the coming presidential election if it did not take a decisive stand against the existing prohibition situation. His remarks also were construed as a challenge to the Anti-Saloon League, which he attacked in his Missouri Society talk.

Declaring he had received assurance of support from Governors of States and party leaders throughout the country, he added: "They have called my attention to the danger to the party if it fails to satisfy public opinion or if it allows itself to be allied even in appearance with the activities of the Anti-Saloon League." Should the Republican convention fail to take a platform stand against existing prohibition conditions, Butler said, it was threatened with the loss of Wisconsin, Illinois, Missouri, Delaware, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New York, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Connecticut and Massachusetts. Butler refused to state what steps, if any, he personally would take toward having the Cleveland convention nail an antiprohibition plank into the 1924 platform.

BREAD

A Powerful Story of Today
By Charles G. Norris
AUTHOR OF "BREAD" "BREAD" "BREAD"

CHAPTER TWENTY

MRS. STURGIS' false teeth had made a great improvement in her appearance, had rounded out her face, given strength to her jaw, and made her seem 10 years younger. The little woman was delighted with the effect, and was now evincing a gratified interest in her appearance. Signor Bellini had returned earlier than he expected, had already started his Monday and Tuesday classes, while Miss Loughborough's Concentration School for Young Ladies was about to open its doors, and pupils were flocking back from their vacations. And lastly, and to the girl, most important of all, Roy was returning to New York.

He would arrive in the city in a few days, and she wondered how she would feel toward him when they met. As she sat upon a park bench, enjoying the sun and the toddling children playing in the soft gravel of the pathway near by, she asked herself if she cared. She could not tell. Of far more interest to her was the prospect of work again. She had been stifled all summer by illness and heat, but now she wanted to get back to the business world and win her independence anew. Her ambition was alive; she was all eagerness to have a job once more. . . . Roy? . . . Well, it would be pleasant to have him making love to her again, to watch him tremble at her nearness.

But she found herself thrilling at the afternoon he was to see her. He had telephoned in the morning from the station, and his voice had sounded wonderfully sweet and eager. When his ring at the door announced him, her heart raced madly. Delicious tremors, one after another, coursed through her.

He came hurrying up the stairs and she met him in the studio. Their hands instantly found one another's, and they stood so a moment, smiling happily and ardently into each other's eyes; then she drifted into his arms, and it seemed the peace of the world had come.

Ah, she had forgotten how dear he was, how lovable, how sweet! It was good to have him take her to himself that way, and feel his thin arms about her, and have him hold her close against his young hard breast.

Plans—plans—they were full of them. They were engaged now; Mrs. Sturgis and Alice must be told, the father wired, and Roy must immediately set about finding a job. He had some corking letters, he told her eagerly, and he was on the trail of a splendid position already. Jeannette was going to find work, too; they would both save up all the clothes they would need, and be married—oh, some time in the spring! Roy, holding both her hands, gazed at her with shining eyes, his whole face glowing with excitement.

"O, God, Jeannette—oh, God! Just think! You and me! Married!"

It was a wonderful prospect.

In less than a week, he had obtained a promising position with Chandler B. Corey Co., publishers of high-class fiction and the best of standard books. It was a new but flourishing organization with offices on Union Square. In addition to its book business, there were two monthly magazines. The Wheel of Fortune and Corey's Commentary, and Roy was made part of the staff that secured advertisements for the pages of these periodicals. He was full of enthusiasm for his new work. Mr. Featherstone, the advertising manager, who was also a member of the firm, was the jolliest kind of a man, and the other fellows in the department, Humphrey Stubbs and Walt Chase, were "awfully nice" chaps. He was to receive from the start, $20 a week, and Mr. Featherstone promised him a raise of five dollars at the end of three months, if he made good. The gods were with them. Jeannette and he could be married early in spring.

The next day she started out to find work. She knew it would be a humbling business, but she found it worse than she feared. The advertisements for stenographers in the newspapers which she answered, all turned out to be disappointing. The most she was offered was $10 a week, and in the majority of cases only six or eight. She had made up her mind to accept nothing less than what she had earned before. She would walk out of an office into the glaring street with the prick of tears smarting her eyes, with lips that trembled, but she would vigorously shake her head, and renew her determination.

She went to interview Miss Ingram of the Gerard Commercial School, but Miss Ingram had no vacant positions on her list.

"I've never seen anything like it," the little teacher said with a forlorn air. "I've got three girls now just waiting for something to turn up, but all they want downtown are boys—boys—boys!"

Twice Jeannette had the unpleasant experience of having men to whom she applied for work lay their hands on her. One slipped his arm about her, and tried to kiss her, pressing a bushy wet mustache against her face; the other placed his fat fingers caressingly over hers and, leaning at her, promised he would find her a good job, if she'd come back later in the day. She was equal to these occasions but there was always sickening reaction that left her weak and trembling with a salt taste in her mouth. She said nothing about them at home.

Her mother and Alice, even Roy, had urged her not to go to work again. Mrs. Sturgis reiterated her original objection; Alice thought it was not necessary, that Janey had better take things easy and devote her time to wedding preparations. Roy did not like the idea, he frankly admitted, of her associating so intimately with a lot of men in an office, and, besides, it distracted her, made her nervous.

"In three months, sweetheart, I'll be getting $25 a week and we can get married. A hundred a month is enough for a while. You ought to run the table on $10 a week—your mother does that for the three of you!—and out of the remaining $80, we surely will have enough for rent, and a lot left over for clothes and theaters."

Oh, yes," Jeannette sighed wearily, "it's plenty—only I want—I want to earn some money myself. I need clothes, and I ought to have everything for a year, at least!"

September passed, and October came with a tinge of autumn, and an early touch of yellow, drifting leaves. Jeannette missed the chance of an excellent position in the manager's office of a large suit and cloak manufacturer by no more than a minute or two. She saw the other applicant enter the office just ahead of her, and was presently told the place was filled. The girl who had preceded her was Miss Flannigan!

There was another position in a lawyer's office for which she eagerly applied. She heard the salary was $25 a week, but when she was interviewed, and it was discovered she had no knowledge of legal phraseology, she was rejected.

Desperate and discouraged, she was obliged to listen in the evenings to Roy's glowing praise of his new associates, to detailed accounts of small happenings in the office, and gossip between desks. She learned all about Mr. Featherstone, his devoted and adoring wife, his small, crippled son, his own good nature, and hearty joviality. She heard a great deal about Humphrey Stubbs and Walt Chase. Stubbs, she gathered, was already Roy's enemy. He had made several efforts to discredit the newcomer, and was on the lookout for things about which to criticize him to his chief, Walt Chase, on the contrary, was amiable and inclined to be very friendly. Walt had been married less than a year, lived in Hackensack, and his wife had just had a baby.

'Tis a Woman's Privilege

To Change
Her Mind

DRAWN BY NELL BRINKLEY

THINK if a woman never changed her mind, and stuck to what she first said, refused to ever change boulders in the stream, but stood on the same one, willy-nilly, rain or shine, 'til doomsday. Life would have a good deal of the pepper taken out of it—I'm thinking, and a heap of men in the world would sit down by the roadside and yawn for that the world had suddenly—"my gosh"—gone so slack!

As it is, boys, it's a lovely, lively place. Something stirring all of the time, blasting blows lifted, down one minute and up the next, a changeable breeze, it's true—but always a breeze for your little white sails!

Even Love alone—see how he profits by the elfin quality of mind that was graciously given to Eve. And if every time Eve said "no"—when an earnest young man asked her would she come to the shelter of the warm heart under the coat on his breast—she stuck by that—and never later whispered in a fluttering little voice—"yes-yes," how few gay little birds would come dipping their colors into harbor, for the betterment of the whole wide world that looks on!

MAKING GIRLS
HOMELOVING

By WM. A. McKEEVER

YOUR girl can easily grow up in a good home without becoming conscious of its responsibilities and sacrifices. But, is that fair either to her or you, dear mother? Is it fair even to society that your little girl should be taught the ins and outs of social behavior and of public appearance without her being made aware of the routine of a wholesome, self-reliant daily life?

The mind of the growing child requires more than mere exercise for its proper growth; it requires also organization and special attention to details. What goes into the mind of your little girl today will come out as character to your grown daughter tomorrow.

No matter what the family income may be, so long as such work has to be done by the masses of women, your girl should be taught how to sew, to mend, to darn and to wash her own garments.

In the matter of training your child of any age, always observe that it is practically impossible to teach well more than one thing at a time. And the more carefully you go over the details of every operation the more quickly and permanently she will become master of those details.

A little 3-year-old sat down on the front steps and carefully brushed the mud from her shoes. "It is so I can keep the carpet from getting soiled, and if so my shoes will look nice," she explained. Now, these two matters—nice-looking shoes and clean-appearing carpets—have gone definitely and permanently into this growing character. So with the hundred and one other details of daily living.

It must be understood by mothers that each and every task is to be made the subject of definite attention and conscious practice, before it becomes a part of the permanent stock of ideas.

Of course, it is quite as bad to make a little girl a slave to routine as it is to make her oblivious of her surroundings.

An equal amount of practice in both these extremes is necessary. However, it is often the able manager of details who proves to be the most practical dreamer. He knows first of all what stuff to weave into his dreams, and he knows how to set out to make his dreams come true.

For your little girl to notice both the immediate and the remote, both the personality and the problem, both the small things and the great things, which go to make up a balanced life.

Solving the Problem of Refreshments for a Mah Jongg Party

IF YOU are thinking of giving a Mah Jongg party, the problem of refreshments has doubtless been occupying your mind. This is, however, a simple matter when you realize that like the game, they should be strictly Chinese in character and service.

Chinese hospitality is simple, but very correct for each function. To satisfy American taste, the foods may be seasoned a bit more highly and supplied in greater abundance.

Whether the party is in the evening or afternoon, the same refreshments will be correct with tea as the only beverage.

The foods should appear in at least three relays. Tea should be offered frequently both fresh and hot. Bowing to American taste, a wee bowl of lump sugar and dish of sliced lemon may appear on each tray, though lovers of real jammin' tea will drink it plain from the little handleless cups.

The tea is made by pouring boiling water into the leaves and blossoms and allowing it to steep three minutes. Then it is strained into a fresh hot pot and served.

The first offering is tea, then small portions of almond chicken and little bowls of rice. With this course comes small dishes holding minced peppers, pickled ginger, grated hard boiled eggs, finely-chopped peanuts, bits of cuttlefish and a little flask of soy sauce. The food is prepared with the idea of its being eaten with chopsticks, though probably forks will be used. Pickled shrimps may be added to the other relishes.

This course finished, the players resume the game and play until the next tea service, then they play until tea appears a second time, accompanied with a half dozen different kinds of sandwiches, cut so thin they are just a mouthful each and speared with wooden toothpicks. The last course to appear consists of sweetsmeats, preserved ginger, kumquats, melons, lichee nuts and tiny cakes covered with sweet seeds. This sounds like a lot of trouble, but the things are simple and can all be prepared beforehand. The performance but not troublesome to make or serve. If small paper plates and dishes are used, there will be but few things to wash up afterward. The wee cups may be rented if one does not care to purchase them.

Sandwich fillings may be made

FASHION FRILLS

Very large links are now the fashion in the slave chain bracelet. Every other link is set with a big, lozenge-shaped semi-precious stone.

One of the neatest types of the new street pump is in gray ocre. It is piped with very narrow bands of black patent leather stitched in silver.

White kid gloves stitched in green and rose are a spring time touch. They have buttons of pale green with rose bud centers.

A shade exceedingly popular in London just now is amber gold. It is a beautifully soft golden tint, and much favored by the Queen, to whom—a stoic most blondes—it is very becoming.

The desire for life and motion, supposedly a phase of the glad spring time, is echoed in some of the new dance frocks shown in Paris today. Being flat on the hip and wide at the hem, they have a most effective rippling swirl.

New decorations in London seem to run to fish and animals more than to flowers or geometric designs. These fish and animals are worked in very large beads, and sometimes the individual beads are decorated.

rich in the gray. The shrimps are better for being minced and put into the dressing for a time before making sandwiches, in order to flavor them through. Drain them well, then they are ready for use.

SAYINGS OF MRS. SOLOMON

By HELEN ROWLAND

DANGEROUS MIND READING.

HOW now, my Daughter! Let the women of Babylon protest! For the Sages have threatened us with Thought Transference; whereby the secrets of a woman's heart shall be laid bare to men.

Verily they are as babes that play with matches.

For lo, when all men shall read the thoughts of women, shall lose their vanity and bachelors their egotism and husbands their complacency, and all men their beautiful illusions!

For when a damsel greeteth a man, saying, "SO charming shall see written upon her brows in letters of fire, "Now, how I escape THIS bore!"

And when a damsel murmureth, "Alas, I am not a girl!" he shall discern within her eyes the warning, "Yet, help of Heaven, shall I MARRY thee!" And he shall flee!

Behold, the Bachelor shall discover that the maiden woe-suth him regardeth him not as a "golden opportunity," but as a Sheik, but as a "filler-in" at dinner parties.

And the Husband shall, peradventure, be the Big Chief, Infalible Oracle, but a wayward babe that must be cajoled and subtly bullied.

And the Tired Business Man shall learn that unto his neighbor he is not a Glorious Being and a Shining Light of Wisdom, only "a nice old Simpleton."

Yet, unto a WOMAN the New Magic of Mind Reading is as naught.

For in the reading of a man's thoughts a woman must be Thought Transference to guide her.

Lo, she knoweth that when he saith, "I adore thee!" he saith, "I love thee—a little!"

And when he voweth, "I shall love thee forever!" he saith, "I shall love thee—until next week!"

And what shall Thought Transference profit her? For it hath come to pass that all that remaineth to her of privacy are her toothbrush and her THOUGHTS!

And shall she let men rob her of these?

SELAH!

Friend or Foe?

Alas for those who cannot know
If they are meeting friend or foe.

"HELLO, what's that coming?" exclaimed the young Jerry.

Jerry Muskrat looked in the direction in which the young Chuck was looking. "It's a boat!" he exclaimed.

"It must be that those hunters are coming back."

"I don't see but one," said the young Chuck.

Jerry looked more sharply than before. There was only one. "That doesn't make much difference," Jerry said. "That one probably has a terrible gun. I'm not going to wait for him to get any nearer."

It is a pity you can't swim under water the way I can. If you lie flat on that log perhaps he won't see you. Here is hoping you have luck."

With this Jerry slipped into the water, dived and swam under water as far as he could. The young Chuck saw Jerry's head come out of water a long distance away and then disappear again.

Then the young Chuck turned anxiously to watch that boat. It was still some distance away. Perhaps it wouldn't come near enough for him to be seen. He took Jerry's advice and lay flat down on the log.

He made himself just as flat as he could.

Can you guess how he felt? I don't believe you can. There he was perfectly helpless. There wasn't a thing he could do. He could swim, but only for a short distance and in a slow and clumsy way. There was no place to swim to.

He could not dive under water as Jerry Muskrat did. There was nothing to do but stay on that old log and hope and hope that he would be seen.

Was it a friend or a foe? The young Chuck was sure it was a foe. It must be one of those unfair hunters who didn't have a bit of decency. Nearer the boat came and then it turned off. The Chuck gave a sigh of relief. His relief didn't last long. The boat turned straight toward him. He could hear the oars, and every now and then he saw the row escapes in his shirt. He had never before, but never had he

Oh, dear! oh, dear! What that boat turns and goes away!

He saw the two old logs side by side, the one on the young Chuck was laying down and the one which Jerry had been seen yet. His was that he wouldn't be. Every once in awhile he turned to see where he was.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT Lucky Homely Girls

PROF. GUYON, the man who divided his millions with the men and women who stood by him when he was a failure, the other day, says that homely girls are the best dancers.

And Prof. Guyon ought to know for he has had a dancing club in his pocket for 10 or 15 years in Chicago.

He's made a lot of money out of the dancing craze—and he loves the sounds of a saxophone and he could whistle jazz in his sleep if he wanted to.

He's seen all kinds, old and young, slim and chubby, pretty and ugly, and he has now announced to the waiting world that the pretty girl is almost always not quite as good a dancer as her homely sister.

Well, now, I wonder if that's true. Somehow, it seems to me that the pretty girl can usually sing and dance and play the ukulele and ride a horse and paddle a canoe and row a boat and swim a stream just a little better than her homely sister.

She's cut out to be attractive and her sister is cut out to be useful. She can add a column of figures, bake a pan of biscuits, cut out her own dress, make her own hats, gets herself a job—and keeps it—pretty or no pretty, and somehow she always seems to me the luckier of the two.

Look Around.

Did you ever notice how many lovely girls marry successful men? Oh, of course the great beauties have a different story, but we are not talking about beauties, we're talking about everyday, Sunday and Monday and Friday "pretty girls"—the sort that all the boys are crazy about when they first know them, the kind who have a dozen partners for every dance and half a dozen invitations for every party and they marry and settle down and in three or four years they aren't pretty at all any more—you know the type.

You've envied that sort of girl a dozen times, little Miss Plain and Sensible; you wouldn't own it for the world, but you have. She always has such good times and gets so many letters and so many telephone calls and everybody is glad to see her and the ugliest old hat in the world looks like something straight from Paris when she puts it on her curly head and nobody expects her to know anything—much—or to do anything—much.

And things are always so easy for her. But wait a minute; What sort of man does she marry as a usual thing? Look around you now and see.

Don't think of the girl you know now, think of the ones who've been married in the last two or three years.

There's Kitty, the little blonde. Dear me, what a belle Kitty was. She could have married any one of three or four nice young fellows and she chose the best dancer and the best dresser in the crowd and now they're living up in Harlem in a walk-up-all-the-way flat and Kitty hasn't been to a party for six months. Her husband says he can't afford parties. He's just a clerk and always will be just a clerk.

Think It Over.

Jane used to have the desk next to Kitty in the office, don't you remember? Quiet, sensible little thing, Jane, fresh looking and pleasant to see, but not a trace of beauty. Let's see, who was that she married, one of the boss' friends, wasn't it? They're living down in Long Island in a country house. Jane has beautiful furs now and a retinue of servants and she's a home maker and she has the dearest little boy you ever saw and she's planning to bring up a whole family of children. Her husband is fond of children and so is Jane. Oh, yes, they belong to the country club and the yacht club and all the rest of it, but they don't seem to go out much. Jane's interested in her gardening and her baby and she and John read together a great deal. Yes, Jane's certainly married well.

It's a way they have—the plain little girls who are never belles. Think of all the big men you know, men who amount to something, men who can be late at a conference and keep the others waiting if they happen to feel like it. How many of them married beauties and how many of them married nice, plain, quiet girls, just to get a nice, plain, quiet wife?

Think it over, little Miss Plain and Quiet, think it over. You'll find that the pretty girl hasn't all the cards in the deck in her own hands after all.

Have You a Paper Dress Form?

OUTSTANDING among the problems of the rural home-maker, or indeed of any house-keeper, is the making and remodeling of the family clothing, especially her own. To meet this need, extension workers co-operatively employed by the United States Department of Agriculture and State agricultural colleges have for several years taught the making of gummed paper dress forms to that any woman possessing one can fit her own garments without help. By demonstrating the method of making these forms at club meetings, a great many women have learned how to do it and have helped to make them for others. The form may be made by one person for another, but if four people join forces, two paste the paper strips on the model and two to cut and moisten the strips, the person whose form is being made will not have to stand so long.

BOBBED HAIR BANDITRY.

I'm to be held up, or eyed And of my worldly chattels stripped, I must insist on being robbed By some fair maid whose hair is bobbed.

I care not if her clothes are old, Or if she wears no rings of gold; It matters not what she may wear, As long as she has bobbed her hair.

Though she may holler, "Stick 'em up!" And treat me like a mangy pup, I will not put 'em in the air Unless I know she has bobbed hair.

'Twould peeve me if some rough-neck bloke, Beneath my nose, a gun should poke; But it's a pleasure to be robbed By some fair maid whose hair is bobbed.

AUTHORITIES TRY
OF SLAIN GIRL

Daisy Ashby Left Show in Glasgow (Mo.) Two Hours Before Reaching Home of Her Aunt.

WITNESS TELLS OF DISCOVERING BODY

Victim Had Been Stopped
While Walking Home Along Road—Two Railway Laborers Arrested.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

GLASGOW, Mo., May 10.—Authorities, endeavoring to piece together the unusual circumstances of the brutal murder of 14-year-old Daisy Ashby, whose body was found Thursday in a brush pile near her home, are centering on the girl's movements the night of her disappearance, Feb. 2, after attending a moving picture show in Glasgow.

Particularly they are seeking to learn what became of the girl from the time the show closed, about 8:30 p. m., until her appearance about midnight at the home of an aunt, from whom she borrowed a lantern, and left, presumably, by its light to trudge along two miles of lonely country road leading to her home.

Two Men Under Arrest.
At the same time the authorities have under arrest—one in jail at Kearneyville, the seat of Chariton County, and the other in jail at Fulton, the seat of Callaway County—two young railroad laborers, who were known to have been seen talking to the girl on the street here the Saturday afternoon of her disappearance. They are Fred Hagar, in the Fulton Jail, and William Dewitt, in the Kearneyville Jail, both of whom live in Gilliam, Mo.

They were arrested shortly after the girl's disappearance, which was broadcast throughout the section, and later to cities where it was thought she might have gone.
Arranged before a Justice of the Peace here at a preliminary hearing on charges of abduction, they admitted having talked to the girl on the day in question, but protested they saw her only in the afternoon. They were discharged.
Coroner Tatum of Chariton County concluded the inquest late yesterday, the jury returning a verdict of death "by strangulation at the hands of person or persons unknown." The body was then buried in Washington Cemetery.

Body Found in Brush Pile.
The farm of George Ashby, Daisy's father, lies two miles north of Glasgow, just within Chariton County, and the body was discovered on the adjacent farm of Leo Wells, who found it. It was on this farm, at a point about 40 feet from the well-traveled main road between Glasgow and Salisbury, that Wells discovered the body, partly concealed in a pile of brush, and it was here the Coroner, the Jury, Prosecuting Attorney and Sheriff viewed the body.

The body was nude and lay at the bottom of the brush heap. About the neck was tied a strip of the girl's belt. On top lay the girl's underclothing, dress, shoes, stockings and cloak, and on top of the heap was the lantern. The lid of the lantern was unlatched, indicating to some persons an intention to burn the body, a plan frustrated when the flame went out.

Tells of Discovery.
After viewing the body the Coroner, Jury and officials repaired to a neighboring barnhouse, and heard testimony. Wells told how in passing the brush heap, he was attracted by an odor, and thinking it might explain the disappearance of a missing hog, investigated. When he saw a human foot, he recalled the disappearance of Daisy Ashby and without investigating any further, drove in his automobile to his neighbor's farm.
He returned with Ashby, who identified the skeleton as that of his missing daughter, largely by the clothing.

Deputy Sheriff Overstreet exhibited a piece of the woolen belt, which he had found on the road in his investigation shortly after the girl's disappearance, and it matched the remaining strip which had been used to strangle the girl.

Though 14 years of age, Daisy looked older and was described as vivacious and attractive. She was well known in the community and two weeks before her disappearance she had joined the Presbyterian Church, at which she had been a regular Sunday school attendant.
It had been her custom to come
